WALDO CHECKS WHITMAN ALLY

Inspector Dwyer, Who Cleaned Up New Tenderloin, Loses His Best Detectives.

TRANSFER ORDER ISSUED

Inspector's Right-Hand Man and Twelve Other Trusted Aids Sent to Other Districts.

MOVE FOLLOWS SECRET CALL

Dwyer Paid Visit to Home of District Attorney—Whitman Indignant Over Transfer.

Police Commissioner Waldo, just before leaving Headquarters late yesterday afternoon, issued an order which a few minutes later put the Fourth Inspection District, better known as the New Tenderloin, in turmoil. He transferred two Lieutenants, one Sergeant, and ten first-class detectives of the staff of Inspector John F. Dwyer. All the transferred detectives were assigned to patrol duty.

On Wednesday night Dwyer made a secret trip to the apartment of District Attorney Whitman at Twenty-sixth Street and Madison Avenue. This was learned last night after the transfers had been announced.

He went at his own instigation, but was accompanied, however, by a member of Mr. Whitman's staff of assistants. Inspector Dwyer and this assistant stood in the shadows of West Twenty-sixth Street for over an hour because they saw two men on guard near the District Attorney's house. When these two men departed, Mr. Whitman's assistant conducted Inspector Dwyer to Mr. Whitman's apartment.

It appears, however, that these two men saw Inspector Dwyer enter the apartment house. It is said on good authority that Mr. Whitman has been shadowed ever since the Rosenthal murder, and that there are usually four men in citizens' clothes in West Twenty-sixth Street, between Fourth and Madison Avenues.

Mr. Whitman, when he heard of the transfer of the detectives on his return from Albany last night, was indignant.

No Explanation from Waldo.

The news of the transfers had reached every saloon in the Fourth Inspection District within an hour after the order was issued. Old-time handbook men and resort owners, who were "cleaned out" by the vigilance of Inspector Dwyer and his staff, could talk about nothing else last night. Even they expressed surprise that Inspector Dwyer should have lost all his trusted detectives in one sweep.

It was Inspector Dwyer and the men now transferred who worked up the evidence against George A. Sipp's notorious uptown resort. Dwyer also made the investigations against the Robespierre apartments in the upper Tenderloin. It was recalled also last night that Dwyer, when Mr. Whitman and Assistant District Attorney Smith started the war against graft, openly declared for a "clean city" and asserted that he would work hand in hand with the District Attorney's forces.

It was impossible last night to obtain any official explanation of the transfers or refutation of the comments openly made about them throughout the department. Commissioner Waldo left Headquarters before the changes were announced, going to his rooms at the Ritz-Carlton. There the Commissioner was inaccessible to reporters who called or attempted to telephone to him.

The new men sent to Dwyer's staff are said to be inexperienced in the handling of the work they will be required to do and are unfamiliar with the district. On this account not only will Dwyer's work be increased, but the District Attorney's efforts to investigate the graft conditions uptown will be hampered.

The men transferred have been for the most part members of Dwyer's staff ever since he was made an Inspector. They were divided by him into groups, each of which had its particular share of the work of the district to do.

Loses His Right-Hand Man.

The transfer order reached the West Sixty-eighth Street Station, the headquarters of the Fourth Inspection District, in the absence of Inspector Dwyer. Lieut. Cooper, who was in charge of the district, received the information first. Lieut. Cooper is recognized as the right-hand man of Inspector Dwyer, and he was the most surprised man in the station last night, for his own name headed the list of those transferred.

Two well-known detectives who will have to "beat the pavements" to-day are Detectives Hall and Dwyer, the latter a relative of the Inspector. Two others whose names have seldom appeared in print are known as the worst foes of the wire-tapping gang in the city. It was through the work of these detectives that the headquarters of the wire tappers was unearthed about a year ago.

Another official who will be required to do patrol duty is Detective Lieut. Fitzgibbons. There was not a nook in the Fourth District, it was said last night, that Lieuts. Cooper and Fitzgibbons did not know about. Eight detectives from the First, Second, Third, and Fifth Inspection Districts took the place of the men transferred.

Inspector Dwyer was the very first man in the Police Department to ask for leave of absence to volunteer for the Spanish-American war. He was assigned to the Harbor Patrol Squad, and his rise in the Department was rapid. He was made Captain of the West Sixty-eighth Street Station in July, 1912. When Inspector Hayes was demoted the following month, Dwyer was made an Inspector by Commissioner Waldo. This was at the time when the new Tenderloin heard nothing but echoes of the Rosenthal murder.

ART SIEGE OF MORGAN.

Hordes of Dealers Beset His Rome Hotel, but Suffer Steady Repulse.

LONDON, Saturday, March 22.—The Daily Mail's correspondent in Rome telegraphs:

"The Grand Hotel, where J. Pierpont Morgan is staying, may be compared to a closely besieged fortress. There is not an art-dealer or antiquary in Rome who is not making desperate efforts to approach the financier with the offer of some 'extraordinary bargain.'

"All sorts of odds and ends, valueless old pictures, china, lace, and the like, are unearthed from drawers and cupboards by private persons, who fondly believe that they can call on Mr. Morgan, dispose of their goods, and return home with a bundle of banknotes. Waves of these amateur art-dealers, most of whom carry mysterious bundles, sweep up on the hotel from early morning till late at night and are repulsed with the regularity of surf on the beach.

"Hundreds of letters, the majority containing photographs and pictures of statues, arrive by every post from all parts of Italy. These are dealt with by a special staff of secretaries, who after glancing at the opening lines, throw them into a huge wastepaper basket. I saw 500 letters destroyed this morning."

BANK GOT STATE'S $480,000.

Witness Tells of Records of Closed Institution Being Erased.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 21.—Erasures and ink blots were alleged to have been made on the records of the Columbus Savings Bank and Trust Company to obliterate evidence concerning the deposit of sums aggregating $480,000 of the State's money, according to the testimony of Henry W. Backhus, former Secretary and Treasurer of the defunct bank, at a hearing this afternoon.

More evidence regarding the demand of Gov. George K. Nash, made as far back as 1903, for an investigation of rumors that State funds were being illegally used by the bank, was given by Backhus. When it became known that Gov. Nash had demanded an accounting of the State's cash the following day, Backhus asserted that he and other officials of the Columbus Savings Bank and Trust Company spent a good part of that night making arrangements with other local banks for an amount of currency sufficient to meet the emergency at the State Treasurer's office.

It was announced at the Attorney General's office late to-day that the Legislature will be asked to make an appropriation of $10,000 to prosecute a thorough investigation of charges of illegal deposits of the State moneys.

NORDICA AGAINST MILITANCY.

Being Attractive Better Than Throwing Bricks, Says Singer.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, March 21.—"If I thought I could help the cause of woman's suffrage by going out and throwing a brick through a window or adopting any other militant tactics, I would do it," said Mme. Nordica here this afternoon. "But I believe in a woman being feminine and making herself as attractive as possible. By always looking her best, she gains more points And I do not approve mannish dress.

"Suffrage is not a question of sex, but of thought. Heretofore the world has been ruled by physical force, and man, having superior physical powers and endurance, dominated the woman. But things have changed. Ideas are gaining the supremacy and the thought of woman is as intelligent and as powerful as that of man."

"The first work of woman upon receiving the ballot would be to attend to the needs of women and children. Woman needs the right to make the laws, that shall govern her children. Will it change her if, when she knows a certain sum of money has been appropriated for paving the street upon which her children play, she demands to know why the paving is not done?

"You will never have peace among nations without women. You meet at The Hague, you have conferences and public addresses, and not a woman among them. Peace will never be attained in that way. The women have got to come into it. Their ideas and their work are needed."

AUTO KILLS MAN AND GIRL.

Machine Plunges Into Marsh Near Seneca Falls, Driver Losing Control.

SENECA FALLS, N. Y., March 21.—Two persons were killed and one injured to-day when an automobile plunged down a steep embankment into the water on its way through the Montezuma Marshes, five miles north of Seneca Falls. The dead are Miss Lottie Voorhees and Raymond B. Haist. Miss Myrtle Freeman was slightly burned. John O'Connor was the only occupant of the car uninjured. All came from Syracuse.

The party was riding in a car which O'Connor said was borrowed of "Jack" Colbin of Syracuse. Haist, who was steering, turned to speak to those in the back seat, when he lost control of the wheel. The car skidded off the road and landed upside down in the water. Haist was crushed to death, but Miss Voorhees was drowned. Miss Freeman was rescued just as she was about to give up the fight to keep her head above water.

MOON IN THE SHADOW.

Partial Eclipse Visible in the East Early This Morning.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Beginning at 5 o'clock to-morrow morning the moon will be in total eclipse, but only the States on the Western Coast of the United States will be able to obtain full benefit of the spectacle. The moon will pass through the earth's shadow and will be in total eclipse at about 6 o'clock. It is scheduled to emerge at about 8:45 o'clock.

Observers in the Eastern States will be able to see only a partial eclipse very early in the morning and for a short time only.

AUSTRIA CONSIDERS SENDING ULTIMATUM

Montenegro Refuses Demands—Will Receive More Energetic Remonstrance.

ITALY PREPARES A FLEET

Vienna Hears of Servian and Montenegrin Atrocities Perpetrated Upon Albanians.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Saturday, March 22.—A Vienna dispatch to The Daily Mail says that Montenegro's answer to the Austrian representations is considered very unsatisfactory. The assurance of King Nicholas that the fire of the heavy guns before Scutari will be turned toward the fortifications instead of the city is regarded merely as a concession made to public opinion in Austria and Italy. Italy yesterday protested against the Montenegrin action as being calculated to endanger the lives of Italian subjects.

Austria's principal demand is disregarded. Count Berchtold, the Austrian Foreign Minister, who is always inclined to avoid extreme measures, will probably be obliged to yield to the force of public opinion and take a serious step. It is expected that an ultimatum will be delivered at Cettinje either to-day or on Sunday, backed by a threat of a naval demonstration should the proper explanation not be forthcoming before the expiration of a certain time limit.

Conferences on the subject are being held between Count Berchtold and the Italian Ambassador. Since the beginning of the dispute Italy has made every effort to keep herself and Austria in line with the other powers and to prevent independent action on the part of Austria.

The King of Italy feels that personal reasons put him in a difficult position, as King Nicholas of Montenegro is his father-in-law.

According to a Naples dispatch, naval preparations on a large scale are going forward in the harbor there. The fleet which is being made ready for sea is understood to be destined for Albanian Coast work. The preparations are on so large a scale that parts of the harbor are reserved for the use of the naval and military services, the public being excluded. In the squadron which is under orders there are six large transports, fourteen torpedo boats, and the battleships Vittorio Emanuele, Napoli, and Roma, ready to sail. Troops are arriving in large numbers from Northern Italy and embarking as rapidly as possible.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

VIENNA, March 21.—A long telegraphic message is published here giving accounts of the atrocities which it is asserted the Montenegrins and Servians are still prepetrating in Albania. In the village of Schaschare, near Uskub, Servian soldiers are said to have committed indescribable cruelties upon women, and similar charges against them are made in the village of Letnica. In twenty-nine villages of Karadagh 280 farmhouses were burned, and all the male inhabitants who did not flee fell under the bullets and bayonets of the soldiers. Five other villages were scenes of horrible massacres. No fewer than 238 were slaughtered there without mercy. An old woman and her Catholic servant were burned alive in one village; in another the Serbs burned alive a man, an old woman, and two children; in a third a Mohammedan woman in delicate health was shot by five Servian soldiers. The Serbs then set the whole village, comprising ninety farmhouses, on fire.

LONDON, March 21.—Russia, with which country Austria is reported to have reached a complete agreement, will, it is understood, urge Montenegro to show a more conciliatory spirit, but the previous efforts of the Russian Government in this direction were fruitless, and it is feared that King Nicholas, who believes his crown depends upon the capture of Scutari, will remain stubborn.

Austria has not notified the powers that her fleet has gone to the Albanian Coast because of the position of the Catholics, of whom Austria is the protector, and has sent back to Cettinje her Minister, Baron de Giesel, who will impress upon Montenegro the determination of Austria that Scutari shall remain Albanian and that Austria's other demands must be complied with.

The report that a final and satisfactory settlement has been reached by Austria and Russia, which was sent by an unusually well-informed correspondent, says that under the agreement Djakova, which has been the chief point in dispute, will go to Servia, as Russia desired, and in return Austria will have a free hand to deal with the Montenegrins and Servians at Scutari.

Servia, which realizes the fruitlessness of the continued siege at Scutari, is understood to acquiesce in Russia's assurances to Austria. In fact, the other allies, with the exception of Montenegro, which is preparing a general storming attack on Scutari, are anxiously awaiting an excuse to end the war.

King Nicholas is said to have declared in speaking of the situation: "Either I shall return to Cettinje the conqueror of Scutari or not at all."

VIENNA, March 21.—Beyond promising that the future bombardment of Scutari will be directed against the fortifications and not against the town, Montenegro's reply to Austria's remonstrances is a refusal to comply with the Austrian demands.

The note declares that for military reasons Montenegro must refuse to permit civilians to leave Scutari, and that she cannot allow the Austro-Hungarian Consul in Scutari to take part in the inquiry into the death of the priest Pali or the alleged forced conversions of Catholics.

CATCH AUTO THIEVES AFTER PISTOL FIGHT

Men Who Hold Up East Side Saloon Exchange Shots with Police, Who Pursue Them.

CHASE COVERS TEN BLOCKS

Robbers Are Then Headed Off by Policeman, Who Fires as Their Auto Speeds Toward Him.

Folk who live in Avenue A, between Ninth and Nineteenth Streets, were startled just before 1 o'clock this morning by the reports of many revolver shots, the yells of men, and the noise of an automobile running at high speed. Men and women, running to doors and windows, saw an auto speeding up the avenue. From it four men were leaning and in the darkness the flashes from the muzzles of their revolvers showed brightly as they fired shot after shot.

Behind the motor, shouting to the occupants to halt, raced half a dozen policemen. They, too, held revolvers in their hands, and now and then stopped to fire at the flying auto. The men in it yelled taunts back at their pursuers.

Avenue A is well guarded. Policeman Gross of the Fifth Street Station first tried to stop the automobile as it turned into the avenue from Ninth Street, a man and women running behind and yelling that they had been held up. The car sped by Gross, the occupants firing at him and he returning the fire.

At Eleventh Street Policeman Maher tried to stop the auto and was shot at by the fugutives. He joined the chase, firing as he ran. Policeman Lawlor, at Fourteenth Street, jumped in front of the motor. It almost bowled him over, and he joined the pursuers. At Fifteenth Street Sergt. Quinn and Policeman Conlin made futile efforts to stop the auto, but at Nineteenth Street Policeman Wolter, warned by the fusillade of shots to the south of him, jumped into the middle of the street and, without waiting for the car to get to him, began to fire at it.

The occupants, between two fires, slowed down the auto, seemed to hesitate an instant, and then tried to turn around, as though to make off down a side street. The car ran onto the sidewalk and the engine stalled. The four men in it sprang to the street and ran. Two turned into Seventeenth Street and were caught. The others tried to pass Wolter and escape up the avenue. He and Policeman Flynn, who had run down from Twenty-first Street, caught them.

Then there came puffing up Otto Hartwich and Mrs. Ida Engels. Hartwich is one of the proprietors of the Café Zeppelin, at 432 East Ninth Street, and Mrs. Engels is the wife of Hartwich's partner. They said that two of the men in the auto had entered the café just before 1 o'clock and had ordered drinks. As Hartwich served them they drew revolvers and ordered him to come out from behind the bar. Then, while one threatened him with a pistol, the other robbed the cash register of $37.50.

Mrs. Engels, unobserved by the men got to the street and began to shout for help. Hearing her, the robbers ran from the place and jumped into the automobile in which were two other men, and which waited in front of the café. Then the chase began.

At the Fifth Street Police Station the men said they were Samuel Goldstein of 376 East Eighth Street, Joseph O'Connell of 237 East Twelfth Street, Benjamin Geld of 28 Allen Street and Frank Jerrie, a special policeman employed at the Stuyvesant Casino, a noted hall, where many balls of the underworld have been held, and where Jule Morrell, the gangster was shot by Big Jack Zelig.

The money taken from the register was found in O'Connell's pockets according to the police and all four were locked up, charged with highway robbery.

ART TRIUMPHS IN CHICAGO.

Jury Decides Paul Chabas' "September Morn" Isn't Too Immodest.

CHICAGO, March 21.—After inspecting "September Morn," a painting by Paul Chabas, a Municipal Court jury to-day decided the picture was not immoral and might with propriety be publicly exhibited in Chicago. The painting represents a girl bathing.

A question raised in court while experts were testifying was "what is the girl thinking about?" The jury concluded that the thoughts of the girl were not immodest.

NASHVILLE, March 21.—The Women's Property Rights bill before the Legislature, removing the disability of married women, became a law to-day. Gov. Hooper stated that he would neither veto nor approve it, but allow it to become law without his signature.

MORTALLY WOUNDED MAKING EXPLOSIVE

Bedridden Mother Crawls to Son's Aid After He Is Mangled by Smokeless Powder.

HE SAID A BOMB DID IT

Draughtsman Asserted at First That Package He Found in the Park Exploded When He Opened It.

Second Deputy Police Commissioner George S. Dougherty began a personal investigation last night of an explosion which mortally injured Henry Klotz, a draughtsman under Borough President Cyrus C. Miller of the Bronx, late yesterday afternoon. It was said at first that Klotz was hurt by the explosion of a bomb which, in appearance and seemingly in construction, was identical with those which killed Mrs. Madeline Herrara and Grace Walker, and injured Inspector Egan of the Bureau of Combustibles in Judge Otto H. Rosalsky's home.

Later Klotz confessed that he had blown himself up while experimenting in the manufacture of smokeless powder. He said he had been afraid to admit this at first, because he thought it would get him into trouble. He seemed not to realize that he was dying.

It was after 4 o'clock when Klotz arrived at his home—a three-story frame dwelling standing in its own grounds at 1,332 Fulton Avenue—for he walked the three miles from his office to the house. His mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Klotz, who has been ill in bed for three weeks, heard him come in and go whistling to his room, the front one on the second floor. From the floor above Mrs. Klotz called to him, and the young man answered that he was going to change his clothes.

An instant later the sick woman heard the report of an explosion which rocked the frame house to its foundations. There came a single cry from young Klotz, and then quiet. The sick woman, helpless in bed, called again and again for help. At last, fear for her son gave her strength to get out of bed, and step by step she crawled down the stairs to his room.

What she saw was a half-dismantled room from which a cloud of pungent smoke floated lazily into the hall, shoulder-high through the doorway. It hung in clouds in the room and beneath this pall, in a corner, lay her son. Klotz was unconscious. Blood covered his head and face and oozed through the front of his coat. His face was distorted by cuts and gashes where slugs from the bomb had struck him. His left eye was blown from the socket, and two fingers were blown from his left hand.

His bureau, opposite which he lay, was splintered and filled with holes through which slugs had entered the woodwork. There were other similar holes in the walls and in the ceiling. And to show what had wrecked the room there lay on the floor the pieces of a pasteboard box and a few scraps of white paper.

Mrs. Klotz, confused and in ignorance of what had caused her son's injuries, called to him again, and when he did not answer she worked her way slowly down the rest of the stairs to the front door and called from the steps for help.

A small boy heard her and Mrs. Klotz sent him with a message to Dr. George Strader, her own physician, whose home is at 1,349 Fulton Avenue. The smoke had cleared from the room when the doctor got there, but Klotz lay in a heap, still, his mother having been too weak to move him. The physician got him to his bed and made a hasty examination of his injuries. Then he told a policeman to call an ambulance from Fordham Hospital. He said Klotz was dying, and if there was any hope at all for him it lay in his speedy removal to the hospital.

Dr. Muth took the young man to the hospital, and in a ward the doctors brought him back to consciousness. Coroner Healy had been notified and got to the hospital just as Klotz became conscious. The young man told of having had a half holiday for Good Friday and of having walked home through the park, where he had come on a parcel unaddressed and wrapped in white paper.

It had been lying in the pathway, he said, and he had picked it up supposing he would find an address on it, and so might return it to its owner. He had been surprised to find it was not marked, and would have torn off the paper then and there, he said, had not the size of the package instantly suggested a candy box and persuaded him that this was all he had picked up.

Then he had dropped it into his overcoat pocket, intending to carry it home to his mother, and had continued his walk. At his home he had taken the parcel from his overcoat and laid it on the dresser in his room, while he hung up his hat and coat. This done he had started to open the package preparatory to taking it to his mother. The instant he had removed the paper the package had exploded. That was all he knew.

It was not until Capt. Price and Detective Landboe and Bruckman had found cans of powder, some bichloride of potash, and some sulphur in his room, and had questioned Klotz about these, that he finally confessed.

STINGY HUSBAND MUST PAY.

Court Grants Separation and Alimony Order to Mrs. Davis.

Mrs. Maria L. Davis, 55 years old, of 414 Henry Street, Brooklyn, the mother of nine children, who received only $2.50 a week for household expenses for many years from her husband, Henry A. Davis, got a decree of separation and $5 a week alimony late yesterday afternoon from Justice Kelly of the Supreme Court, Brooklyn. She sued her husband on the ground of non-support. They separated last August after thirty-seven years of married life.

In his decision Justice Kelly held the evidence showed that the husband had been "living on his wife and daughters" for many years, and that for a long time he had contributed only $2.50 weekly to the household expenses. Before they separated Mrs. Davis asserted that her husband induced her to sign an agreement whereby she released him from all further obligations to pay her on the payment of $25. At the time of the trial Justice Kelly remarked that no man could free himself from his wife in that court for $25.

"That's getting off too cheap," said the court.

LYNCHED IN CITY STREET.

Negro Victim of Tennessee Mob Killed White Man for Revenge.

UNION CITY, Tenn., March 21.—Johnson Grenson, a negro accused of murdering Samuel McClue, a white man, early to-day was hanged here by a mob this afternoon on a prominent street corner in the presence of 1,000 persons.

Mr. McClure, 75 years old, investigated a noise in his kitchen in the night, and found a negro eating there. The negro refused to leave the house without getting money, whereupon Mr. McClure shot at him.

Grenson, who is said to have implicated another negro in a confession, returned, broke into the house and shot the old man with a shotgun. Mr. McClure died at noon.

Burns Calls on Honest Men to Stand by the City.

Detective William J. Burns, in telling of his experiences as a detective at the downtown branch of the Free Synagogue, 151 Clinton Street, last night, urged those present to stand by their city when it was in need of the services of honest men.

"If you will come to my office," he said, "I will teach you all to be detectives, and to you who are honest I will give jobs. I am training college men, doctors, and lawyers to be detectives."

Rabbi Wise, who presided, introduced Mr. Burns. Among those present was Murray W. Strang, who has criticised Rabbi Wise in letters to Mayor Gaynor.

PROMISE JURY BILL CHANGE.

New Jersey Leaders Assure President Referendum Will Be Dropped.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—President Wilson talked Jersey politics this morning with Senator Hughes, the Democratic State Chairman, Edward E. Grosscup, and the State Senate leader, J. Warren Davis. Mr. Wilson explained that when the Legislature convened on Monday he hoped that a jury reform bill would be passed without any referendum amendment.

Gov. Fielder saw the President later and assured him that the Jury Reform bill, without the feature to which the President objected, would be agreed to by the New Jersey Legislature when it meets next week. Gov. Fielder and State Chairman Grosscup were luncheon guests of Secretary Tumulty, and plans were discussed for putting the bill through in the fashion desired by the President.

UNCLE HELPS NIECES ELOPE.

Ties Double Knot When Misses Stonebruner Flee with Titus Brothers.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Two telegrams were all that were necessary today to apprise two families of the marriage of four of their members when Lee D. and Townsend B. Titus, brothers, of Lucketts, Va., and Mary G. and Lucy E. Stonebruner of Lovetsville, sisters, from the same State, broke the news of their elopement and marriage here. They were married by the Rev. Samuel Smith of Pennsylvania, uncle of the brides, who aided in the double elopement.

The elopers, fearing parental displeasure, disappeared on a honeymoon and will return later when the situation is calmer.

STRIKERS TO USE BOMBS.

Tell Trackmen Their Homes Will Be Blown Up if They Don't Quit.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, March 21. — Intimidation of Pennsylvania Railroad trackmen by strikers threatening to dynamite their homes has given a serious aspect to the strike in the West Philadelphia yards. This method of swelling the ranks of the strikers has been freely used. Emissaries from strike headquarters seize every opportunity for terrifying workmen with the threat that unless they quit their jobs bombs would be placed under their homes and their families blown to atoms.

The workmen told their foremen of the fate that they believed awaited them unless they quit work. The threats also are keeping idle men from returning to work. The recent night attack on a signal towerman, who was unmercifully beaten by four strikers, has intensified the fears of the terrorized trackmen.

PARIS LONGITUDE BY RADIO.

Washington Tests to Ascertain Real Distance Partly Successful.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Experiments begun last night to determine by means of wireless telegraphy the precise longitude of Paris and Washington were in part successful. A cablegram was received to-day from Paris stating that messages sent from the Arlington station last night by four French army and navy officers who were sent here to conduct the experiments had been received with clearness by the station on the Eiffel Tower, and practically instantaneously.

The Arlington station, however, was not able to hear the Paris station, owing to the static condition of the air. The experiments were continued to-night.

The Arlington station is still in the control of the contractors, and has not been accepted by the Government. Great secrecy is observed in the management of the work, and no visitors are admitted, nor are any statements given out to the press.

HURT BY SCAFFOLD'S FALL.

Ten Men Injured in an Accident in Cohan & Harris's New Theatre.

Ten men at work in the new Cohan & Harris Theatre at 438 East 149th Street, near Third Avenue, the Bronx, were injured yesterday afternoon when a scaffold thirty-three feet above the street broke. The bricklayers, who were working on the scaffold, clung to the edges of the brick wall until they were rescued. Most of the injured men were ironworkers and laborers at work in the auditorium between the stage and the lobby. They were struck by the scaffold and building materials which were dragged down by it.

Three of the men most seriously hurt were found unconscious lying under heavy timbers which had struck them down. They were sent to Lincoln Hospital. Policeman Thomas F. Hough of the Alexander Avenue Station, arrested the superintendent of construction, Thomas Reilly of 2,482 Tiebout Avenue, the Bronx, employed by Cramp & Co., the builders of the theatre. He was held in $2,500 bail for examination on Tuesday.

CYCLONIC STORM HITS 12 STATES

Fully 100 Dead in Path of Wind Sweeping from Texas to Western New York.

45 KILLED IN ALABAMA

Millions in Property Destroyed in Middle West from Gulf to Great Lakes.

UTICA AND BUFFALO VISITED

Sleet, Rain, Wind, and Snow Block Traffic and Fell Wires Over Vast Area.

DEAD IN STORM'S WAKE.

Alabama	45	New York	2
Arkansas	5	Ohio	2
Indiana	2	Tennessee	3
Louisiana	1	Texas	1
Michigan	1		—
Missouri	7	Total	69

A storm of cyclonic fury, which started in Northern Texas Thursday night, just as Spring was being ushered in, swept east and northward, causing the deaths of fully a hundred persons, injuring hundreds of others, and damaging property to the extent of millions of dollars.

Extending through parts of Texas, Louisana, Mississippi, Alabama, Arkansas, Missouri, Kentucky, and Tennessee, the storm crossed the Ohio River and passed through Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Western New York.

Telegraph communication to the Middle West and the lower Mississippi Valley is greatly impaired, and reports of the damage increase as delayed reports from remote localities come in.

Definite advices have been received accounting for at least sixty-nine persons dead.

Reports from Alabama show the loss of life was heaviest in that State. The number of dead there is definitely placed at forty-five with additional fatalities reported but not confirmed. The town of Lower Peach Tree was wiped out. Two are dead in Indiana, three in Tennessee, two in Ohio, two in New York, one in Michigan, one in Louisiana, and one in Texas.

Accompanying the death lists are estimates of injured totaling more than 200.

Shifting winds of great violence, accompanied in various sections by snow, sleet, and hail, characterized the storm, easily the most destructive of the year and rarely equaled in the extent of its scope and the damage. Buildings toppled before the wind in nearly a dozen States.

New York City Escapes It.

The property loss was heavy all along the storm's track. Besides demolishing or unroofing buildings and felling trees, the high winds, rain, hail, and sleet did serious damage to early crops. Estimates of loss by damage to property of all sorts from Indiana and Michigan alone total $2,000,000.

Not in many years has there been such prostration of telegraph and telephone service. Chicago was cut off for hours from communication with points East. Only by devious routes was connection finally established. Last night conditions had improved materially, but it will be several days before normal service is restored. Railroad traffic was seriously delayed in many districts where wire communication was crippled and washouts occurred.

The wind attained record velocities at some points. Detroit reported 88 miles an hour, the Weather Bureau's high record in that city. A velocity of 84 miles was recorded at Toledo, and the wind was blowing 88 miles an hour at Buffalo at 8 o'clock last night. Memphis reported 64 miles and Louisville 52 miles.

Cold weather is trailing the destructive wind. The storm seems to have spent its force and is taking the accustomed route of such disturbances out the St. Lawrence Valley. New York City will escape it.

30 DEAD IN ALABAMA TOWN.

Lower Peach Tree Wiped Out—Heavy Loss in Gulf States.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, March 21.—Carrying death and destruction in its wake, a windstorm that at times attained a velocity of sixty-five miles an hour, and accompanied in many instances by rain and sleet, late on Thursday night and early this morning, swept through Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee, Arkansas, and Kentucky.

Telegraph service and transportation lines between the Ohio River and the Gulf are seriously damaged, and news from those cities and hamlets that bore the brunt of the storm is coming in slowly.

The town of Lower Peach Tree on the Alabama River, about twenty miles from Pine Hill, Ala., was practically wiped out by a windstorm which struck the town late last night. Thirty persons are reported killed and many injured.

The list of dead includes L. D. Bryant's family, James Clark and wife, two of the Cooper family, and Mrs. G. E. Williamson and son. Mr. Williamson is seriously hurt.

The Mayor of Pine Hill has been appealed to to send doctors and nurses to the scene, and an appeal for assistance also has been sent to Gov. O'Neal. The tornado passed through the town, and only a few houses escaped destruction.

The little town of Dyas, Ala., on the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, a short distance above Bay Mineto, lay in the path of the storm and several of its buildings were demolished. Half a dozen of the inhabitants were injured. A big tree was blown across the Louisville & Nashville tracks and was struck by a southbound train, the engine and several coaches being damaged.

Saline, La., a town of 200 inhabitants, has been devastated. Gobsland, La., was hard hit and the damage was heavy, although no deaths are reported.

Several negroes were killed in the vicinity of Meridian, Miss. Similar fatalities occurred near Macon, Miss. At Decatur, Ala., one white boy was killed and several negroes lost their lives. Mississippi was swept from Genada to Water Valley.

At Murfreesboro, Tenn., the storm was unusually severe. The loss in that immediate section is estimated at $500,000. The people were awakened from their sleep and thrown into a panic when the storm struck. Resort hotels in that section were damaged, and half a dozen buildings around the public square at Murfreesboro were wrecked.

Two heroines of the storm at Murfreesboro are Miss Mabel Hill and Miss Minnie Yearwood, who remained at their posts as night operators at the telephone exchange while the storm was at its height. Walls were falling near-by and flying timbers smashed the windows in the telephone building, but they stuck to their tasks, signaling the fire companies and arousing citizens to apprise them of the danger.

Birmingham, Ala., reported high winds and damages to furnaces and steel plants. The greatest apprehension is felt here for scores of Southern towns still cut off from all wire communication.

New Orleans newspaper offices were besieged all day by hundreds of anxious inquiriers who could get little information that was satisfactory. Local telegraph offices were congested with business from every section of the country, including New York messages for Chicago. Railroad losses in the South will be enormous. Every line in the South has wires down, trestles and bridges are damaged, and in numerous places the tracks are strewn with débris.

Crop, timber, and general property damage to-night cannot now be estimated.

Special to The New York Times.

CHATTANOOGA, March 21.—Chattanooga was visited early this morning by one of the most violent wind, rain, and hail storms in the history of the city. While there was no loss of life and no one seriously injured, the property loss is extensive. It is confined mainly, however, to small buildings, shade trees, and telephone and telegraph wires. For several hours there was no communication with the outside world. Miles of telegraph wires were down.

Blooming peach trees suffered greatly by hail, which fell for several minutes. The wind reached a velocity of sixty-four miles an hour and blew at that rate for about five minutes. Vivid lightning accompanied the deluge of rain and hail.

HOXIE, ARK., WRECKED.

Four Killed and 50 Injured—Seven Dead in Missouri Town.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, March 21.—Hoxie, Ark., was wrecked by the storm of Thursday night, four persons were killed and fifty injured. The St. Louis & San Francisco station was wrecked and the Van Noyes eating house destroyed. A refrigerator was blown upon the station platform. Windows were smashed in the private car of Supt. C. H. Balzell. The roof of Plunkett Jarrell & Co.'s building was blown off, and a new school house wrecked. Light and telephone circuits were blown down, and the town was in darkness all night.

At Walnut Ridge, Ark., one person was killed and ten hurt.

At Poplar Bluff, Mo., it was reported that seven were killed and 100 injured. The report of the number of dead was unconfirmed. The damage there is estimated at $100,000. Dozens of homes and business houses were unroofed. The wind reached a velocity of eighty-five miles an hour.

The storm struck Springfield at midnight with a driving rain, followed by a light snow. An inch and a half of rain fell in two hours.

Louis Erb, owner of a thousand-acre apple and peach ranch at Cedar Gap, Mo., declared this morning fruit was undamaged in that region.

INDIANA AND MICHIGAN SUFFER.

Detroit Gets Hardest Wind in Its History—Gale on Lakes.

CHICAGO, March 21.—Spring arrived in the Central West to-day on the wings of the most destructive storm of the year. Snow, sleet, and gales of wind brought telephone and telegraph poles to the ground, wrecked buildings, and sank vessels on the lakes. The toll of death will be large, as storm conditions were general all through the Central and Southern States.

"Worse than the storm of Washington's Birthday," was the expression of the wire chief of the Western Union Telegraph Company. His opinion was echoed by the Postal Telegraph chiefs and those of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. More poles are down than in any storm of recent years, and several days probably will elapse before wire conditions will approximate normal.

Throughout the day there were practically no Western Union wires working out of Chicago. The same was true of the Postal Company, but strenuous work managed to get several wires of each company working at intervals by nightfall. In Chicago many trolley lines were tied up during the worst of the storm, and in the morning street traffic was suspended. The sidewalks were covered with fallen branches unable to sustain their load of ice. Half a dozen persons were reported seriously injured as a direct result of the blizzard.

At Detroit the wind reached a velocity of 86 miles an hour, the highest ever attained in that city.

To-night only one death had been reported in Michigan, but scores were injured. The police and public utility companies in Detroit said the storm was the most severe and destructive of any that has visited the city in years. The wind struck the city about 8 o'clock in the morning. By noon every policeman on the local force had been ordered on duty until further notice, and every precaution was being taken to prevent possible loss of life. The streets downtown were swept with cyclonic force, buildings unroofed, and many frail structures demolished.

The fishing tug Elsie B. was caught in the storm on Lake Michigan and driven ashore at Grand Beach, seven miles off Michigan City. The four men aboard were rescued.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 21.—The sorm which swept Indiana early to-day did damage estimated at $1,000,000. Late reports from over the State increased the damage, but the death list remained at two, although several were reported fatally injured. The dead are:

Omar A. Vice, cab driver at Frankfort, crushed by falling roof.

Henry Walters, Lafayette, killed by falling sign.

Among the more seriously injured are:

Eva Miller, Terre Haute, struck on head by falling brick while asleep in bed.

Mrs. M. Clark, Indianapolis, sister-in-law of United States Marshal Schmidt, buried under falling building.

Betie Hill Indianapolis, skull fractured by falling sign.

Policeman Robenovitz, Indianapolis, struck on head by brick.

Trees were blown across trolley wires, delaying the Interurban cars, and washouts on the steam lines in the southern part of the State made travel uncertain.

Churches did not escape the ravages of the storm. The Methodist Church at Tipton was unroofed. The smokestack of the Holy Angels' Catholic Church here was blown down and crashed through the roof, demolishing an altar decorated for Easter. The Methodist Church at Harmony was damaged. Three churches at Franklin were wrecked.

A cold wave following on the heels of the storm added to the suffering, as many homes had been unroofed and windows broken. A drop of 30 degrees, bringing the temperature down to about 20 above zero, was predicted for the State.

The streets of Indianapolis were littered with debris to-day, and city employes were kept busy chopping away fallen trees.

Two Killed in Ohio.

SANDUSKY, Ohio, March 21.—Two fishing boats are missing, one is on the rocks and another is in distress, as a result of the sixty-mile gale that swept Sandusky Bay to-day. It is feared that six or more men have been drowned.

A boat went ashore on the rocky coast at Danbury, eight miles west of here, shortly before noon. It was smashed to pieces, but as telephonic communication has been cut off, nothing is known about the crew's fate.

A lifeboat and the steamer Olcott are trying to reach the launch Carrie W., which is drifting between here and Kelley's Island. So far they have been unsuccessful. Those aboard the Carrie W. are George G. Wick, his two sons, Frank Wick, George G. Wick, and George F. Wick.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 21.—The toll of the windstorm in this city included one death, probably a score of persons injured and thousands of dollars' damage to property. The gale reached a velocity of fifty miles an hour.

Richard Plimmer, a contractor, was killed and three other men working with him were seriously injured when a brick building collapsed and buried them in the ruins.

At Tiffin, Ohio, William Wick, 75 years old, was instantly killed and six or eight others are believed to be buried in the debris of the smokestack of the county infirmary, which was wrecked by the wind. The property damage in Tiffin and Seneca County is estimated at a half million dollars. Derricks by the score were blown down, and operations have been suspended in the oil fields of Washington County, in the vicinity of Marietta. A number have been injured by the storm, but none seriously. In the Beas Run field, the storm stopped operations that will mean thousands of dollars loss to operators.

PITTSBURGH, March 21.—Western Pennsylvania suffered heavily from the windstorm. At East Pittsburgh a house was wrecked and three persons were seriously hurt. In Mount Pleasant, Penn., windows were blown in and the steeple of a church toppled over. At Latrobe, a horse and wagon were picked up by the gale and blown across the street.

Eastern and Central West Virginia were storm swept with heavy property loss.

STORM NIPS EDGE OF UTICA.

Cuts Swath Through Hospital Grounds—Two Drown in Cuba Lake.

UTICA, March 21.—The edge of the cyclonic storm from the southwest struck the western end of this city late this afternoon, cutting a swath 200 feet wide through the Utica State Hospital grounds and a section of the residential part of the city. The damage will run into thousands of dollars.

Accompanied by a heavy rain which lasted about five minutes, the wind whirled up from the southwest, crushing small buildings and uprooting large trees.

A half dozen buildings were damaged at the State Hospital grounds. Two greenhouses were wrecked and a 20-foot smokestack on the coffee house was razed. A score of huge elm trees, planted when the hospital was opened in 1840, were blown down.

Several box cars in the New York Central Railroad yards lost their roofs, one was blown over, and a bridge over the Erie Canal was blown down. A group of 100 patients of the State Hospital who were being hurried into the buildings as the storm broke, narrowly escaped being crushed by falling trees.

Some patients were cut by flying glass and one attendant was hit by a falling plank.

BUFFALO, March 21.—The storm which swept u from the Far South st struck Western New York this afternoon. Two lives were lost on Cuba Lake, and a score of fishermen narrowly escaped death on Lake Erie off Buffalo Harbor through the sudden breaking up of the ice under the tremendous wind pressure.

The fatalities at Cuba Lake occurred late this afternoon. Eugene Jones and Bishop Ackerley, freshmen at the Syracuse University Forestry School, home for an Easter vacation, started on a canoe trip. They were about 500 yards from shore when the gale swept down upon them, capsizing the canoe. Before a boat could be launched both men had disappeared.

Fifty men were fishing through holes in the cie on Lake Erie off Buffalo Breakwater when the storm broke. It soon became apparent that the ice would break up, and all started for shore. Half the party was safe in the harbor when a big field of ice parted from the shore and floated toward the river. Ten men were rescued by companions in boats and the others were picked up by a fire tug. Some of the rescued men refused to leave the ice floe until their dogs had been saved. The animals had broken away from the sledges and were rushing wildly about, and it required half an hour's perilous work to capture them.

The velocity of the wind at 8 o'clock to-night was 88 miles an hour.

WIRE SERVICE PARALYZED.

Chicago Lines Incrusted in Sleet and Affected by Lightning.

While the storm was raging in the Mississippi and Ohio River Valleys it prostrated most of the wires between here and Chicago and all Middle Western points.

At 9 o'clock yesterday morning the Western Union Telegraph Company's wires were flickering out by the score. Every one of the 200 trunk wires to Chicago and most of the roundabout wires went down.

At 10 o'clock it was found that the wires to Pittsburgh were working and that Pittsburgh could call Chicago by way of St. Louis. Efforts of the Western Union officials here to ascertain the scope of the storm area developed the fact that the wires were down in most of the territory west of Toledo, Ohio. Inquiries made at the most westerly stations that could be reached brought answers that the wind was blowing a gale and that soft snow and sleet had accompanied the wind throughout the night. This snow and sleet had not only broken the wires, but had incrusted wires and poles.

Sections of trunk lines were restored wherever possible by laying cables containing telegraph wires across the top of the snow. Late in the afternoon it was reported that linemen had succeeded in restoring many sections of wire for 100 miles east and south of Chicago. At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon Indianapolis reported that wires were working to Chicago and the business then going by way of St. Louis was diverted to the Indianapolis wire.

Late last night Mr. Williams, the publicity director for the Western Union Company, was asked if the wire condition was showing any improvement. He said it would be necessary for him to go to the operating room to find out.

"Say, if you want to see a sight," he remarked on returning, "you should see the way those wires are flickering out. It isn't in the Chicago country this time. It's this side of Pittsburgh. They're not going down with a snow load this time; they're catching a lightning storm. And it's surely some storm. All it does is mess up the wires for a little while. You can see them flicker out and then automatically restore themselves a little later. The electric storm around Pittsburgh is accompanied by plenty of rain, but no snow or sleet."

At the office of the Postal Telegraph Company it was said that no information could be given out concerning the condition of the company's wires.

HARBOR FOG HOLDS SHIPS OUT.

Majestic Two Days Late—The France All Night in Channel.

Fog in the harbor and its approaches as far as Nantucket Lightship yesterday held up from fifteen to twenty inbound steamships from Europe and West Indian ports. The White Star liner Majestic with the Wednesday mails from Southampton and Cherbourg and Queenstown reached her pier at 1:30 P. M., two days late. She will sail again at 4 P. M. to-day for Southampton via Plymouth and Cherbourg.

The French liner France, with a big crowd of passengers on board, including Mr. and Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt and the baby, was at anchor off the Ambrose Channel Lightship all afternoon, and is expected to come to her pier early to-day if the fog lifts. The Morro Castle from Mexico and Havana was detained.

Among the vessels that managed to creep up about noon while it was clear for a short time were the Venezia from Naples, the Oscar II. from Copenhagen, the Principe di Piemonte from Palermo, the Metapan from Jamaica and Colon, and the Grosser Kurfuerst from a West Indian cruise. In the evening the fog settled down thicker than before and the steamers at Quarantine were compelled to anchor for the night.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWBURG, N. Y., March 21.—Eager to get to their destination after being befogged all night on the Hudson from New York to Albany, twenty-five passengers on the Albany steamer Charles W. Morse of the Hudson Navigation Company were landed here at noon to-day to go on their way by rail. This has been a month of fogs, and that of last night was the heaviest of the season, all the boats on the upper Hudson, with a single exception, tying up or anchoring for the night.

The exception was the steamer Benjamin B. Odell of the Central Hudson Company, which was leaden with milk for the New York market, and was compelled to feel her way through the fog. Her companion boat, Homer Ramsdell, on the trip up, did not leave Yonkers, where she tied up, until after daylight to-day, arriving fourteen hours behind time. The Trojan, companion to the Morse, was delayed twelve hours on the down trip last night, passing here about noon for New York. The fog did not lift until about 9 A. M.

CROWDS WATCH A RAINBOW.

Sun Breaks Through Mist as Western Storms Pass By.

In the heavy mist that hung over the city yesterday afternoon there was just a fringe on the west horizon that was not filled. Before it finally sank the sun paused for a moment in this thin, clear space, and a remarkable rainbow suddenly sprang into the eastern sky. The rainbow formed a tall, narrow loop, and people going up and down the streets soon marked it. In Broadway, at Times Square, the passing crowds were intent upon it until a little drop in the sun's level drove it all away and made the atmosphere just plain mist again.

There was a prospect for a short time that New York might become a storm centre before the night was over. But the lightning that was flashing out through Pennsylvania and the rain that was falling further south did not converge here. The rainstorm passed out to sea, and the electric storm and high wind made off through the St. Lawrence Valley.

The prospect at midnight was that New York might catch a good deal of the tail-end of the wind that followed the western storm and might feel some of its cold temperature. The mist that hung throughout yesterday over New York cleared at midnight, while the wind increased.

SHIP HELPLESS MANY HOURS

Dorchester in Storm Off Hatteras with 23 Passengers.

Special to The New York Times.

NORFOLK, Va., March 21.—Barely able to remain afloat and with her twenty-three passengers more nearly dead than alive, the steamer Dorchester of the Merchants' and Miners' Line, en route from Philadelphia to Savannah, put into this port to-day. The passengers were landed and the steamer was docked for examination.

The Dorchester encountered a violent storm off Hatteras last Wednesday night. Her boilers began leaking. Passengers and crew became ill, and for nineteen hours the vessel was at the mercy of the wind and waves. At one time all hope of saving her was given up and the lifeboats were prepared for launching, but the abatement of the storm caused Capt. Chase to stick to the ship. The cargo listed twenty-two degrees to the starboard, while several plates on the same side were strained and it was all the pumps could do to keep the vessel afloat.

The passengers to-night told of their hardships and of the fright. They praised Capt. Chase for his handling of the vessel in the emergency. The Captain admitted the roads were made just in time.

STEAMERS CRASH IN FOG.

Hole Stove in Side of the City of Macon—Both Boats Safe.

VINEYARD HAVEN, March 22.—The steamship City of Macon of the Savannah line, bound for Boston, collided in Vineyard Sound to-night with a freight steamer believed to be the James S. Whitney of the Metropolitan line.

The collision occurred in a dense fog. A large hole, all above the water line, was stove in the side of the City of Macon. The extent of the damage to the other vessel was not known. Both steamers anchored in Tarpaulin Cove during the night and expected to proceed to Vineyard Haven to-morrow for repairs.

Capt. Winram of the revenue cutter Itasca, anchored at Woods Hole, was notified by the wireless operator on board the City of Macon that neither vessel was in danger.

FEAR ATLANTIC CITY DROUGHT

Some Saloons Observe the Law Because of District Attorney's Threat.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 21.—The statement issued by Charles Sumner Moore, the new District Attorney of this County, yesterday, that he would inforce the Excise laws, alarmed a few of the saloon keepers and hotel men here, who said they would close their resorts on time, but most of the hotel men were not worried by Mr. Moore's threat.

Mr. Moore, in a letter to Director of Public Safety Bartlett, said he would inforce the Excise law in the same way he did the other criminal statutes.

PASSENGERS FOR EUROPE.

SUFFRAGETTES LOSE, BUT VOTE DEFIANTLY

Party Descends on Dunellen, N. J., School Election and the Men Are Taken Back.

HUSBANDS PROTEST IN VAIN

Wives Cast Their Ballots for $5,000 Appropriation and Meet Defeat by Two Votes.

Special to The New York Times.

DUNELLEN, N. J., March 21.—Led by Miss Mabel Bennett, a school teacher, local suffragettes rallied seventeen strong at the most exciting school election in the history of this staid old village and came within two votes of defeating the opponents of a $5,000 appropriation to purchase a new school site as recommended by the School Board. The presence of the women and their intention to vote did not become known to the men voters until after the end of a warm debate that lasted three hours.

On reaching the school they were escorted to Principal Guy Rentschler's office, where they remained until Miss Bennett gave the signal for the march to the ballot box. Then all filed into the school auditorium and cast their ballots for the appropriation. The determined appearance of the suffragette brigade caused the men voters to stand aghast, especially the husbands of some of the women.

Leaders of the opposition, when they recovered their wits, realized that the tide was going against them and left the hall for recruits. When the vote was announced it showed that the opponents of the appropriation had carried the day by a vote of 62 to 60. Said Miss Bennett:

"We lost, but we showed the men that we will exercise our rights and have something to say about a new school. The town needs one and we are sure to win out."

One amusing incident of the election occurred when School Commissioner A. J. Hamley, President of the local bank, saw his wife waiting for her turn to vote. Approaching the line Commissioner Hamley tapped his wife on the shoulder and remarked: "Now Esther, I don't want you to vote. You better go home."

"I will vote, and don't care what you think about it," was Mrs. Hamley's reply.

"Good for you," shouted the suffragettes in unison as Mrs. Hamley proceeded to prepare her ballot.

Willard Apgar, leader of the opposition, appeared highly exasperated over the action of the women in turning out to vote.

"What is this world ever coming to?" said he.

"It was a piece of small politics," said Editor George W. Day.

One of the most enthusiastic of the suffragettes, Mrs. Ernst Field, a cousin of Billie Burke, the actress, said:

"All of the men in Dunellen would never stop me from voting."

"You are perfectly right," said her husband.

In the line of feminine voters were noticed Mrs. A. J. Hamley, Mrs. Ernst Field, Mrs. Theodore Day, Mrs. James Day, Mrs. B. A. Cole, Mrs. Ray Hamley, Mrs. John Fenner, Mrs. J. Newton Apgar, and Miss Mabel Bennett.

MUSICAS READY TO FIGHT.

Family Held in New Orleans Hires Several More Attorneys.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, March 21.—With all the courts closed because it was Good Friday, and with the detectives still on their way here from New York, affairs were far from being at a standstill to-day in the Musica bank swindle case. Employment by the Italians of a formidable array of attorneys to defend their interests concerning the money taken from them by the New Orleans police when they were arrested was the development of the day. In addition to George E. Williams, engaged by them yesterday, the Musicas this morning retained Adams & Generelly and Henriques & Otero, as well as Judge Henry L. Lazarus and John J. Reilly.

None of the counsel was prepared to forecast the operations of the defense, but it is assured that to-morrow morning, when the courts open, will see a resumption of the legal tactics that made yesterday's skirmish lively. Mr. Williams has made the only announcement of the plans of the defense. He said last evening that to-morrow morning he would go into the Criminal District Court in behalf of those members of the family locked up simply as material witnesses and present a motion to take their testimony and grant their release.

The $76,000 taken from the Italians when they were seized last Wednesday morning aboard the United Fruit Company's steamer Heredia, about to leave for Central America, is now in the custody of the First Criminal Court. All the Musicas have adopted a policy of extreme reticence. The complaint of one of the Musica young women that she was robbed of a $5,000 bill between the time she was searched in a room over the First Precinct Police Station and the time her money was counted by Supt. Reynolds apparently has been dropped, District Attorney Luzenberg, after a thorough investigation, having failed to find ground for action.

$25,000 Given to Acadia University for a Biology Chair.

According to the Deputy State Appraiser's report, Dr. Charles F. Myers of 311 West Forty-eighth Street, who died in Boston on Aug. 22, 1911, left an estate of $265,385, of which $132,000 was invested in New York City realty. This realty included land on which were built three and four story brownstone residences in West Thirtieth, West Forty-seventh, and West Forty-eighth Streets. Besides holding this realty, the physician had nearly $100,000 in mortgages on property in the same region.

By the terms of the will $25,000 was given to Acadia University, Nova Scotia, for the establishment of a professorship in biology and zoology. The Newton Theological Seminary also received a bequest of $1,000. The remainder of the estate was divided among blood relations.

Baltimorean Owns Newsboy Picture.

Since the paintings by the late J. G. Brown were reproduced in THE TIMES Picture Section on Sunday, March 9, it has been ascertained that the original of the one entitled "Hold Still" is owned by J. W. Harvey of Baltimore. He knows it by the title "Beg." At the time the pictures were reproduced, there was some doubt as to which had been sold and which were unexhibited paintings left in the artist's safe deposit box. This doubt will not be settled as to all of them until an inventory is made some weeks hence.

CARUSO SHOWS CARICATURE.

His Portrait of Miss Inger Orner to be in Misapplied Art Academy.

The newly formed Academy of Misapplied Art will open its first annual exhibition with a "varnishing day" reception to-night from 8:30 to 11 o'clock in the new Lighthouse of the New York Association for the Blind, 111 East Fifty-ninth Street. The exhibition will be open to the public next week and the week following, in the afternoons and evenings. An admission fee of 25 cents will be charged to raise funds for the association's $100,000 debt.

Enrico Caruso is the latest member to be admitted to the Academy, and will find among his colleagues John W. Alexander, Kenyon Cox, Edwin Blashfield, George Bellows, Karl Bitter, Cass Gilbert, and Taber Sears. He has contributed an original caricature of Miss Inger Orner, a Metropolitan opera singer, which will be hung among the other examples of painting, architecture, and sculpture in the "cubistic, post-impressionistic, futuristic, neurotic, psychopathic, and paretic schools."

The Reception Committee to-night will consist of Mrs. John W. Alexander, Mrs. J. Dyneley Prince, Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer Robb, Mrs. Cass Gilbert, Mrs. Edward Ringwood Hewitt, and Miss Winifred Holt.

TO ENLARGE COUNTRY CLUB.

Essex County Club Will Spend $8,000 in Increasing Its Quarters.

The Essex County Country Club will spend $8,000 this Summer in providing better accommodations for members and guests. The porch, which can be inclosed and used as a dining room and dance hall, will be enlarged and later on brought around from the east to the south side, close to the main entrance. Additions will afterward be made to the ballroom.

The additions have been planned so as to preserve as much as possible of the original architecture of the building. It was constructed as a hotel in the days when "Boiling Spring," close by, was thought to possess healing powers and was a popular watering place.

GIVE BOY KNOCKOUT DROPS.

Buffalo Student Robbed and Returned in Taxi to Y. M. C. A.

Henry J. Auken, 18 years old, a Buffalo medical student, staying at the West Side Y. M. C. A., 318 West Fifty-seventh Street, was taken to the Polyclinic Hospital last night suffering from the effects of knockout drops. His condition is serious.

He was taken to his room at the Y. M. C. A. by a stranger who had come to the building with Auken in a taxicab. Some time later Auken was found unconscious on the bed by another roomer. His pockets had been empted.

ENTERTAINING THE PIEGANS.

Dan Beard, Dr. Hornaday, and E. W. Deming Meet Them at Luncheon.

The delegation from the Piegan tribe of Blackfeet Indians who have pitched their tepees in the Grand Central Palace for the benefit of the crowds who visit the Travel and Vacation Show now in progress there, will repeat their ceremonial dances this evening for the members of the Camp Fire Club. They are receiving calls from all the men and women in these parts who know something of Indian lore or think they do.

Yesterday at luncheon the Piegans met Dan Beard, the artist; Director William T. Hornaday of the Bronx Zoo, and E. W. Deming, the artist, who was adopted into their tribe a quarter of a century ago and was therefore quite at home in the bit of woods transplanted to the Palace with the idea of surrounding the red men with something suggestive of their native Rocky Mountains. Also at the luncheon were Secretary Rice and Treasurer Seymour of the Camp Fire Club to arrange for this evening's ceremonies, when the Blackfeet will entertain with their strange chants and tread their curious measures.

The Indians were charmed with an invitation from Dr. Hornaday to visit the Zoo to-morrow, where they will get their first glimpse of elephants, camels, monkeys, and other animals rarely found in the Rockies. The Indians are here as part of the display of the Great Northern Railroad, which has one of the largest exhibits at the Travel Show.

Storms Delay La Touraine.

HAVRE, March 21.—The French Line steamer La Touraine has met with heavy weather on the eastbound passage, and as a consequence will be twenty-four hours late in reaching here. A wireless dispatch received from the vessel said she would dock at noon Saturday.

CHINA IMPRESSED BY WILSON POLICY

Restores American Prestige in the Far East, Asserts English Correspondent.

LOAN PLAN IS DEADLOCKED

While Germans Busily Seek Chinese Business—Another Report Says Five Powers Will Go On.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Saturday, March 22.—The Peking correspondent of The Daily Telegraph says that a remarkable impression has been produced in Peking by President Wilson's far-reaching and well-considered memorandum regarding American participation in the six-power group. The correspondent adds that America has now vindicated her position in the Far East, which was seriously compromised by President Taft's policy. With reference to Sir Edward Grey's statement in the House of Commons that the loan negotiations were still proceeding, the correspondent asserts that the Chinese Ministry of Finance knows nothing thereof beyond the fact that a complete deadlock exists, the Government being determined to do no business on a 5½ per cent. basis.

"Indeed," says the correspondent, "the abortive sextuple agreement is now characterized by legal advisers as an impossible document, as it virtually gives a monopoly for fifty years.

"Meanwhile the Germans are working as busily as beavers to obtain all possible concessions during the embargo placed by Sir Edward Grey on British industry and finance in China. Thus, apart from numbers of small loans by powerful mercantile houses, insuring future remunerative business, the Messrs. Krupp offer to supply all the arms and munitions needed by China on three years' credit, thus cutting the ground from under the feet of the great British armorers, such as the Vickers and Armstrong concerns, who have long been represented here, but are now officially cold-shouldered.

"While, therefore, with commendable zeal, an efficient department of the British Government advises the placing of Canadian contracts in England, another department renders business in China wellnigh impossible and is stubbornly sacrificing everything for an unworkable formula."

The Times correspondent in Peking telegraphs:

"The representative of the American group has informed the bankers of the six-power group of the dissolution of his syndicate and has indicated its retirement from the combination. The American retirement gives an opportunity to other members to do likewise and so make an end of the sextuple agreement. It is generally felt here, however, that the American syndicate was the least essential element in the combination, and that its disappearance need not affect the continuity of policy of the other powers or the existence of what henceforward becomes a quintuple banking group.

"President Wilson's statement of policy with regard to Chinese finance is thought peculiarly unfortunate in view of the false hopes engendered in the Chinese that the United States is prepared to give financial assistance without security."

POWERS PRESS CUBA.

France, England, and Germany Object to Bill Affecting Damage Claims.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, March 21.—The French, English, and German Ministers have filed objections to a bill recently passed by the Cuban House, providing for the arbitration of claims which those countries hold for damages to their subjects by revolutionists during Cuba's struggle against Spain.

The objections are based upon the fact that the bill reserves to Congress the right to revise the claims after the Arbitration Commission has completed its work.

The Secretary of State has called the Senate and the Conservative Party leaders to meet to-morrow for the purpose of convincing them of the necessity for the removal of the objectionable clause.

Claims which are said to involve over $2,000,000 have been pending for fourteen years, the Cuban Government having hitherto asserted that it was not liable for the damages; but, owing to the joint pressure of the three powers, President Gomez sent a message asking Congress to enact a law that that the arbitration board should decide as to the liability, and, in the event of its deciding against Cuba, another board should be named to adjudicate the claims.

NO RUSSO-CHINESE WAR.

Peking Says That St. Petersburg Reports of Trouble Are Absurd.

PEKING, March 21.—Reports emanating from St. Petersburg to the effect that a conflict between Russia and China is impending are declared in official circles to be absurd. It is stated officially that China intends to restore order in inner Mongolia, where bands of Mongols are terrorizing the inhabitants.

Col. Des Maillets, the French military adviser of the Government, asserts that China has no intention of attacking Urga, the seat of the Lama of the Mongols.

Dorothy Arnold's Return Again Untrue

The old rumor that Dorothy Arnold, now missing since Dec. 12, 1910, had returned home and was being concealed there by her family reached New York last night by way of Philadelphia. Investigation showed that the report was no more true this time than it has been on over a hundred previous occasions.

SUSPECT MEEKING'S MURDER.

Exhumation Obviously Ordered to Learn if Crime Was Committed.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, March 21.—It is understood that the Home Office's order for the exhumation of the body of Col. Meeking was issued at the request of the Director of Public Prosecutions. From this it is obvious that the persons who set the law in motion are acting upon suspicions that Col. Meeking died as the result of foul play. It is further to be deduced that they are able to lay before Sir Charles Mathews sufficient prima facie evidence to satisfy him that a case exists which may demand criminal investigation.

This disposes of the suggestion made by a friend of the family that the exhumation was undertaken for the purpose of satisfying certain relatives as to whether Col. Meeking died of cancer or some other malignant disease. If that had been the case, the proceedings would not have required the intervention of the Director of Public Prosecutions.

The executors of Col. Meeking will deny emphatically that any relatives opposed the exhumation, the application for which was granted at the express wish of all the nearest relatives, including Mrs. Meeking and those mentioned in the will; but it seems that there was a division of opinion among the members of the family regarding the advisability of exhumation, although some of them sanctioned the investigation into the cause of death. Mrs. Hall, sister of Col. Meeking, says she did not apply to the Home Office for exhumation and denies any knowledge of the applicants. Every effort was made to keep the news of the exhumation from the public, but unsuccessfully.

BARTHOU HEADS CABINET.

Republican Divisions Believed to be Ended by President Poincare.

PARIS, March 21.—Jean Barthou, who was requested by President Poincaré to form a Ministry to succeed that of Premier Briand, which resigned last Tuesday, this evening went to the Elysée Palace and submitted to the President the personnel of the new Government. The portfolios are distributed as follows:

Premier and Minister of Public Instruction—JEAN BARTHOU.
Minister of Justice—ANTOINE RATIER.
Minister of Finance—CHARLES DUMONT.
Minister of Foreign Affairs—ETIENNE PICHON.
Minister of the Interior—LOUIS KLOTZ.
Minister of War—EUGENE ETIENNE.
Minister of Marine—PIERRE BAUDIN.
Minister of Agriculture—ETIENNE CLEMENTEL.
Minister of the Colonies—JEAN MOREL.
Minister of Public Works—M. THIERRY.
Minister of Commerce and Post Office—LOUIS F. A. P. MASSE.
Minister of Labor—M. CHORON.

There is a general approval here of the policy of President Poincaré in selecting M. Barthou, a man of long Ministerial experience, to head the new Government, and it is considered that the constitutional crisis, due to the victory of Georges Clemenceau in the Senate, is overcome, at least for the present.

The make-up of the new Cabinet consolidates the Republicans, who were split on the question of proportional representation. This question will be practically dropped for the present by general consent in favor of armaments and other questions, the paramount importance of which is universally admitted, and the deadlock between the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies will be ended.

declaring that such an investigation by a foreign official would be incompatible with the sovereign rights of the King of Montenegro.

Finally, the note contains some evasive remarks concerning the alleged molestation of the Austrian steamer Skodra at San Giovanni di Medua. Austria demanded the punishment of the military officers and civil officials responsible for ordering Capt. Blasich to assist in landing Servian troops and war munitions and to help rescue drowning men from transports which the Turkish cruiser Hamidieh had sunk.

The Montenegrin reply is considered here as creating a serious situation. A lively exchange of views is proceeding between the Austro-Hungarian and the Italian Foreign Offices in regard to possible joint action by the two powers. Austria, it is believed, will insist on enforcing the decision of the European powers that Scutari shall remain an integral part of the future autonomous State of Albania.

It is not known what action is to be taken by the division of the Austrian fleet which recently left for the Montenegrin and Albanian coasts, although they are officially declared to be proceeding there to carry out manoeuvres.

The most bitter feeling is expressed here both by the press and the public, which has been aroused by the reported forcible conversion of Catholic Albanians to the Orthodox faith by the Montenegrins, who are said to have offered them the alternatives of conversion or death.

TURKS REPORT FIGHTING.

Bulgarians, However, Say All Is Quiet Along Tchatalja Line.

LONDON, March 21.—Except for the statement that all is quiet along the Tchatalja line, to-day's official reports concerning the military operations in Southeastern Europe are, as is usual, in direct contradiction of one another.

A dispatch from Sofia says that the day passed quietly all along the Tchatalja front, and that the previous attempts which the Turks made there to advance were paralyzed with heavy losses. It adds that all continues quiet on the Gallipoli Peninsula and at Adrianople.

Constantinople, on the other hand, reports that the Turks at Adrianople kept up a continual artillery fire on the Bulgarians to-day and that at Bulair, on the Gallipoli Peninsula, the enemy's left wing, which was throwing up fortifications on Examilo Heights, was attacked by Turkish artillery and withdrew, abandoning the intrenchments.

TURKS PLAN FINAL EFFORT.

London Times Hears Izzet Pasha Has Been Ordered to Advance.

LONDON, March 21.—"It seems that the army, despite the reluctance of Izzet Pasha, the Commander in Chief, who recently offered to resign, has been ordered by the Government to advance, and rumor credits the Committee of Union and Progress with the intention of making a final effort by sea and land before agreeing to surrender Adrianople," says the Constantinople correspondent of The Times.

The correspondent adds that 500 wounded men have arrived from the front in the last few days.

FOOD STRIKE FREES SYLVIA PANKHURST

Government Feared Further Restraint Would Endanger Her Life.

FORCIBLY FED FIVE WEEKS

Thrice Arrested in Fortnight, She Was Twice Released on Payment of a Fine.

LONDON, March 21.—Sylvia Pankhurst to-day won her freedom from Holloway Prison by means of a hunger strike. Her release was granted on the ground that to detain her longer would endanger her life.

Miss Pankhurst, who is the daughter of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the leader of the militants, was sentenced on Feb. 18 to two months' imprisonment for engaging in a window-smashing campaign in the east end of London. At the same time Miss Zelie Emerson of Jackson, Mich., received a like sentence for the same offense. As soon as she was placed in prison Miss Pankhurst went on a hunger strike, and the prison authorities resorted to feeding her forcibly by means of a tube.

Last Tuesday, a month after her commitment, Miss Pankhurst wrote a letter from the jail to her mother. She said that twice daily five or six wardresses and two doctors pried open her mouth with a steel gag and forced a feeding tube between her teeth.

Twice in the month of February, before the commitment from which she was released to-day, Miss Pankhurst was in the toils of the law. On Feb. 5 she was arrested for endeavoring forcibly to enter the House of Commons to see David Lloyd-George, Chancellor of the Exchequer. For this she received the option of a fine or two weeks in prison. She chose the latter, but after two days in jail some unknown friend paid her fine and she was released. Again on Feb. 14 Miss Pankhurst was found guilty of smashing windows and received a sentence of fine or imprisonment in Holloway Prison. A friend paid the fine and she was permitted to go free. Three days later she was taken into custody for window smashing and detained until to-day.

A band of "Spiritual Militant Suffragettes," attired in mourning and wearing broad orange-colored sashes, attended service at the City Temple to-day. Referring to their presence, the Rev. Reginald J. Campell, minister of the temple, said that while individual excesses might be imputed to the woman suffrage movement, the movement itself was animated by a spirit which rendered its ultimate triumph inevitable.

ENGLISH YARD HAS SHRUNK.

Even Official Copies Are Shorter Than Standard at Westminster.

LONDON, March 21.—The strict watch kept on weights and measures in the British Isles has led to the discovery that even the standard weights and measures are not to be relied on.

The only four official copies of the imperial standard yard in existence here have shrunk. The standard yard is kept in the strong room of the Standards Department at Westminster. The copies, which, like the standard itself, are made of bronze alloy, have decreased in length, according to the annual report on weights and measures issued by the Board of Trade, in the following proportions: The Royal Mint copy, twenty-three millionths of an inch; Royal Society copy, forty-nine millionths short; Greenwich Observatory copy, forty-three millionths short, and Standards Department copy, two hundred and fifteen millionths short.

The copies of the standard pound weight have also been found to vary, but not so much as the yard measure.

AIM TO DESTROY FEVER TICK.

Dr. Fricks Going to Montana to Eradicate Dangerous Insect.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The Government is sending Surgeon L. D. Fricks of the United States Public Health Service to Bitter Root Valley to eradicate the spotted fever tick there. Dr. Fricks takes the place of the late Dr. C. B. McClintock, who lost his life while successfully pursuing the same quest. One of the diminutive ticks infected him, and he died shortly after his return to Washington.

The spotted fever tick thrives on cattle and small animals, but does not injure them. It is only dangerous to human beings. In his campaign in Montana Dr. Fricks will superintend the killing of cattle, rabbits, weasels, dogs, and other animals found to be infected.

KING CONSTANTINE TAKES THE OATH

Immense Crowds Cheer Him on the Way To and From the Ceremony.

VENIZELOS REMAINS PREMIER

New Sovereign Professes Entire Confidence in His Ministry—No Change of Policy.

GREEK POLICY UNCHANGED

Prime Minister Venizelos so cables to The Times.

By Cable to the Editor of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ATHENS, March 21.—Roi bien aimé assassiné par déséquilibré qui put donner aucune raison éxécrable crime. Douleur peuple perte souverain ainsi grand par sagesse que par patriotisme indéscriptible, mais nation entière confiance absolue Roi Constantin, digne fils Roi Georges, et rien sera changé politique pays. VENIZELOS.

[TRANSLATION.]

ATHENS, March 21.—Our well-beloved King has been assassinated by an unbalanced person who is able to give no reason for his horrible crime. The sorrow of the people over the loss of a sovereign as great in wisdom as in patriotism is indescribable, but the entire nation has absolute confidence in King Constantine, worthy son of King George, and there will be no change in the policy of the country. VENIZELOS.

ATHENS, March 21.—King Constantine of Greece took the constitutional oath of office in the Chamber of Deputies to-day in the presence of the highest officials of the State and of all the members of Parliament.

A salute of 101 guns was fired when the royal procession left the palace. Brilliant weather had brought out great crowds of people who cheered the King on his way, while military bands, stationed at intervals, played the national anthem.

The King, who was wearing a General's uniform, entered the Chamber of Deputies at 10:30. Queen Sophia, Crown Prince George, and the other Princes of the royal family, all dressed in deep mourning, accompanied him. The Deputies stood in their places in deep silence as his Majesty entered.

The Metropolitan of Athens, who was surrounded by the members of the Holy Synod in full canonicals, offered prayer and then read aloud the constitutional oath, which the King repeated in a firm voice. He then signed the oath, and all the Cabinet Ministers and the Metropolitan of Athens countersigned it amid the hearty cheers of the Deputies.

An immense crowd gathered outside the Chamber of Deputies welcomed the King and the other members of the royal family when they emerged, and the cheering continued all the way to the palace.

Upon their return to the palace the new King and Queen received the congratulations of the members of the Cabinet and other notable persons, after which Premier Venizelos tendered the resignation of his Ministry. King Constantine, however, refused to accept it, saying he knew its tender was only a formality. He added that the Government of M. Venizelos enjoyed the full confidence of the Crown.

Later King Constantine and the members of the royal household, accompanied by M. Venizelos, left for Salonika, where they will arrive to-morrow.

The body of King George will be brought to Athens on board a Greek warship, which will be convoyed by foreign men of war.

WILSON EXTENDS SYMPATHY.

Sends Message to King Constantine, Receives One from His Mother.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—President Wilson late to-day sent the following message to King Constantine of Greece:

"On this sad occasion, on the death of your illustrious father, I extend heartfelt smpathy, and I wish to express the earnest hope that your beneficent reign will mark an era of great prosperity. I also offer to your Majesty the assurances of my highest regards and good wishes."

The President received the following cablegram to-day from Olga, Queen Dowager of Greece:

"I beg you to accept and transmit to the Government and people of the United States the Greek nation's, my family's and my own sincerest thanks for your heartfelt sympathy in our most crushing grief."

Alfonso Commutes Death Sentences.

MADRID, March 21.—King Alfonso today commuted the sentence of fourteen prisoners condemned to death. This act of clemency was carried out during the Good Friday service in the private chapel of the Adoration of the Cross in the Royal Palace.

DON'T DISCUSS ARMY GRANT.

Appeal to Reichstag to Adopt $250,000,000 Tax Without Asking Questions.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, March 21.—The Vossische Zeitung gives prominence to a statement of an extraordinary movement to induce the Reichstag to give the German Government a "blank check" with regard to the forthcoming $250,000,000 army increase. The movement is said to be rapidly taking form. An "appeal to patriots" is being circulated among prominent persons. It calls upon the Reichstag to sanction the Government's military proposals without knowledge of their extent or character. The appeal also requests the Reichstag, in view of the importance of the occasion, to adopt the taxation proposals without debate.

This project is believed to have emanated from the ultra-Monarchical quarters of the Conservative Party. The Zeitung, which describes the appeal as a "pronunciamento against the Reichstag," expresses the hope that Parliament will not be deterred by such unusual tactics from subjecting the army tax bills to most careful scrutiny.

The Cologne Gazette learns that it is now intended that all fortunes shall be taxed on the same basis, namely, $6 on every $1,000, instead of the tax being graduated, as has been hitherto proposed.

MEXICAN REBELS TAKE TOWN.

Gov. Gonzales Said to Have Been Killed Under Fugitive Law.

MONTEREY, Mexico, March 21.—The Town of Lampazos, ninety-six miles to the north of this city, in the State of Nuevo Leon, has been occupied by a rebel force commanded by Francisco Zuazua.

EL PASO, Texas, March 21.—Mexicans arriving in Juarez from the south to-day asserted they had been part of a firing squad which put to death Abram Gonzales, Governor of Chihuahua under the Madero Government, a fortnight ago. Gonzales was killed under the fugitive law, the Mexicans related, when on his way from Chihuahua City to Mexico City, where he was to have been placed on trial for an alleged revolutionary plot. In Jiminez the Governor was separated from six other prisoners. Alone in a railway car, he was hurried south. At a quiet place north of Torreon he was removed from the car and shot, said the men who told the story.

Gonzales has been missing since his removal from Chihuahua almost three weeks ago. He was well known among American cattlemen before the revolution, being a cattle broker of Chihuahua City. He was educated in Notre Dame University, South Bend, Ind.

CANANEA, Sonora, Mexico, March 21.—A demand for the surrender of this place was received to-day by Col. Moreno of the Federal garrison. It came from Col. Cabral, commanding the State forces mobilizing at Del Rio, midway between Cananea and Naco, on the border. Cabral said he would attack in the morning, and recommended that all women and children be removed from the place. Automobiles hurried the non-combatants to the border at Bisbee and Douglas.

GUAYMAS, March 21.—It was said officially to-day that 4,000 Federal troops would arrive here Monday to act against the insurgent State authorities in Hermosillo. About 1,000 Federals are garrisoned here.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Salazar, one of the rebel chiefs in Northern Mexico, seems undecided whether to cast his fortune with the Huerta forces or with the factions still in arms against them. Meanwhile Juarez is reported undisturbed. Gen. Salazar is permitting railroads to be repaired and trains are running.

The revolutionists Pereyra and Contreras, according to reports from Durango, have abandoned Cuencame and are said to be in retreat to the North. Durango is quiet, but without railroad communication.

The situation around the border town of Nogales, Ariz., is undisturbed, the American troops keeping a close watch on the Mexican Federal soldiers in Arizona towns to prevent violation of the neutrality laws.

NOGALES, Ariz., March 21.—Facing intrusion of Federal forces from Guaymas, the California Gulf port in Southern Sonora, officials of the insurgent State decided to-day to hasten the campaign against Naco and Cananea, the only remaining Federal garrisons in the north. After crushing Gen. Ojeda at Naco and Col. Moreno at Cananea, all the available State troops will be rushed against Guaymas.

State troops are mobilizing along the Sonora Railway, north of Guaymas, to prevent any sudden sally of the Federals against Hermosillo, the State capital, but not until the northern campaign is completed can a force be organized to oppose any formidable advance of Huerta troops.

Porfirio Diaz Going to Naples.

ROME, March 21.—King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena, having gone to spend Easter on the Island of Monte Cristo, and Pope Pius not being able for some days yet to resume his audiences, Gen. Porfirio Diaz has decided to leave Rome for Naples on Monday, as the Mexican ex-President wishes to meet his daughter, who is coming to Italy from Mexico. He paid a visit to-day to Señor Esteva, the Mexican Minister to Italy, who is still confined to his bed, owing to an attack of influenza.

HONDURAS IN FEAR AS PRESIDENT DIES

Tegucigalpa Full of Rumors of Revolution, Involving All Central America.

ZELAYA AGENTS ARE BUSY

Representatives of Other Cabals Reported at Work Now That Bonilla Has Passed Away.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, March 21.—A dispatch from Tegucigalpa, Honduras, reports the death to-day of President Manuel Bonilla, and says:

"In the streets and clubs of the capital to-night it was a matter of open conjecture whether his death would not throw all Central America into a general upheaval. For nearly a month Tegucigalpa and other Central American cities have been full of talk of the long-expected great revolution that is to set up a solid federation and forever shake off the protecting hand of the United States.

Emissaries of Zelaya, who has always been a dominant factor in Honduran affairs and who caused several of the leading Honduran revolutions, are in the city, and are reported active. Delegations from the Huerta Government in Mexico and from at least one of the Mexican rebel chieftains have also been in touch with the National Palace, although their purpose is said to have been not political.

"Dr. Bertrand, the Vice President who succeeds Bonilla, is popular here and throughout the country, but his capacity for statesmanship is doubted, and he lacks the flavor of romance and filibustering that made Bonilla an idol of the poorer classes. It is believed here that he will not attempt to hold his post for any great length of time, probably resigning. In that event, in addition to the cabals already mentioned, Juan Estrada of Nicaragua and Estrada Cabrera of Guatemala, are to be reckoned with.

"Active steps have been taken to get the military well in hand, and forces are reported already on the borders, having been dispatched there several days ago, when the condition of the President became critical."

Dr. Bertrand is the son of a Spanish merchant who married in Honduras. He is 46 years old. He will serve two years and ten months, filling out Bonilla's unexpired term. After the overthrow of the Davila Government in Honduras in February, 1911, he served as Provisional President, holding the office one year.

Dr. Policarpo Bonilla, a former President of Honduras now living here in exile, predicts that Bertrand will succeed in reuniting the various political factions of the republic. He does not think, as do some others, that the death of Dr. Manuel Bonilla will be followed by political uprisings.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—President Manuel Bonilla of Honduras died at Tegucigalpa to-day of kidney trouble, according to a private telegram received here.

Dr. Bonilla had been afflicted with Bright's disease for about a year and a half. His condition gradually grew worse, and for the past few days he had had several severe convulsions.

Manuel Bonilla was twice President of Honduras, first from 1904 until the early part of 1907, when he was ousted by President Zelaya of Nicaragua after a short rebellion in which the Nicaraguan took part. In the interval of his private citizenship, Bonilla, aided by Lee Christmas, headed several fights against Davila, whom Zelaya had caused to be made President in his place. When he was President in 1904, Policarpo Bonilla, an ex-President and his cousin, alienated the Congress from Manuel, and was arrested, together with many members of that body, for conspiring to rid the republic of Manuel. Manuel suspended the Constitution, declared martial law, and proclaimed himself dictator. It was then that Zelaya intervened and drove the dictator out of the country.

In February, 1908, Manuel, after two unsuccessful attempts to regain power, was one of those indicted in New Orleans by the United States Grand Jury in connection with a filibustering expedition which sailed from New Orleans in December of the previous year. He was in Central America at the time of the indictment, and was never brought to trial; but he continued his assaults against the Government of Honduras. Re-entering the country over which he formerly ruled, and from which he was practically banished after being deposed, Bonilla in 1911 proclaimed himself "Constitutional President of the Republic of Honduras," and on Nov. 3, 1911, Manuel assumed the actual Presidency. His action was ratified by the Honduran Congress on Jan. 10, 1912.

Daring gamblers opened up their resorts in the face of the new Inspector and Dwyer saw his opportunity. He started to make raids right and left, and soon he earned the added sobriquet of "Clean-up" Dwyer. He surrounded himself with the ablest men in the city, and every day or two there was another raid. Dwyer himself made many arrests of disorderly women and succeeded in cleaning up his district in very short order.

Dwyer's Stand for Decency.

Last December Dwyer came into the limelight through the testimony of Mrs. Mary Goode, who testified before the Curran Committee that she had paid protection money in his district. Dwyer was away on a vacation at the time and returned immediately to clear himself of any possible charges which might be made against him. On Dec. 14, when asked about the testimony of Mrs. Goode, Dwyer was quoted as saying:

"I have come back to take charge of my district. I am going to help in every way I can the work that is going on to run down possible grafters. I am only a subordinate in the Police Department, and I have been trying to do the work set me to the best of my ability. Any work going on to clean up the city will have my best help."

About the same time a TIMES reporter called on the Inspector and told him of information that had come to him concerning certain gambling houses in the Fourth District. The Inspector exhibited his books giving the place of each suspected house in his district. Further investigation showed that the Inspector had assigned patrolmen and detectives to watch each of these houses. Continued investigation showed that the places, all former notorious gambling resorts, were doing no business whatever.

Inspector Dwyer last night said that he had nothing to say about the orders of his chief.

One of his subordinates, however, was more outspoken. He said that there was no justification for Commissioner Waldo's order, and he denounced the Commissioner vehemently.

MURTHA FOLLOWED THOMPSON

Both ex-Inspectors, Facing Indictment, Begged Whitman for Terms.

One hour after District Attorney Whitman departed for Albany on Thursday afternoon ex-Police Inspector James F. Thompson was seen in Lafayette Street, less than a stone's throw from the Criminal Court Building. He paced the sidewalk aimlessly for several minutes, it was said, and then walked away with a companion who a little earlier had been inquiring for Mr. Whitman.

Ex-Inspector Thompson is one of the three former Harlem Inspectors over whom Grand Jury indictments are now hanging. It was Thompson on whose behalf two men appeared before District Attorney Whitman on Monday. But it was not Inspector Thompson who called on the District Attorney at his home on Wednesday evening. It was stated on authority yesterday that this visitor was ex-Inspector John J. Murtha. This leaves ex-Inspector James E. Hussey as the only member of the Harlem trio who has not made overtures to the District Attorney.

In the absence of Mr. Whitman from the Criminal Court Building yesterday there was no session of the Grand Jury. Ex-Patrolman John J. Hartigan, however, made his usual trip over the bridge of sighs to Mr. Whitman's quarters. With the consent of Assistant District Attorney Groehl, Hartigan met his wife and little boy in one of Mr. Whitman's rooms. He remained there for nearly two hours, and during that time several other members of the immediate family dropped in to see him. The reception had been planned, because of Hartigan's thirty-second birthday, and Detective Al Thomas of Mr. Whitman's staff gave the prisoner every opportunity to make the most of the day. Hartigan is not permitted to see his child in the Tombs, and for that reason, it was explained, the meeting in the adjoining building was arranged. It was said that Hartigan again persisted that he was innocent of perjury.

James A. Donnelly, Hartigan's lawyer, said yesterday that his client did not have a cent in the world.

"I feel toward that young man as if he were my own son," Mr. Donnelly said. "I have no criticisms to make, but I believe Hartigan is innocent. Mrs. Hartigan told me the other night that if her husband were sent away to prison her home would be broken up for lack of money. They lived in a most modest three or four-room flat, four flights up. When Hartigan entered the Police Department he received less than he had been earning as a butcher's clerk. It was a sacrifice for him, but he was ambitious and thought that he would rise in the department. He had all plans made to take the examination for sergeant this month."

It was said yesterday that Hartigan had asked for another conference with Mr. Whitman for to-day. He will be brought before Justice Seabury for sentence on Tuesday morning.

The Old Way and the New

¶ Once it took months to cross the Atlantic; now it takes days.

¶ Once you could die and your friends know nothing about it for an indefinite period of time; nowadays the telegraph gets your obituary out in good season.

¶ Once you had to propose by letter and have the "old man" intercept it, or by person and be embarrassed; today you can put the question over the 'phone and take no chances—other than that of being accepted.

¶ Once you had to bespeak a suit of clothes a couple of weeks ahead and suffer the annoyance of innumerable try-ons; now you can step into Saks' and get your Easter clothes in ten minutes.

¶ Progress, which is largely a matter of saving time, has eliminated the stage coach and the tape measure.

¶ A man can come into Saks' and get a garment today in less time than it once took him to submit to the red-tape of guesswork and a good intent.

¶ He can have forty times the old range of selection and he can be fitted to perfection, and not have to lie awake nights figuring his chances for a perfect fit, according to the law of averages.

RUSH TO REDEEM GEMS FROM SIMONS

Police Hold Back Crowd While $20,000 Is Paid Into Till of Looted Shop.

THRONG HAD $100,000 READY

Patrons Mostly of Poorer Class and Weep When Told Treasures Are Gone—Child Is Injured.

The redemption of such property as was scorned by the vault robbers who looted Martin Simons & Son's pawnshop a week ago, taking $350,000 worth of jewels, cash, and securities, began at noon yesterday. Hundreds of ticket holders had waited since before daybreak in their eagerness to be among the first to enter the dingy establishment at 94 Hester Street and claim their property if it were there.

It was for the most part a bare-headed, shawl-covered or overcoatless throng. Yet less than a quarter of its membership of 1,000 or so poured into the coffers of the pawnbrokers more than $20,000 in cash in the four hours that the redeeming of pledges continued. Taking this sum as a basis of reckoning, the police estimated that the waiting throng had approximately $100,000 in readiness to pass through the little window.

Behind this window and out of view of the ticket holders, the aged pawnbroker chuckled as he watched his erstwhile empty till fill with its intake of green and yellow bills. While it was filling, a child screamed in the street outside. The cry was followed by a babel of voices, but Simons paid no attention, because he had not seen what the crowd saw. The child, a two-year-old boy, unguarded by his mother, who was intent on redeeming her pawned jewelry, had toddled into the roadway and had fallen beside the wheels of a passing truck. Struggling to arise, the child thrust his foot under a wheel and it was crushed. Earlier in the day, a woman fainted from exhaustion; another of joy when a diamond ring was restored to her.

It was just 4 o'clock in the morning when Mrs. Rachel Shenlinsky of 27 Eldridge Street appeared as the first ticket holder on the scene. She carried an old potato crate, which she placed against the threshold of the pawnshop and sat down. Two middle-aged men, with the collars of their much-worn coats turned up to keep out the chill of the fog, followed her within a few minutes. The trio fell to chatting. The woman said her husband was a peddler; they had lost their money a few years ago in the failure of a Williamsburg bank, and, luck going from bad to worse, they had pawned two diamond rings at Christmas time with the Simonses.

"If the rings are gone, then we have nothing left," he said. She covered her head with her shawl and soon was dozing. Recruits to the line came in increasing numbers until they took up all of the space in front of the pawnshop and had to turn into Eldridge Street for standing room. At 6 o'clock the line reached half way to Canal Street; at 7 o'clock it extended to Canal Street and turned back in to another line.

Warned Against Thieves.

Word of the assembling of the crowd was sent to Capt. Kinsler of the Clinton Street Station, and he sent Sergeant Noonan with twelve men to the shop with orders to maintain the lines and keep the sidewalks passable. The crowd continued to grow, and false reports of a riot were sent to Police Headquarters. Plain clothes men hurried to the pawnshop and, although they found no rioting, there was work for them to do. Men and women well supplied with money could not resist taking furtive peeps at their rolls. Slim, keen-eyed young men with skilled fingers appeared as if they had scented rich pickings. The Headquarters men promptly passed along the lines, warning the waiters to be on their guard against pickpockets.

A notice was posted at 8 o'clock in the window of the pawnshop that it would not open for business until noon instead of 9 o'clock, as had been advertised. Murmurs of disapproval arose, but the police checked any more hostile demonstration. A crew of small boys laden with empty boxes and crates for use as seats sold out their wares quickly at from 5 to 10 cents each. Many among the standees became exhausted and, sitting on the curb, fell fast asleep. Others who had left home without breakfast hailed members of their family who brought food to them. There were many, however, who went hungry until word was given out at 4 o'clock that business was ended for the day and they must return to-day.

Six policemen were stationed at the door of the pawnshop when it was opened at noon and three ticket holders were admitted at a time. There was a surging forward along the lengths of both lines, but threatened disorder was checked quickly by the policemen.

Mrs. Shenlinsky kicked aside her crate seat when she heard the click of the latch and rushed through the door, proffering a ticket which showed she had pawned two diamond rings for $30. She said they cost $200. After a few moments' wait the yellow ticket was thrust back to her and a voice said laconically: "Not here."

Mrs. Shenlinsky raised her clasped hands and wailed, but two policemen urged her gently toward the door. She staggered into the crowd across the street, still wailing. Others who followed her were more fortunate and the spirits of the lines, first depressed by news of Mrs. Shenlinsky's case, became more buoyant as men and women displaying their redeemed valuables spread the glad tidings. Seven clerks were behind the windowed partition and they were kept on the jump. Max Simons, junior member of the firm, devoted his attention to the telephone, responding to inquiries from those who did not present themselves at the window.

One of those who had been standing in line since 6 o'clock was Mrs. Sarah Fineberg of 4 Orchard Street. She was almost hysterical with fear that a $1,000 pearl necklace, which she had pawned for $400, was among the stolen valuables. She presented her ticket and waited breathlessly. A packet was handed to her. She tore away the wrappings, gave a cry of joy and the pearl necklace disappeared in an opening she had made in her waist near the throat. Her husband, who followed her, was told that a diamond ring pledged for $50 and which he valued at $135, was among the missing articles.

Fainted at Getting Ring Back.

Another anxious applicant was Thelma Cohen of 50 Eldridge Street, who had pawned a diamond ring. When it was restored to her she fainted. She was attended by an ambulance surgeon from Gouverneur Hospital, who was on duty at the scene.

Mrs. Mary Goldberg of 60 Eldridge Street had a ring in pawn for $5. While she was seeking to recover it she left her 2-year-old son Moritz on the sidewalk near the door. He fell alongside a passing truck and his foot was so badly crushed that it may have to be amputated, it was said later at Gouverneur Hospital.

Those whose valuables had been stolen were asked to fill in a blank paper with the number of the pawn ticket, their name and address, a description of the article, its price, and other similar details. These records will be delivered to the police to assist in recovering the stolen property from pawnshops or elsewhere. Demands made by some of the applicants for reimbursement for lost goods were met with refusals by the Simonses. They called attention to the "Conditions of Loan" printed on the back of their pawn tickets. It reads:

> Agreed by the holder of this ticket in consideration of interest being charged at less than the rate allowed by law that Martin Simons & Son shall not be liable for loss or damage by fire, breakage, dampness, theft, or moth, nor shall they be liable in any event for more than 25 per cent. in addition to the amount loaned.

The firm charges only 1 per cent. a month on loans, whereas the law allows 3 per cent. Martin Simons said the firm was neither legally nor morally obligated to reimburse customers for losses sustained, and it could not undertake to do so as its personal loss of more than $250,000 had crippled it financially.

"I will have to keep this shop open for a year as required by law," the pawnbroker said. "Then I will close it and never start in this business again, but I will have to do something else for my living. I am 69, but I can start life over again."

The work of restoring property will be continued to-day from 10 A. M. to 3 P. M. Those who appeared yesterday came not only from various parts of Manhattan but from near-by New Jersey towns, East New York, Brownsville, and the Bronx.

"ENGLISH SPY" BRINGS $245.

Book Illustrated by Cruikshank Top Priced at End of $16,616 Sale.

The sale by the Anderson Auction Company of the libraries of Mrs. May E. Smith of this city and the late Edwin D. French, came to an end yesterday. The grand total for the six sessions was $16,616.

The highest price yesterday was $245, paid by E. J. Brooks for a first edition of "The English Spy," by C. M. Westmacott. This work, two volumes royal octavo, was printed in London in 1825-26, and contains seventy-two finely colored plates, by Robert Cruikshank; also one by Thomas Rowlandson. It is probably the most characteristic work of what might be called the "Tom and Jerry" period of London life.

A copy of the suppressed New York, 1890, edition of James McNeill Whistler's "Gentle Art of Making Enemies," was bought on order for $19.50. A letter of Oscar Wilde, recommending an outdoor sunset, went to Gabriel Weis for $9.50. A presentation copy of Walt Whitman's "Leaves of Grass," from the author to Ford Madox Brown, went for $20.

Of an important collection of the writings, namely first editions, of the brothers Charles and John Wesley, the top prices were $16 for a sermon preached by John Wesley at St. Mary's, Oxford, Sept. 21, 1735, and $11 for a first edition of Charles Wesley's "Reasons Against a Separation from the Church of England."

M'COMBS REFUSES MISSION TO FRANCE

Finally Tells Wilson He Cannot Afford to Quit His Law Practice.

ELIOT SAID TO DECLINE, TOO

Though Capital Thinks He's Still Considering London Post—China Mission Reoffered to Mott.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—William F. McCombs of New York, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, announced late to-night that he had declined the Ambassadorship to France, which President Wilson urged him to accept. Mr. McCombs gave the folowing statement to the press:

"To-day I communicated to the President my final decision as to the very great honor he has done me in tendering me the Ambassadorship to France, with assurances of my profound appreciation. No public position within his gift could be more attractive to me personally. In view of its very great dignity and importance, I have naturally weighed the matter with much care.

"After reconsidering the tender the same motives as were in my mind before have impelled me to decline. The acceptance of the post would involve greater sacrifices than I should make. I do not feel that I can afford to leave my life work, the practice of the law. I feel compelled to devote myself to my personal affairs, and at the same time I will lend any assistance in my power that will contribute to the success of the Democratic Administration and to the Democratic Party."

Mr. McCombs saw President Wilson twice to-day and on both occasions discussed the President's offer and the reasons which made Mr. McCombs hesitate to accept it. According to Mr. McCombs's friends, he was inclined to take the position if he could arrange his personal affairs in a way that would enable him to leave the country for a protracted stay. That seemed to have been the situation when Mr. McCombs saw the President this morning.

It has been known that Mr. McCombs spent a large amount of his personal savings both in the pre-convention and Presidential campaigns. He had a lucrative law practice, and his income was augmented by the proceeds of two plantations in Arkansas belonging to his brother and himself. Mr. McCombs felt that, in the absence of any income from the law, the amount he received from his Arkansas farms, plus the salary he would receive as Ambassador at Paris, would not be sufficient to enable him to maintain an ambassadorial establishment. To his way of thinking, the best course was to return to the practice of law and lay aside something for a rainy day.

Those are the surface reasons for Mr. McCombs's declination of the high honor tendered to him by the President. But according to what is said by men who are close to Mr. McCombs he was actuated also by the feeling that he should remain in this country to keep intact the political organization he had formed in the interest of President Wilson's candidacy for the Presidency.

These friends hint also that Mr. McCombs believed it would not be fair to go abroad when so many men who worked shoulder to shoulder with him in the pre-convention and the Presidential campaigns were dependent on his assistance to obtain recognition for that work through appointment to Federal offices. It is believed here that this was the determining reason for Mr. McCombs's refusal to go to Paris as the American diplomatic representative.

Doubt About Other Places.

There was a marked reticence in Administration circles to-day in regard to the offer made by President Wilson to appoint Dr. Charles W. Eliot, President Emeritus of Harvard University, to the office of Ambassador to the Court of St. James's. No answers to questions on the subject could be obtained at the White House or elsewhere. It is supposed here that Dr. Eliot still has the offer under consideration.

President Wilson has apparently persuaded John R. Mott of Montclair, N. J., to give a little further thought to the President's offer to him of the post of Minister to China. Mr. Mott had declined, but it was said to-day that he was reconsidering the tender.

No offer of the Ambassadorship to Mexico has been made to George W. Guthrie, ex-Mayor of Pittsburgh, and present Chairman of the Pennsylvania State Democratic Committee, but the name of Mr. Guthrie is said to stand first in the list of those whom the President regards as fitted for this post, which has become of great importance on account of the serious Mexican situation. Mr. Guthrie prefers a European post.

Prof. Henry Burchard Fine of Princeton University, whom President Wilson asked to become Ambassador to Germany, has not given the President an answer. It is believed here that he will accept.

For the Ambassadorships to Italy, Austria, Brazil, Russia, Turkey, and Japan no definite selections have been made, though Justice James W. Gerard of New York, Augustus Thomas, Thomas Nelson Page, Seth Low, and William Church Osborn are still being prominently mentioned in connection with these posts. Joseph E. Willard of Virginia, Thomas H. Birch of New Jersey, and Frederick C. Penfield of New York are also regarded as certain to be Ministers in the foreign service.

It is likely that John W. Garrett will continue as Minister to Argentina and Maurice Francis Egan as Minister to Denmark.

Former Senator Obadiah Gardner of Maine, having refused the offer of Commissioner of Pensions, friends of Dr. D. C. Gentsch of New Philadelphia, Ohio, have renewed their efforts in his behalf for the place. There are a number of other aspirants, however, and Secretary Lane is understood to be canvassing the field carefully.

Mr. Gardner is credited with refusing the offer because he and his friends did not believe the place "was big enough," and his friends ventured the opinion that he deserved something better. Mr. Gardner had been prominently mentioned for the position of Secretary of Agriculture when President Wilson was making up his Cabinet.

Among the candidates are several from Indiana, who are backed by the Indiana delegation in Congress. John Bell of Illinois is also said to be strongly recommended.

Says Dr. Eliot Has Declined.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., March 21.—Dr. Charles W. Eliot, President emeritus of Harvard, has refused the post of Ambassador to the Court of St. James because of his advanced years and disinclination to live abroad. This information came from an authoritative source in Cambridge to-night, on condition that the informant's name was not disclosed. He says that a letter from Dr. Eliot, mailed to-day, expressing to President Wilson his regrets that he cannot see his way clear to accept the post, is now on the way to Washington.

PROGRESSIVES PLAN FIGHT ON TARIFF

Will Line Up Against Underwood Bill by Offering Amendments—No Substitute Measure.

OUT FOR RECORD IN CONGRESS

Roosevelt Wants Murdock as Their House Leader—Hinebaugh Calls 44 Members to a Caucus.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The Progressives of the forthcoming Sixty-third Congress, who intend to have a separate party organization of their own, putting forward Representative Victor Murdock of Kansas for Speaker, and demanding separate recognition from the Republicans on the House committees, are also out for a Bull Moose record in the tariff special session. It is their present purpose to draft and introduce bills based on the planks of the platform of the National Progressive Party and introduce them in the special session as the basis of their legislative programme.

But this legislative programme will not include a Tariff bill in the form of a Progressive substitute for the Underwood bill. The explanation for this is that the Progressives feel that the tariff cannot be scientifically and properly revised until there has been an investigation of the subject by a non-partisan tariff commission. However, it was asserted here to-night, the Progressives will make their attack on the Underwood Tariff bill on the floor of the House, offering amendments instead of a substitute bill.

Representative Murdock came to Washington to-day and spent some time in conference with several of the Progressive Party members of the House. Those with whom he consulted were Represntatives-elect Walter M. Chandler of New York, William Hinebaugh of Illinois, J. A. Falconer of Washington, and A. W. Lafferty of Oregon.

In connection with these conferences it was said that Theodore Roosevelt wants Representative Murdock to have the leadership of the Bull Moose Party in the House.

Representative-elect Hinebaugh, who has been actively engaged arranging for the holding of a Progressive Party caucus of members of the House before the special session convenes on April 7, has written to forty-four members of the new House, whom he classifies as Progressives or near-Progressives. He has invited them to attend this caucus, but declines to make public the names of the forty-four at this time. After the caucus, it is understood he will make public the names of those who attend the caucus and also the names of those who were invited but did not do so.

GARRISON AND HAY AGREED.

War Secretary and House Chairman Confer and Will Work in Harmony.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Newspaper men were surprised this afternoon when they were shown into the office of Secretary Garrison to find Representative James Hay of Virginia, Chairman of the House Committee on Military Affairs, sitting there. Mr. Hay had not often been at the War Department before for many months.

"I should like to say," said Mr. Garrison, "that Mr. Hay and I have been conferring in regard to matters of army legislation, and we find ourselves entirely agreed on all broad general principles. Differences, if there are any, exist only as to details. We shall get together over all questions concerning army legislation and endeavor to co-operate at every point. Especially we shall endeavor to have what we want carefully worked out when it is brought to the attention of Congress."

"And we shall work in complete harmony," added Mr. Hay, "for the good of the army and the country."

The conference between Mr. Hay and Secretary Garrison is significant in view of the straned relations that existed during the last two sessions of Congress, when Mr. Hay and the Democratic majority of the House tried to make changes in army organization and administration. It is also significant in view of Mr. Garrison's announcement this week when he took ground that is generally thought opposed to the general trend of the legislation favored of late in Congress. In much of this legislation there was direct conflict between Mr. Hay and Major Gen. Wood, Chief of the General Staff.

That these matters entered into the conference between Mr. Garrison and Mr. Hay seems certain, and the indications are that army questions will be discussed hereafter with less asperity and more disposition to compromise and agree than has been the case of late.

PEACE OF MIND

It is no exaggeration to say, that many a property owner has forfeited his peace of mind during the conduct of a building operation which never could compensate him for the worry it gave him, even assuming that it yielded him the compensation he expected.

Which leads us to observe, that an Owner should select a contractor who is qualified by repute to furnish him with the most substantial assurances as to the economical, efficient and rapid conduct of his operation, and thereby contribute to his peace of mind.

Us, for instance.

WIDOWS' PENSIONS FAVORED IN DEBATE

More Speakers Uphold the Levy Bill for State Aid Than Oppose It.

SECRETARY HEBBERD FOR IT

He Says Private Agencies Cannot Meet the Need—Two Societies Represented Against It.

A public meeting for the discussion of the bill proposed by Assemblyman Aaron J. Levy for the establishment of State relief for dependent widows with children was held at the Church House of the Church of the Messiah last night. While two of the largest charity organizations of the city, the Charity Organization Society and the United Hebrew Charities, were said to be opposed to the bill as drawn, the sentiment of the meeting last night seemed overwhelmingly in favor of the measure.

The bill provides for the creation of a Department of Home Assistance for New York City through the appointment by the Mayor of a board of commissioners consisting of the Commissioner of Public Charities and eight additional members, to serve without compensation. It provides that it is within the discretion of the Mayor to select appointees from a list presented by these organizations: The United Hebrew Charities, the Particular Councils of New York and Brooklyn of the St. Vincent de Paul Society, the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, the Widowed Mothers' Fund Association, the Association of Neighborhood Workers of New York, the Brooklyn Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, and the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities. Relief may be granted to any dependent widow of good character with two or more children under 16 years of age if her husband was a citizen of the United States or a resident of New York City for three years immediately preceding his death. The relief may be granted directly through the department's agents, or given to existing relief organizations for this specific purpose, provided each such organization subscribes 50 per cent. of the amount furnished by the State. Annual appropriations for carrying out the provisions of the bill would be made from the city budget.

The Rev. John Haynes Holmes, pastor of the church, presided at the meeting. The provisions of the bill were discussed by Robert W. Hebberd, former Commissioner of Charities and now Secretary of the State Charities Department, who was largely instrumental in drawing it up. Mr. Hebberd said that in seeking to provide aid for dependent widows with children the State would simply be doing what the existing private charity organizations had admittedly been unable to do and would always be unable to do. Relief in homes, he said, was really a governmental function, and already the State was virtually carrying it on in every community except New York City.

"If the widow with dependent children is left to work out her own salvation as now," he said, "she usually breaks down. Then she finds her way into the public hospitals, and the city pays the bill. Her children find their way into public institutions, and again the State pays the bill. And many of them, deprived of the influence of a home and a mother, find their way ultimately into Elmira or Sing Sing, and there the State pays the heaviest bill of all.

"It has been known and admitted for years that dependent widows have been unable to get adequate relief from private institutions. Even the United Hebrew Charities, which pays three times as much to each family as any other private charity organization, admits that it could not give adequate relief in this respect. We have no desire to take this matter out of the hands of existing charity organizations, but simply wish to give them greater means for carrying on the work.

"A city like New York, which can spend millions a year for graft, and from $10,000,000 to $12,000,000 a year for licenses to sell liquor—the chief contributing cause of poverty and distress—can afford to pay for the relief of its dependent widows and children."

Mrs. William Einstein, President of the Widowed Mothers' Fund Association, said that no arguments had been advanced against the bill except those that were "absurd, forced, or not advanced in good faith."

"It was to be expected that the strongest objections to the measure should come from professional philanthropists," she said. "As for the objection that it would mean a great burden on taxpayers, the taxpayers are already paying dearly for maintenance in asylums of half-orphans. If the thousands of widows in New York were able to give their children proper care at home, the percentage of crime would be reduced enormously, and the cost of fighting it. For I need not tell you how many of our criminals are institution-bred.

"It is true that many widows who would not ask relief of private charities would apply to the State for the pensions. Many mothers would rather work their fingers to the bone than undergo the humiliation of asking aid of some of our so-called scientific private charities. It is just such as these who are most entitled to State relief."

Dr. Holmes, in indorsing the bill, said that it was one of its virtues that the measure removed the whole matter of widows' relief from the field of charity, in that it gave them a pension—not charity, but an honor paid by the State for service rendered. To him the measure seemed almost too conservative, inasmuch as he had often thought the State ought to give a pension to every woman who brought a child into the world.

Objections to the bill were voiced in behalf of the Charity Organization Society by several persons who admitted that they spoke unauthoritatively. One was that State aid would immediately tend to dry up or decrease the present sources of public contributions to such private charity organizations. V. M. Cady, Secretary of the Social Service Exchange of the Charity Organization Society, held that the charity organizations were heartily in favor of providing more funds for relief of widows, but that the problem should be met squarely by complete State insurance or industrial compensation for the loss of breadwinners of families, instead of keeping the present organizations as the machinery of distributing the pensions and providing opportunity for political favoritism. The charity organizations, he said, would prefer to be left entirely out of the question, so that the widow's pension might in very fact be a pension rather than charity.

STOPS WEDDING AT THE HOUR

First Wife Appears in Mount Holly as Ceremony Is to be Performed.

Special to The New York Times.

MT. HOLLY, N. J., March 21.—Twenty minutes before the marriage ceremony of William E. Borden of this place and 17-year-old Bertha A. Shinn of Hightstown was to have been performed on Wednesday night a woman who said she was Borden's wife appeared, and the wedding did not take place.

The guests were assembled in the home of Mrs. Danley, mother of Borden, in Mill Street. The bride was in her wedding gown and was waiting for the signal to enter the room in which the minister and the bridesmaids and the best man were waiting.

At this point Borden was called to the door, a woman having sent word that she wanted to talk to him. Their conversation lasted only a few moments and the woman went away. Word was sent to the guests that circumstances had arisen which made the postponement of the wedding necessary.

The bride almost collapsed and was taken to the home of her relatives in a serious condition

To-day it was publicly announced that the wedding of Miss Shinn and Borden had been postponed indefinitely.

It is said that the woman who stopped the wedding lives in Camden. Elias Parker, a State detective, says she told him she married Borden seven years ago, and that he deserted her four months later.

Miss Shinn is now at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Shinn, near Hightstown. If she followed the advice of her grandmother, she has burned the wedding dress.

Borden is employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Methodists Inject Politics Into the Newark Conference.

Bishop Luther B. Wilson made his annual address to the ministers who attended yesterday the fifty-sixth annual Newark Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the Halsey Street Methodist Episcopal Church, Newark. The Bishop spoke on the problems of conservation of child life, the promotion of the moral as well as the spiritual life of the community, and the need of virile manhood in the ministry.

"I especially want to call your attention to the necessity of caring for child life," he said. "This is an age when child life is pressed upon our thinking and the privilege and the responsibility of the ministry cannot be treated with indifference."

At the afternoon session the Rev. Edwin I. Stearns of the Anti-Saloon League scored James R. Nugent, City Counsel of Newark. The speaker said that ex-Congressman R. Wayne Parker, while in Washington, had supported the liquor interests. He boomed ex-State Senator William C. Gebhardt, now Clerk of the Supreme Court, for Governor.

"All the politicians now at Trenton, up to the Governor, wear the brewers' stamp," he said.

HIS PISTOL IN PLAIN SIGHT.

German Trying to Obey Sullivan Law Locked Up Just the Same.

Because he had heard of the perils of "gang" holdups in New York, Frank Greskorverk of 227 Tenth Avenue, who arrived here from Germany a few days ago and made his first after-dark venture on the streets last night, carried a long-barreled revolver. But because his friends had told him there was a law against "concealed" weapons, he carried the gun in his right hand exposed to view. Patrolman O'Connor was standing at Tenth Avenue and Thirty-sixth Street when he saw the German walking along with the weapon swinging at his side and a crowd of boys trailing him.

O'Connor arrested Greskorverk. Greskorverk explained why he had the revolver, and said he would not feel safe without it. He was told that his act, according to the ideas of the police anyhow, constituted a violation of the Sullivan law, and on that charge he was locked up for the night.

STAND WITH SULZER AGAINST BOSS RULE

Hundreds of Telegrams and Letters Applaud the Governor's Independence Programme.

KINGS MAY DROP TAMMANY

McCooey, Who Calls on Sulzer, Is Thought Doomed as Soon as Kings Democrats Start War on Murphy.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 21.—The report that Gov. Sulzer intended to make definite announcement of his attitude toward the Democratic organization in general, and Charles F. Murphy in particular, which was printed in an Albany dispatch to THE NEW YORK TIMES this morning, has aroused widespread interest throughout the State, if the letters and telegrams which have flowed ino the Executive Chamber all day can be taken as a criterion.

Gov. Sulzer is not yet ready to make public any of the hundreds of encouraging messages he has received, but it may be stated authoritatively that if Tammany tries to make trouble or dispute Gov. Sulzer's claim to the leadership, the Governor will not enter the fight single-handed. A large body of Democrats in every part of the State, who have been chafing under Tammany domination to the point of regretting the Democrat victory of two years ago, will be solidly behind him.

Persons who have frequented the Executive Chamber in the last ten days have noticed that the Governor's list of visitors during that period has assumed large proportions. Among his callers have been scores of men who have been leaders in their localities in those independent movements within the party which have been organized from year to year since Murphy was instrumental in naming Hearst as a Democratic candidate for Governor in 1906.

Gov. Sulzer in his talk with newspaper correspondents to-day let it be known that his statement of purposes would probably be made on Tuesday evening, when he is to speak at the annual banquet of the Editorial Association, an organization composed largely of editors from the rural sections of the State.

Will Let Other Leaders In.

Gov. Sulzer, so far from breaking with his party or holding aloof from its leaders as Hughes did, will set forth a policy under which a greater number of leaders will be invited to sit in at Democratic council fires. During the Dix Administration Murphy was the whole thing and his word could make or mar, both in matters of patronage and legislation.

The friends of Gov. Sulzer believe that following his declaration of independence there will be a rapid and thorough readjustment within the Democratic organization. For instance, it is regarded as almost certain that the lineup of Kings County Democrats with most of the up-State county organizations against Tammany, which obtained when Hill was Governor and State leader, will be resumed. The formal establishment of the County of the Bronx, where Democrats have for years manifested independent tendencies as strong as those of Kings on some occasions, is calculated, according to political observers here, to loosen Tammany's grip on New York City affairs, where the vice and graft disclosures have done their share toward weakening the organization and making Murphy's leadership less secure.

John H. McCooey, Murphy's understudy in Brooklyn, came to the capital to-day and called on Gov. Sulzer. Mr. McCooey, whose leadership in Kings is likely to end the moment the Democrats of Kings find opportunity to dispute the suzerainty of Mr. Murphy in that borough, would not admit that he had visited the Governor to assure him of loyalty to his leadership.

"I came up to see Attorney General Carmody, and incidentally dropped in to pay my respects to Gov. Sulzer," said Mr. McCooey.

Gov. Sulzer said to-day that one hour out of ten was devoted to his duties as Democratic leader of the State. The other nine hours of the working day were devoted to administration duties.

"I consider the occupation of that tenth hour as much of a duty performed to the people as the work I do in the other nine," added the Governor. "Results will justify the setting aside of one-tenth of my working day to the consideration of politics."

Strong for County Autonomy.

To show just how strongly he believed in county autonomy, Gov. Sulzer stated today that if the Monroe County organization should again indorse for Hospital Commissioner Milton E. Gibbs, whom the Senate rejected unanimously last week, he would again send in his name to that body. The statement caused amazement, because it was shown before the Senate Finance Committee, through Mr. Gibbs's own testimony, that he was hardly a man to hold a position of trust in the State service.

Should the Governor follow his county autonomy plan to the extent of being guided entirely by recommendations of the county organization, he may find that he cannot appoint John N. Carlisle of Jefferson County to one of the vacancies on the up-State Public Service Commission, as he purposes. The State Committeeman from that district, as well as the Chairman of the County Committee, oppose Carlisle's appointment on the ground that he is not in good standing with the organization.

When the Governor's attention was called to this fact he said that no protest against Carlisle had come from the county organization as such.

"Mr. Carlisle is one of the biggest and ablest Democrats in Northern New York," continued the Governor. "I think I know that the real sentiment among the Democratic rank and file in Jefferson is overwhelmingly in favor of Mr. Carlisle. When the proper time comes I will find some way to make that sentiment felt here at the Capitol."

This was taken to indicate that Sulzer was preparing to make an "appeal to the people" on behalf of Carlisle.

BURGLAR ALARM FALSE.

Police Got Two Prisoners and One Policeman Was Mistaken for Robber.

The police of the Mulberry Street Station made a thorough investigation yesterday of the report that burglars had again entered the six-story building at 142 and 144 Grand Street early in the morning, in an effort to break into the safe of Meyer, Martin & Danda, importers. They came to the conclusion that it was a false alarm. On Thursday morning at 1:30 o'clock the police were first summoned to the building by the clanging of the burglar alarm and got two prisoners, William Roselle and John Ravice.

It was just twenty-four hours later when the alarm sounded again yesterday morning, and William McNeir of the Holmes Agency, which installed the alarm system, notified the police. A squad of policemen under Detective Ward surrounded the building and searched it from top to bottom. They found that a window of the skylight was opened, but there was no direct evidence that burglars had been there. The only excitement came when Policeman Brunns, who was using a flashlight, was mistaken for a burglar.

Representatives of the agency reported to the police that a crossed wire had probably caused the alarm to ring. Members of the importing firm said that nothing had been touched. They agreed with the police that it was a false alarm.

SHERIFF LOCKS UP KEEPERS.

Particular Care in Guarding Property Seized in Dahlgren Divorce Case.

According to Sheriff Harburger, it will be another week before an inventory of the contents of Eric B. Dahlgren's house will be completed. The property was seized on Tuesday by the Sheriff's deputies in a replevin action sued out by Mrs. Lucy Drexel Dahlgren, who obtained a divorce last week in the Supreme Court.

The Sheriff said yesterday that six van loads of furniture had been removed already, and that more than 100 barrels and boxes remained. Dahlgren is the son of Rear Admiral Dahlgren, and there are many valuable war relics in the house which are being moved under the personal supervision of Dahlgren. The men who are watching the house are locked in every night by the Sheriff.

NEWPORT, March 21.—Inquiries are being made as to the whereabouts of John V. Walsh, formerly of Conanicut Park, Jamestown, whose uncle, Thomas Cuddy of Buffalo, died recently, leaving to his nephew $38,000, principally in Buffalo real estate. An attorney, J. E. Smith of Buffalo, and officials of the United Traveling Men's Association are searching for the beneficiary, who has been away from Jamestown almost eight years.

Find E. A. Peck a Suicide.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 21.—After a week's search the body of E. A. Peck, General Superintendent of the St. Louis Southwestern Railroad, who disappeared from his hotel here on March 12, was found in the woods near Hot Springs today, a pistol clutched in his hand and a bullet wound in his right temple. Mr. Peck had been in ill health and came to Hot Springs several weeks ago. When he left the hotel his despondency was evident.

DENIES BEING WHITE SLAVER.

Krancz Gives Himself Up, Saying Martha Frutit Led Him to Chinatown.

Joseph Krancz, 20 years old, gave himself up last night at Police Headquarters, answering the charge of abduction. Detectives had been searching for him since Tuesday, when he was seen in Chinatown with Martha Frutit, 16 years, of 38 Starr Street, Brooklyn. They believed that the young man might supply some important evidence concerning the white slave traffic, as they had learned Krancz turned the girl over to Wong Joe of 20 Mott Street.

Krancz lives at 26 Prospect Street, Brooklyn, and is employed as a mechanic by the American Machine and Foundry Company of Carroll Street. He is a member of the Eighth Regiment and the Hospital Corps of the National Guard.

According to the young man's story, he met the girl on a car on the Brooklyn Bridge and took her to an entertainment at the Eighth Regiment Armory, at Lexington Avenue and Ninety-fourth Street. She told him, he said, that she had run away from her home in Brooklyn and wanted to go to Chinatown to live. He tried to persuade her not to, telling her to return to her home, but she laughed at him, he said. After leaving the armory they went downtown, Krancz said, and the girl persisted in going to Chinatown, and he had accompanied her. There she left him, he said, and went with the Chinaman. He denied having any conversation with the Chinaman.

The girl is now at the House of Mercy, where she was sent by Magistrate McQuade.

TROUBLE FOR THE YIDDISH.

Strike in Two Theatres Here to be Extended to Other Cities.

Secretary Bernard Weinstein of the United Hebrew Trades, with which the Hebrew Actors' Union is affiliated, announced last evening that preparations had been made to extend the strike at Kessler's Theatre and the National Theatre, where plays are given in Yiddish, to cities outside of New York. He said that committees had been sent to Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, and Lynn to get the Yiddish actors in those cities to strike in sympathy.

When the strike, which was against non-union stage hands, was ordered at the two theatres several weeks ago no non-union stage hands were employed at either. The union leaders, however, said that the company owning the two theatres owned a third theatre uptown where only non-union stage hands were employed, and as a strike could not be ordered at the uptown theatre, a strike of the union men in the two downtown theatres was ordered to force the employment of union stage hands in the uptown theatre.

MISS MANTELL MAKES DEBUT.

Like Her Father, She Makes Her First Appearance at Albany.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 21.—Ethel Charlotte Mantell, the sixteen-year-old daughter of Robert B. Mantell, who is filling a week's engagement here in Shakespearean rôles, made her début this evening in a minor part in "Julius Caesar."

Mr. Mantell made his first American appearance in Albany at the old Leland Opera House in "Fedora" with Mme. Modjeska in 1878, and it was his desire that his daughter should make her first appearance on an Albany stage. He summoned her from his home at Atlantic Highlands yesterday that she might appear in Albany before the close of his present engagement.

RECEIVER NAMED FOR THE BRIGHTON TRACK

Samuel Gumpertz May Conduct Racing Under $50,000 Mortgage Suit.

MAY GET ALL REVENUE HE CAN

Justice Kelby's Order Restrains Brighton Beach Association from Collecting Any Income.

Racing at Brighton Beach this Summer under the direction and control of a receiver is the latest promise for a return of the sport to New York. Samuel Gumpertz was yesterday appointed receiver of the Brighton Beach Racing Association on the application of Robert H. Elder, representing William McBrien, who brought foreclosure proceedings on a fifty-thousand-dollar mortgage. Justice Kelby fixed the bond at $100,000, which was furnished by Mr. Gumpertz, and it was intimated that William A. Engeman, President of the association, will shortly make his request for racing dates to the Stewards of The Jockey Club.

The mortgage was made by the association on April 8, 1911, and filed in the office of the County Clerk two days later. While Mr. McBrien appears as the plaintiff, it is said that the real parties at interest are the De Forest brothers and the Title Guarantee and Trust Company. This mortgage covered not only the race track itself but the land on which the Parkway Baths are located, and includes altogether nearly 100 acres of upland and marsh.

Lawyer Elder's order is an all-embracing one, for it puts in the power of the receiver to get out of the property, in rents and by use, all that he can. The track is not a money producer now, and the principal income is from the baths. When asked if under the order the receiver would have the right to conduct a race meeting, Mr. Elder said that he certainly would. He also broadly intimated that the receivership move, on the part of his client, was entirely friendly to the Brighton Beach Racing Association. It was for the purpose of having some one handle the property and make it a paying proposition.

The party defendants named in the suit include the Brighton Beach Racing Association, the Parkway Baths Company, Leonard and Vincent Padula, James W. Corrigal, Val Dwyer, Henry Coppert, Daniel King, William Cohen, William Clare, John Quigley, Annie Kelly, Joseph Schwartzman, Lillian J. Leffler, the City of New York, Brooklyn Bank in the City of New York, Ella Everts, the Municipal Liens Company, Abraham L. Jaffe, Harry Zerinsky, John J. A. Rogers, the H. H. Summers Association, and Walter E. Morson, as executor of the late Harry P. Hoagland.

COURT AFFIRMS MARTIAL LAW

West Virginia Judges Reject Miners' Plea Against Gov. Hatfield.

CHARLESTON, West Va., March 21.—In an opinion handed down late to-day the Supreme Court of Appeals affirms the right of the Governor to declare martial law and appoint a military commission.

The opinion was rendered in the case of "Mother" Mary Jones, Charles H. Boswell, Paul J. Paulson, and Charles Bartley against Gov. Hatfield and members of the military commission, asking for a writ of habeas corpus to compel the Governor and military authorities to turn the petitioners over to the civil authorities. The petitioners denied the right of the Governor and the military commission to try persons apprehended outside the military zone of the Kanawha County coal fields.

The opinion, which was written by Judge Poffenbarger, President of the court, holds that the Governor has the right to arrest out of military district all persons who shall give aid, support, or information to persons within the zone who break the laws. It further states that the Governor and military commission have the right to detain or imprison persons apprehended outside the martial law section. The court does not think the declaration of martial law or the creation of a military commission contravenes the Constitution of the State or of the United States.

Martial law will be continued indefinitely in the Kanawha coal field. Gov. Hatfield so announced to-day at the close of his personal investigation of conditions in the district.

He intimated that a rebellious spirit was being fomented by persons outside the district and threatened to arrest the agitators. He said:

"I am satisfied that in doing this I shall be well within the limits of the executive power and authority, and at the same time I will in this way obtain a further knowledge of the purpose of those who are rebellious for use in the determination of the question of the wisdom of resort to more extreme measures as a means of restoring the supremacy and due administration of the civil laws.

"In conformity with this line of policy I have taken up for consideration and action such findings and recommendations of the military commission as seem not to be sustained by the evidence or to call for the exercise of clemency. After all cases of that class shall have been disposed of I shall as speedily as possible pass upon the findings that seem to be sustained by the evidence and as to which the recommendations seem to be just.

"To my mind it is infinitely more important that peace be restored and law and order permanently established than that past offenders be punished."

Gov. Hatfield late to-day released four prisoners held by the military authorities in connection with the strike troubles. This makes a total of twenty-nine prisoners who have been freed by the Executive within two days. Most of these, it is said, have never been tried, but several have important evidence against other prisoners.

DR. HYAMSON IS HERE.

Rumor Revived That He Will Take Rabbi Hertz's Place.

The Rev. Dr. Moses Hyamson, assistant to the late Chief Rabbi Herman Adler of England, whose successor to the chief rabbinate was Rabbi Joseph Hertz of this city, arrived here on Thursday morning from Boston and was welcomed by a reception committee of prominent rabbis. Dr. Hyamson is staying at 82 East Ninety-second Street. It has been rumored repeatedly that he is to become rabbi of Congregation Orach Chaim, where Dr. Hertz was until his accession to the chief rabbinate of England. The report could not be confirmed last night.

BOY KILLS AN INTRUDER.

Flemington Man Trying to Enter House Warned and Then Shot.

Special to The New York Times.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., March 21.—Defending his home and widowed mother with a Flobert rifle, Benjamin Rake, 15 years old, shot and killed Harvey Marshall, 28 years old, at midnight last night. Rake told the police Marshall tried to get into their house in Brown Street, and refused to go away when Mrs. Rake ordered him to. Young Rake leaned out of an upper window and told Marshall he would shoot if he did not leave. Marshall, who, the mother and son say, was drunk, merely replied: "Hand one out."

Only one shot was fired. It struck Marshall near the heart. He turned and ran about 200 feet before he fell. Rake is now locked up, waiting the verdict of a Coroner's Jury.

The police say that Rake insists that he had a good reason for shooting. He did not go into details.

Marshall leaves a widow and two small children. No one to-day could assign a reason for his persistence in trying to enter the Rake home.

Dr. Gunnison Is Recovering.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., March 21.—The condition of Dr. Almon Gunnison, President of St. Lawrence University in Canton, is much improved, and his recovery is assured. He has been suffering from acute indigestion.

MRS. FITZHUGH RE-ARRESTED

Discharged, Then Held Again on Two Grand Larceny Complaints.

After having been discharged yesterday afternoon by Magistrate Freschi in the Jefferson Market Court, the woman known as Mrs. Randolph Fitzhugh, who asserted that she was the wife of Albert S. Northrop, a lawyer of Washington, D. C., was immediately rearraigned on two charges of grand larceny.

Brought to court from Bellevue Hospital, the woman became almost hysterical at the beginning of the examination. The first charge against her, presented by Assistant District Attorney Dickinson, was based on the complaint of Miss Dorothy Fisk of Plainfield, N. J., daughter of Pliny W. Fisk, who testified that she had lost her gold mesh bag, valued at $550, in St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church one Sunday morning last February. A nurse girl formerly in the employ of the woman told of having seen the bag in her possession. Mrs. Fitzhugh was held in $2,000 bail on this charge.

The second charge was based on the complaint of Miss Etna Munsey, an actress of 2,842 Broadway, who said that she had lost a purse containing some money and a gold bracelet worth $200 on Nov. 25, 1912, in the Church of the Transfiguration. Subsequently the bracelet was found in a pawnshop, where the loan ticket was issued in the name of Mrs. Fitzhugh. The nurse girl testified that she had seen the pawn ticket in Mrs. Fitzhugh's possession and that a man living in Washington had taken it after giving her money. The woman was held on a charge of grand larceny in the second degree in $1,000 bail.

On taking the stand the woman was asked by Mr. Dickinson if she knew that Mr. Northrop, to whom she asserted that she was married, already had a wife and three children. She almost swooned, but replied faintly that Northrup was her husband and that efforts had been made to take from her the birth certificate of her child and her marriage certificate. When the hearing was concluded at 7 o'clock in the evening, she broke down completely and protested her innocence.

"This is persecution pure and simple," she cried. "Those people want to gt my baby, but I will die in prison before I tell where he is. Right now there are some people high in society in New York who could step out and save me, but they won't because they are afraid of publicity. One man could speak the word and clear me, but I'm sworn not to tell any names. I will keep my word."

Soothing Syrup Kills a Man.

WHEELING, March 21.—Suffering from insomnia, John Babbitt, prominent in local business and political circles, resorted to a soothing syrup as an opiate and died to-day. The Coroner attributes his death to an overdose of the medicine.

STEAL $1,000 HIDDEN IN BED.

Stapleton Woman Only Has Insurance Money Overnight.

Some time between 6 and 10 o'clock yesterday morning some one stole $1,000 from the mattress of her bed, according to the story told yesterday by Mrs. Adam Rau, a widow of Stapleton, S. I. Mrs. Rau manages a hotel at Broad and Canal Streets, Stapleton. On Thursday she received $1,000 from a life insurance company too late in the day to put the money in the bank. She hid it in the mattress, intending to bank it yesterday.

She arose at 6 o'clock yesterday morning, and the money was where she had left it. She went down stairs and opened the bar, and remained there until 10 o'clock, when she went up to her room to dress and take the money to the bank. Then she discovered it was gone. Last night the lodgers in the hotel and the servants were questioned, but they all denied knowing anything of the money.

Bill to Put Up Blaine Statue.

AUGUSTA, Me., March 21.—A resolve providing for a statue of James G. Blaine, Secretary of State in President Benjamin Harrison's Cabinet and a native of this city, to be placed on the lawn in front of the State House was presented in the Senate to-day. Provision is made for an appropriation of $8,000 on condition that an equal amount be subscribed by the public.

Half to Three-Fourths Below Original Prices.

TODAY'S SPRING CLEARANCE of Misses' Apparel will be one of the most important events of the year in magnitude, in timeliness and in the marvelously little prices.

This merchandise is all in seasonable styles and qualities. The materials are fine. The workmanship is admirable. Yet because it is the practice of the Loeser Store to clear up the goods of a season in that season, young women and children will have opportunity today to have their wardrobes replenished by pretty and seasonable garments at prices that often are less than the cost of the good materials of which they are made.

$3.98 for Misses' Suits, Originally to $14.98.
$9.98 for Misses' Suits, Originally to $25.

Made of serges, tweeds, diagonals and other good suitings, in tailored modes that are permanently in style. Some with velvet collars; all with handsome finishings.

$9.98 for Misses' Coats, Originally $25 to $40.

Correct weight for traveling; the sort of substantial Coats that every young woman wants to take with her to mountains or seashore.

They are made in styles that will be maintained for much of the Summer and early Fall; of stripes, checks, diagonals, plaids and plain colors. There are some Scotchy combinations and one of golf red and another Navajo Blanket Coat.

$1.98 for Children's $5 Wool Dresses.

Cashmere, serge, panama and melrose in all the good blues, browns, dark reds and other shades for children. Trimmed with wide and narrow braid; elaborate designs; some with fancy Bulgar braids; a few with lace yokes.

$4.98 for Children's $10 Wool Dresses.

Diagonals, serges, whipcords and other durable materials; some trimmed with silks in fancy Scotch plaids; some with braids, and some elaborately embroidered on the front in silk with inlays of velvet; some have patent leather belts.

$2.98 and $3.98 for Children's $6 to $8 Wash Dresses.

The reason for the great reduction upon these pretty Dresses is that they have been exposed in the cases, and need a tubbing to freshen them.

They are made of fine lawns, with a very few in pretty nets. Some have yokes of hand-crocheted lace. Some are elaborately trimmed with Val. and other good laces and fine embroidery insertions. Some few are made of allover flouncing. A great number have adornments of ribbon, white, pink and blue. Exceptionally good values in these.

None of These Garments Will Be Credited.

FIND THIEVES BORING A TUNNEL INTO LOFT

Band Discovered Working Toward $65,000 in Plunder from Rented Quarters Next Door.

POLICE WATCH TWO MONTHS

Hole Driven Through Only Spot Unprotected by Burglar Alarm—Four Prisoners Old Offenders.

When the suspicion of the police was aroused two months ago by four men whose mysterious comings and goings warranted the belief that they were a band of criminals preparing to operate on a large scale, Police Capt. Gilday and Detectives Toner, Gaynor, Mugge, Calt and Gus Reilly began a constant watch. There was at least one detective dogging the steps of the men night and day to keep trace of their whereabouts, and once, when Detective Calt was trailing them and his teammate failed to relieve him, he followed the suspects for twenty-seven hours.

As a result of their persistence the detectives traced the four men last week to a three-story loft building at 813 Broadway, where one of them engaged a loft on the second floor from the United Merchants Realty and Improvement Company. The loft is reached by a dark, narrow stairway, broken by a landing where the door opens. On the door was tacked a piece of brown wrapping paper with a sign in crude pencil marks, "Office of A. Simon."

Every day a detective stationed himself in front of the building to observe the men's actions. Consequently the detectives felt little surprise on Thursday afternoon when a truck drove up and deposited four large wooden cases and a suitcase that were hurriedly taken into the building by three of the men.

One Man Locked Out.

No time was lost in informing Gilday, and at 5:45 o'clock the captain and his five detectives were watching the building. As night came on and the streets became deserted in that section of the city the detectives were forced to take more than ordinary precautions to conceal their presence from the men in the building. The detectives were certain that three of the men were still in the loft, when one of the tenants having the care of the building descended the stairway, pulled down and locked the iron shutter securing the entrance, locking the three men on the inside. When the fourth man arrived and found himself locked out, the detectives said, he made a signal to the others to let him in, but finding this impossible he hung around the entrance that was closed.

About 7:30 o'clock in the evening the burglar alarm installed in the establishment of the Carusa Feather Company on the second floor of the adjoining building, 815 Broadway, was set off, but the Burglary Insurance Company reported it as a case of crossed wires.

Half obscured by the thick fog the detectives kept up their watch until midnight at their different stations near the building. Then they saw the bread line forming in front of Fleischmann's bakery in Broadway, between Eleventh and Twelfth Streets, and they conceived the idea of mingling with the hungry outcasts to lessen the possibility of betraying their presence. Accordingly the detectives one by one slipped out of their places and stole their way into the bread line, where they had an equally advantageous place to observe the building. Moving up to the window where the bread and coffee was handed out each detective dropped out of the line in turn and went back to the end of the string of men to approach the window again and again until the crowd was fed. When the line was dispersed the detectives took up their old positions, where they waited until nearly 7 o'clock before a boy appeared to open the building.

Detectives Rush Up Stairs.

The opening of the shutter over the doorway was the signal for the detectives. Drawing their revolvers, one of them pounced upon the man who had been locked out and had waited around the entrance of the building all night, while the others, following Capt. Gilday, rushed up the stairs. Bursting into the loft they came on the three other men and placed them under arrest.

An inspection of the place disclosed a hole bored nearly through the two-foot brick wall into the adjoining loft occupied by the Carusa Feather Company. The four wooden cases taken into the building the preceding afternoon were found stationed against the wall and obscuring the hole. In these cases, the detectives said, were six bits, two braces, two "can openers," marking brushes and ink, four pairs of cotton gloves, and a general assortment of burglars' tools. The rubbish had been carefully swept up and thrown into the packing cases.

It was further found that the hole that was driven almost through the wall had been located just about three feet west of the safe of the Carusa Feather Company, containing more than $5,000 worth of feathers and securities. However, it was driven through the only place that was unprotected by wires of the alarm system, and gave easy access to large boxes of feathers valued at a little less than $10,000, as well as to the other contents of the loft worth more than $50,000.

A member of the feather concern said yesterday afternoon that on the preceding afternoon two young men, clean shaven and well dressed, had come to his establishment representing themselves as building Inspectors. After they had shown what he thought were proper credentials he allowed them to make an investigation of the loft from floor to ceiling, but he said he had noticed that they spent more time examining the walls surrounding the safe and the exit to the roof of the building than any other parts of the loft.

When the prisoners were taken to Police Headquarters the detectives said they were old offenders. The record made by the police showed that the prisoners were as follows:

Samuel Stein, known as "Senator," alias Herman Kantowitz, 122 East Thirteenth Street; Robert Davis, alias Dan and David Davis, 142 Monroe Street; Harry Baker, alias Diamond and Goldberg, 22 Cherry Street, and Abe Botnik, alias Kahn, alias Frankel, 19 East Eighth Street.

CHILD'S MARRIAGE ANNULLED

Precedent for New York Established in the Cunningham Case.

After three years of litigation Mrs. Anna Prell Cunningham, daughter of a Cedar Street restaurateur, obtained yesterday an annulment of her marriage to William Cunningham, to whom she was married in New Jersey on Jan. 30, 1910, when she was only 17 years of age. The application for an annulment was denied in November, 1910, by Supreme Court Justice Greenbaum, and his decision was upheld in June, 1911, by the Appellate Division. The case was carried to the Court of Appeals, which set aside the decisions of the lower courts and ordered a new trial. Supreme Court Justice Bischoff presided at this trial and granted the annulment.

When they were married William Cunningham, who is a machinist, 40 years old, was a boarder in the house of the bride's father at 107 Seventh Avenue. The two failed to get a marriage license in the City Hall when the clerk learned that the bride was only 17 years of age, and there was no evidence of her parents' consent. They were married finally in Westwood, N. J., and kept the wedding a secret until March. The parents of the girl retained August P. Wagener, a lawyer of 51 Chambers Street, who brought the action for annulment. Justice Haigh, who wrote the prevailing opinion of the Court of Appeals, said that "a marriage performed in another State between parties resident of New York State, one of whom was under age of consent, and without the knowledge of the parents, is repugnant to our public policy and statutes and an action to annul may be sustained."

This is the first time that the highest court in New York State has rendered a decision upon such a marriage, contracted outside of the State.

BARNES WINS A POINT.

His $3,000,000 Oil Suit Will Be Tried in the Federal Court.

Judge Ward filed an opinion yesterday in the Federal District Court by which Thurlow Ward Barnes can have his suit for $3,000,000 against Joseph C. Trees, Michael L. Benedum, Harry S. Grayson, and the J. C. Trees Oil Company tried in the Federal Court. He had sought permission to do so on the ground of diversity of citizenship.

Mr. Barnes in his complaint asserts that he made an agreement in June, 1910, with the defendants for the sale of certain Southern oil lands, by which in the event of his finding a purchaser he was to receive all the price paid for the property in excess of $10,000,000 as a commission. He obtained, he asserts, an offer from the Deutsches Bank of Germany at $19,500,000, but on Oct. 31, 1910, as a result of secret negotiations carried on by the defendants, the lands were purchased by the Standard Oil Company for $13,000,000.

REFUSES TO ANNUL RESER MARRIAGE

High School Art Instructor's Alleged Grievances Fail to Convince Justice Kelly.

COURTSHIP LASTED TOO LONG

Court Criticises 20 Years Given to Correspondence—Incompatibility No Ground for Annulment.

Prof. Edward N. Reser, art instructor in the Commercial High School, Brooklyn, a gray-haired man of 50 years, who married Miss Frances Cooke of Toledo, Ohio, on March 21, 1910, after more than twenty years of correspondence and sought to have his marriage annulled last week, lost his suit late yesterday afternoon when Justice Kelly of the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, refused to grant the annulment. In a brief decision Justice Kelly finds no excuse for the plaintiff's action.

"There is no good end served by discussing the evidence in this case," says Justice Kelly. "I do not believe the plaintiff's alleged grievances."

Twenty years is too long for a courtship, according to Justice Kelly. Mrs. Reser is seven years her husband's junior.

"The parties married," says Justice Kelly, "after an acquaintance of some twenty years, when well along in middle life. I think they waited too long. It may be a case of 'incompatibility,' whatever that may be, but 'incompatibility' is no ground for annulling a marriage in this State. Judgment must be for the defendant."

Soon after his marriage in March, 1910, Prof. Reser said his wife was not the "loving and affectionate wife" he expected to find her. He asserted that she told him he "repelled" her when he tried to show his devotion for her, and that she informed him shortly after their marriage that she did not marry him for love, but for a home and support in her old age.

"Were you ever affectionate yourself? Did you ever try to put your arms about Mrs. Reser and give her a good kiss?" asked the attorney for Mrs. Reser at the trial of the suit last week.

"I tried to kiss her several times," testified Reser, "but each time she seemed displeased, slapped me, and called me an 'old fool.'"

Reser drew up a set of "conditions" six months after his marriage which Mrs. Reser was obliged to observe while they lived together. He testified that he was convinced then that in order to continue living with his wife it was necessary to "promulgate and enforce these rules."

These conditions, besides providing that the front and back parlor should be furnished according to his tastes and ideas, "with suggestions" from his wife, regulated how guests should be entertained. They provided that Mrs. Reser was at liberty "to come and go" when she pleased, without the obligation of his accompanying her. They were not to rent a pew in any church for a year. After stipulating that meals were to be furnished regularly he provided that "twice the cost of any meal taken out of the house" by himself was to be deducted from the monthly allowance he gave the defendant.

Prof. Reser lives in South Oxford Street, Brooklyn. He and his wife separated last November.

FEE FOR F. D. ROOSEVELT.

Assistant Secretary Gets Award of $250 for Legal Services.

An award of $250 for legal services to Franklin D. Roosevelt, ex-State Senator, and now Assistant Secretary of the Navy, was approved yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Guy. The award was contained in a report of Referee H. B. Walmsley, settling the estate of Elliott Roosevelt, owing to the coming of age in June last of his daughter, Gracie Hall Roosevelt. The estate was estimated at $54,382 in the last accounting rendered, which was in October, 1905. Since then Miss Roosevelt has spent $14,900 for her maintenance and education. The Assistant Secretary of the Navy made affidavit that he had examined the report of W. Emlen Roosevelt, uncle and special guardian of Miss Roosevelt, and compared it with the stocks and bonds invested for her benefit.

PAID TO GET OFF JURY

And Process Server, Who Took the Money, Is Held for Bribery.

Magistrate McQuade in the Tombs Court yesterday held Daniel McVine, a process server in the Commissioner of Juror's Office, in $500 bail bonds to await the action of the Grand Jury on complaint of George V. Huppertz of 138 West Sixty-seventh Street, who said McVine got $5 from him on the understanding that he would not summon him for jury duty.

Assistant District Attorney Leo says the bribe would never have been known if Huppertz had not received a summons for jury duty through the mail and had called up the Commissioner of Jurors to say that he had paid and believed that he was exempt.

FIND OWNER OF JEWELS.

Valuables Held by Three Boys Belong to Woman Now on Atlantic.

The Detective Bureau announced yesterday afternoon that the $5,000 worth of jewelry, the $500 in cash, and a draft for £400, ($2,000,) found yesterday in the possession of three small boys, was the property of Mrs. Margaret Beatrice Liddell, who is now on her way to England, having sailed yesterday on the White Star liner Baltic.

The three boys, James Reilly, 17, of 92 West 103d Street; William Stern, 16, and Joseph Scott, 17, both of 871 Columbus Avenue, were arrested by detectives from the West 100th Street Station after a woman in the neighborhood had reported that they were displaying jewelry and money.

Reilly, according to the detectives, said that he had found the jewels and the money in a small black box on a radiator in the apartment house at 259 West 100th Street, where he went to collect laundry from a Mrs. Handt. The detectives found that the valuables were the property of Mrs. Liddell, who stopped with Mrs. Handt while in this city. The boys were held without bail for examination.

THE EASTER TIMES IS OUT TO-MORROW

More Opinions on the Morgan Old Masters Reproduced in Colored Plates.

WILL TEACH ART FAR AWAY

Mgr. Lavelle, Speaking for Cardinal Farley, Calls the Supplement "A Splendid Thing to Do."

Many of New York's best-known educators, painters, art critics, and clergymen continued yesterday to speak in terms of the highest praise of the TIMES's Easter gift to its readers, on being given the opportunity of seeing advance proofs of the full-page reproductions in the original colors of the eight gems from the $50,000,000 Morgan art collection, which will appear as a supplement of THE NEW YORK TIMES to-morrow.

The Morgan pictures were received with unqualified approval as marking the acme of art reproduction, and educators, clergy, painters, and all also united in characterizing the enterprise of THE TIMES in spreading the gospel of good art as a distinct social service to the country. They were unanimous in agreeing that these masterpieces, selected from the famous Morgan collection, to be reproduced in the Easter number of THE TIMES through the courtesy of Mr. Morgan and the Metropolitan Museum of Art, were even finer than the Holy Grail supplement, isued with the Easter number of THE TIMES last year. They predicted that, like the Holy Grail pictures, these from the Morgan collection would find a permanent place on the walls of thousands of homes all over the country.

Cardinal Farley could not be seen during holy week, but Mgr. Lavelle of St. Patrick's Cathedral, who speaks for his Eminence, received the advance proof of the Easter supplement with kindly enthusiasm. Mgr. Lavelle was particularly interested in Raphael's beautiful Madonna on the first page, the "Virgin and Child Enthroned with Saints," and expressed his intense pleasure in the fact that Raphael's famous masterpiece would carry its message into hundreds of thousands of homes.

Sure to be Influence for Good.

"These beautiful pictures are bound to have a great influence for good, and THE TIMES is to be congratulated for giving them to the people of the United States," Mgr. Lavelle said. "You can go as far as you like in saying that I praise what THE TIMES is doing. This sort of thing has my heartiest approval. It is a splendid thing to do. I am glad to have had the opportunity of seeing these splendid reproductions of the Morgan masterpieces."

John H. Finley, President of the College of the City of New York, looked over advance proofs of the Morgan gems, and expressed himself as even more pleased with them than he was with the Holy Grail pictures. Like Mgr. Lavelle, President Finley complimented THE TIMES on having successfully achieved the faithful reproductions, and believed that they would do much for the cause of art in this country. He was particularly interested in Sir Thomas Lawrence's masterpiece, the "Portrait of Miss Farren," and in the gorgeously colored Turner, and suggested that all of THE TIMES's reproductions might well and profitably serve as a basis for preliminary study on the part of those who expected to view the originals at the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

"I have a book on Great Painters," Mr. Finley said, "which for a fortnight or more not long ago I read for a few moments in the morning before the newspapers arrived. Thus I prepared myself to enjoy some of the Morgan paintings. These TIMES reproductions should help thousands to the same enjoyment of the pictures in the Museum, while giving pleasure to thousands more who will have no chance to see the originals."

A high tribute was paid to THE TIMES Easter supplement by one who is thoroughly conversant with the enormous technical difficulties in the way of such an achievement as the full-page, full-color reproduction of the Morgan gems. A. W. Drake, head of the Art Department of the Century Company, expressed himself as being proud of the high quality of the reproductions, and congratulated THE TIMES on this crowning number of a notable series of Sunday supplements.

Welcome in Far Away Places.

In common with the many artists and critics, who had already hailed the reproduction of the Morgan masterpieces as a healthy sign of the times and a boon to the cause of good art, Mr. Drake expressed his keen pleasure at the fact that these pictures would make their influence felt among the millions, who, living at a great distance from the big cities, are dependent upon reproductions of paintings for their art education.

"I am proud to see a thing as well done as that," Mr. Drake said, turning over the pages of the Easter supplement, and pointing out some of the technical difficulties that had to be overcome to get just the right tone of color in different pictures.

"THE TIMES is very much to be congratulated. It is rendering a great service to the cause of art in this country. I am saving the Helleu pictures you published last Sunday, and I am going to save several copies of these pictures, also. THE TIMES is to be congratluated on getting out a series of pictures as fine as these are.

"I think it's a splendid thing to do. Think of the people down in Texas, or out West, for example, who have no chance to see the originals of famous paintings. They must receive their art education through reproductions, and to these people, away from the large cities, THE TIMES Easter supplement will be a boon.

"As an instance of how eager people away from the cities and who have not access to the great museums are for good reproductions of the masterpieces of art, a Western railroad man came to me recently and said;

"'You know, we live out West, cut off from seeing pictures, and we have obtained our art education from Timothy Cole's wood engravings of the world's masterpieces. My family have been cutting them out as they have appeared in The Century, and have mounted and framed them.'

Same Benefit for Thousands.

"These reproductions of the Morgan pictures in the Easter number of THE NEW YORK TIMES are going to do for thousands what Timothy Cole's wood engravings did for that Western railroad man's family. The pictures are wonderful, perfectly wonderful."

Francis Jones, the painter, like John W. Alexander and the other artists, who had already expressed their admiration and approval of the Morgan gems to appear in to-morrow's TIMES, showed a lively interest and enthusiasm on seeing the advance proofs.

"These are even finer than your Holy Grail pictures of last year," he said. "They are better both in printing and in color. And this was much more difficult to do than the Holy Grail series. The printing is excellent. It gives the people a good idea of the color of these Morgan masterpieces. THE TIMES deserves a great deal of credit for its service to art."

Mr. Jones praised particularly the reproduction of the "Portrait of a Child," by an unknown Spanish painter, the Raphael, and the "Portrait of Miss Farren," by Sir Thomas Lawrence.

Another of the many painters who set the seal of their artistic approval on the work of THE TIMES in giving faithful reproductions of the eight Morgan masterpieces to its readers was F. W. Stokes, the painter of Arctic and Antarctic scenes, who was North with Peary in 1892, 1893, and 1894, and in the Antarctic with Nordenskjold in 1901-1902.

"I am glad to see a paper like THE TIMES giving such significance to art things," Mr. Stokes said, when a copy of the Easter supplement was shown him at his studio, 3 Washington Square, North. "These reproductions are educational, and will be uplifting in their influence. Everything that makes for uplift is a notable project, but this Easter supplement is especially noteworthy and significant. THE TIMES is helping to hold the mirror of idealism up to the people, and is helping mankind along in that direction.

"These Morgan pictures are excellent. I think they mark a distinct advance on the Holy Grail series of last year. The reproduction and country-wide distribution of these masterpieces by a paper like THE TIMES is a distinct benefit to us all, and we artists ought to feel grateful to THE TIMES for doing it."

Early Sketch of Wall Street District Brings Record Price.

The second highest price ever paid at auction for a New York City print was the feature of a sale of "Americana" by the Merwin Company yesterday. The successful bidder was Robert Fridenberg, the price paid was $2,010, and the prize was a colored lithograph by Peter Maverick, after a painting by Hugh Reinagle, giving a view of Wall Street in 1825 from Trinity Church, with sketches of the buildings on each side and Brooklyn Heights in the distance. On the left side of the picture is shown the old Congregational Church and on the right side is the old Merchants' Exchange, which afterward became the site of the Custom House. On the left-hand side of the corner of Wall Street and Broadway a wood sawyer is seen at work, showing the greater use of wood than of coal in those days. The scene is a Winter one, with sleighs filled with passengers. The detached sketches in the margins of all the buildings on both sides of Wall Street form a particularly interesting feature of this print.

Mr. Fridenberg, who, by the way, was the successful bidder for the Augustin Daly-M. C. D. Borden series of rare New York prints, which has sold recently at auction for $20,000, said that, so far as he knew, this view of Wall Street had never before come into the public market. He said that he knew of only three other copies in existence—one owned by Robert Goelet, another by John D. Crimmins, and a third which, he thought, was owned by Amos F. Eno. He said he meant the variety with the sketches in the margins.

The competition for the print was spirited. The opening bid was $1,000, and the next $1,500, E. H. Sauer being the underbidder. It then advanced $100 at a time until it was knocked down to Mr. Fridenberg at the sum mentioned.

Hugh Reinagle was born in Philadelphia about 1790. He became known as a landscape painter, working in oil and water colors. For many years he was a scene painter in New York. In 1830 he went to New Orleans, where he died of yellow fever in May, 1834. He was one of the original thirty members of the National Academy of Design. Peter Maverick was a native of New York City, and did much to aid the early progress of engraving in this country. Mr. Fridenberg is of opinion that the engraving as issued was uncolored.

A number of civil war pamphlets from the library of the late William Swinton, war correspondent and historian, were also sold.

George W. Irwin Left All to Family.

An estate estimated to be worth $400,000 is disposed of by the will of George W. Irwin, which was filed yesterday in the office of the Surrogate in Brooklyn. Mr. Irwin, whose home was at 318 Jefferson Avenue, Brooklyn, died in San Diego, Cal., on March 1 last. He was in the chemical business. With the exception of 11 shares of stock of the General Chemical Company set aside in trust for the benefit of Mrs. Anna Agnew of Dixmont, Penn., the estate is to be divided among the testator's widow, Mary C. Irwin; his daughters, Martha E. Irwin, Georgette I. Linerd, and Helen I. MacClosky; his grandson, George L. McIlwain, and granddaughter, Martha McIlwain.

'BURGER'S BIRTHDAY,' CRIES THE PARROT

A Wise Bird Has "Papa" in His Avenue C Cafe, for It Alone Knows the Date.

IT MOVES ALONG WITH PURIM

And Then Envoy Louis Zeltner Moves It Itself—"Brother Burger," Said President Taft.

"Papa" Burger celebrates his sixty-fourth movable birthday to-night, at his café, 20 Avenue C. It is a movable birthday for two reasons: First, because it falls on the Jewish festival of Purim, and Purim, following the Hebrew calendar with strict orthodoxy, has a habit of moving all over the face of the Julian calendar that hangs above your office desk. In the second place, "Papa" Burger's birthday is movable because "Wireless" Louie Zeltner, who announces the glad event to the metropolitan press whenever other news tips are scarce, made it so. Sometimes, Louie remembers himself and announces it on Purim; sometimes, also remembering himself, he announces it on Chanuka, six months the other side of the calendar. But he always announces it, and the more the merrier. Indeed, some skeptics there are who say that "Papa" Burger wouldn't have any birthday at all, if it weren't for Louie Zeltner.

But this, "Papa" Burger stoutly denies; and he is confirmed in his opinion by Pokal. Pokal is "Papa" Burger's parrot, the only living parrot who talks Hungarian, according to Louie Zeltner; for Pokal, according to Louie, on each of "Papa" Burger's movable birthdays, screams from his perch above the bar—regular as the most irregular of clocks or calendars:

"Papa's birthday! Burger's birthday! Hoch Papa Burger!"

And in the memory of the oldest and most skeptical of reporters Louie has ever taken to hear those corroborating words, Pokal has never shouted them in English:

"Grr! Grrr! Zchrrt! Kra-a-a-ker!"

Moreover, Louie points out, with undeniable veracity, "Papa" Burger's birthday certainly has varied some: In 1909 it was on March 12, in 1910 on March 25, last year somewhat earlier, and this year on March 23. As Louie says, Pokal says:

"Es steht geschrieben in die Luach!" ("It's written in the Hebrew calendar.")

But this year, fearful of handling a big Sunday crowd, "Papa" Burger will celebrate his birthday to-night instead.

The event is always an occasion of great cheer and merrymaking for Second Avenue in the Café Burger. On each occasion Louie punctiliously draws forth and uncorks "Papa" Burger's choicest Szamorodni and lets it flow in word pictures in every city editor's office in the city until there's no refusing him, and he gets his story in.

"Papa" Burger is the proudest of all the East Side Mayors, according to his envoy, because on one occasion he had President Taft as his guest in Café Burger, and President Taft never could forget it.

"Brother Burger," said the ex-President to him when "Papa" once visited Washington, "Brother Burger, I remember when I was in your place."

Since when the mere memory of those words have been making "Papa" Burger grow younger and younger year by year, until Louie Zeltner feared the process would do away with the birthdays altogether.

This year, according to his herald, "Papa" Burger had hoped to have "mein Freund Sulzer" as his guest, but the Governor had to send his regrets. A large number of other notable statesmen have been invited, however, including Samuel S. Koenig, Coroner Herman Hellenstein, Municipal Court Judge Benjamin Hoffman, Assemblyman Jacob Silberstein, Alderman Frank J. Dotzler, Assistant District Attorney Morris Koenig, Internal Revenue Collector Dr. Frederick Marshall, ex-Assemblyman Adolf Stern, Dr. M. Rottenberg, and many notables from the block called Political Row, in Seventh Street, between Avenue C and D.

And for all these all night, from dewy eve to dewier morn, Szamorodni will flow—free, red, and sparkling—and Pokal, alternating in hops between the bar and the picture of ex-President Taft on the wall back of it, will scream the glad tidings to far and near:

"Papa's birthday! Burger's birthday! Es steht in die Luach!"

Comedy by Young Church Folk.

The annual entertainment and reception of the young women and young men of the Church of Our Lady of Good Counsel, in East Ninetieth Street, is to take place on Easter Tuesday evening in the Palm Garden, Fifty-eighth Street and Lexington Avenue, when the young folks will present the comedy, "My Friend from India," in three acts. The Rev. James J. Talbot is in charge of the affair, and Michael F. X. English will be the floor director.

FLOWER MARKET IN UNION SQ.

Plan of Central Mercantile Association Approved by Stover.

A plan to establish a flower market in the northern end of Union Square, where hundreds of florists and nurserymen can drive their wagons, arrange their displays, and sell nosegays to the people at popular prices ranging from 10 cents to 25 cents, instead of $1 to $25, has been proposed by the Central Mercantile Association and approved by Park Commissioner Stover.

In outlining the plan to Commissioner Stover yesterday, B. J. Greenhut and J. R. Butler of the Central Mercantile Association assured him that for the present the north end of the square would be sufficient for the flower men, but in a short time they expressed a wish to build a forum to be used as a flower market during the forenoon and early afternoon, and used by the general public at night. Communications have been received from more than 1,500 florists desiring to avail themselves of the opportunity to sell their flowers in Union Square. It is hoped to have the new public flower market well under way by April 1, and ultimately, if the demands are sufficient, the suggestion will be made to turn the whole park over to the sellers and buyers of plants and flowers.

THE STAIN
by FORREST HALSEY
Author of "The Bawler-Out," etc.

A young girl's inherited mania for stealing brings her before a heartless judge. Her attorney discovers an extraordinary relationship between the two. There is an immensely dramatic scene at the trial, which alone raises the story out of the ordinary.

A Splendid Romance of Love and Adventure

THE ROAD OF LIVING MEN

By WILL LEVINGTON COMFORT, Author of "Routledge Rides Alone." Frontispiece in color. $1.25 net. Postpaid, $1.37.

Every lover of good fiction looks for the books which come all too seldom, the books in which there is the spirit of youth, of romance, of adventure and the warmth and color of real life. To all such readers we recommend this new novel. From the first scenes in China during the Boxer Rebellion until the end there follow swiftly scene after scene of splendid conception, told with a swing and go and a growing intensity of emotion that sweeps one along until the fine poetic climax. It will be pronounced one of the year's greatest romances.

THE MAXWELL MYSTERY

By CAROLYN WELLS, Author of "A Chain of Evidence," etc. Illustrated in color by Gayle Hoskins. $1.25 net. Postpaid, $1.37.

An elusive mystery and a delightful love story in which Fleming Stone, the great American detective, again figures. Well planned crimes are often those which are easily ferreted out, but in this case the solution of the mystery on account of its very simplicity eludes all investigation and the climax is a complete surprise.

THE JUDGMENT HOUSE

It is a story of international interest—its sympathies as wide as the world. The destinies of nations are interwoven with the lives of the two heroes—one a millionaire, a pioneer of the Cecil Rhodes type; the other a diplomat, with his finger on the pulse of the world. And the woman, like Cleopatra, influences the careers of empire-builders by her beauty and her cleverness.

All those qualities of devouring interest which charmed a million men and women in "The Right of Way" and "The Weavers" are even more fully disclosed in this new work of the Master's hand.

NOTABLE NEW BOOKS

RUNNING SANDS

By Reginald Wright Kauffman

Author of "The House of Bondage," Etc.

"Running Sands" marks a return to Mr. Kauffman's more essentially fiction style of writing. It is a story of the way people don't do things—often; and of very cogent reasons why. A man at fifty falls madly in love with a beautiful girl of eighteen. She thinks she loves him; is willing to love him; wants to love him; but at eighteen how can she tell? And so they marry, and in due time learn the lesson which that most impassive, most exact, most undeviating of all school mistresses, Mother Nature, teaches them.

The Adventures of Miss Gregory

By PERCEVAL GIBBON

8 Full-Page Illustrations. 12° $1.35 net. By mail $1.50.

A book full of freshness and surprise; swift in movement and enthralling. Miss Gregory knocks about the world, and wherever she goes, she is in the thick of things. At one time it is a Nihilist plot which fascinates her; at another time, a plague-stricken community that calls her. She is in Africa when the slaver is secretly plying his trade, and again, in wicked Beira, at the opportune moment she interposes her calm, forceful personality between an aggressive ruffian and his friendless victim. Wherever she goes she attracts adventure to her.

This autobiographical novel is one of the most intimate studies of personal psychology that has been offered to the world. It is as appallingly frank, as unsparingly veracious as anything this gifted but erratic genius has produced. The book is a veritable "black ray" in the sky of literature, and an antidote to a too facile optimism. It has a certain resemblance to Oscar Wilde's "De Profundis."

NOT AFTER MONEY, FRIEDMANN SAYS

Berlin Physician Asserts His Aim Is to Obtain the Recognition of American Physicians.

HEARS TRIBUTE TO VACCINE

Government Agent Said to Have Praised His Tuberculosis Preparation—Picks Patients at Bellevue.

"I am not in this country to make money, but to demonstrate the efficacy of my cure for tuberculosis. It has been a great source of grief to me that I could not administer my vaccine to all the poor patients who desire treatment. I expect very much from my American trip; that is, I expect to obtain the recognition of American physicians and the American public." Dr. Friedrich Franz Friedmann made this statement last night after a busy day spent in selecting patients for treatment. None was treated in the day because the doctor's supply of vaccine was exhausted.

"What I shall get out of it is not a question at this time," the doctor continued. "I am not looking for a financial reward. You ask me whether I shall get a hundred million out of my cure. Well, I have a hundred million bacilli now and they will be the source of renewed health to many in the world."

Dr. Friedmann was much elated by a report that one of the Government physicians supervising the tests had said:

"This is the best vaccine for tuberculosis that I have ever seen." The German physician then referred to his desire to hold a series of public clinics where the poor, many of whom are now passed from one hospital to another, could be examined and treated.

"I have no agreement with the Government," he said, "to hold only clinics under Government supervision. Of course, I know that I am not expected to treat private patients, and I have not treated a single case of that kind. I know also that there is nothing to prevent me from holding public clinics, whether the Government representatives are present or absent."

The doctor was asked to answer the criticism that his vaccine was not a cure for pulmonary cases, though good effects had followed its administration in bone and gland cases.

"It is silly to say that I treat only bone cases," he replied. "I have treated as many pulmonary cases. I have behind me my experience in Germany and I know that the vaccine will cure pulmonary cases. I have treated while here some 100 cases of pulmonary consumption. It is true that I have turned down an offer to form a company for putting the remedy before the public upon a money-making basis. This is my answer to attacks made upon me. As to the efficacy of the vaccine, the Government tests will supply that answer."

Dr. Friedmann selected for treatment at Bellevue Hospital yesterday twenty-eight cases. He was accompanied to the hospital by his assistants, Drs. Benjamin and Sturm and his brother, Dr. Arthur Friedmann. Dr. Stimson of the Government service met the party at the hospital.

The operating room was crowded, and there were many around the hospital when the automobile containing the doctor's party arrived. As quickly as possible the patients were brought forward for examination by Dr. James Alexander Miller, in charge of tuberculosis work at the hospital. Dr. Friedmann rejected some cases, and according to the other physicians he was clearly within his rights. In some cases the condition of the patient was hopeless, and in other cases there was not sufficient proof that tuberculosis was the ailment from which the patient suffered. Of those accepted for treatment nine were inmates of Bellevue, three women and six men; three were babies and sixteen were patients in the hospital boat Southfield.

Dr. Friedmann visited the boat and many patients crowded around him. They seemed actuated only by a desire to see him. In bringing a batch of patients forward Dr. Stimson said: "Here are sixteen cases. I would like you to make the choice."

"I will do better," replied Dr. Friedmann, "I will treat them all." Dr. Stimson requested Dr. Friedmann to treat ten cases where bones were affected in Mount Sinai Hospital. To this he consented, asking Dr. Stimson to select the cases. It is probable that the ten cases will be taken from patients in the Hospital for Deformities and Joint Diseases, at 1,919 Madison Avenue. The reason for treating the patients in Mount Sinai Hospital, Dr. Stimson explained, was so that the Government representatives might watch them closely.

A cable message was received by Dr. Friedmann yesterday from Dr. Schleich, in charge of Dr. Friedmann's work in Berlin, saying that all of the patients under treatment there continued to show improvement. As to improvement in cases here, it was said at Bellevue that no change had been noted in the condition of patients treated there a few days ago. At least a week must elapse before it could be determined whether there was improvement, it was said.

Dr. Friedmann announced last night that he would treat some thirty patients in Bellevue Hospital this afternoon at 1 o'clock. He said that this work would keep him so busy that he did not expect to visit either Boston or Philadelphia to demonstrate his vaccine.

Frederick Enken, a Berlin chemist, who is stopping in the Hotel Broztell, in Twenty-seventh Street, near Madison Avenue, who is in this city in the interest of a friend who will be treated by Dr. Friedmann in Bellevue Hospital soon, said yesterday that in Wiesbaden, Germany, his birthplace, an eminent physician, who said he had discovered a cure for tuberculosis, was ostracised by the physicians there because he declined to divulge the secret underlying his alleged cure. The case of Dr. Freidmann, he said, was the same.

Charles Finlay, President of the Aetna National Bank, will give a dinner in honor of Dr. Friedmann on Sunday night at his country estate at Great Neck, L. I.

NO GOVERNMENT DECISION YET.

Blue Asks Public to Suspend Judgment Till Tests Are Complete.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Dr. Rupert Blue, the Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service, issued a formal statement to-night on the Friedmann treatment for tuberculosis. In this statement, which is the first official expression from any branch of the Government on the Friedmann treatment, Gen. Blue cautions the public to suspend judgment and wait until the Public Health Service has carried its investigation far enough to warrant some definite conclusion regarding the Friedmann method and its efficacy.

It is the intention of Surgeon General Blue to have this work carried along as rapidly as is consistent with the thorough performance of the duties assigned to Dr. John F. Anderson, of the Hygienic Laboratory, and Dr. Arthur M. Stimson, also of the United States Public Health Service, who are in immediate charge of the Government's special investigation of Dr. Friedmann's claims. Surgeon General Blue's statement is brief, and will be published in to-morrow morning's issue of the regular weekly Bulletin of the United States Public Health Service.

Dr. Blue has been deluged with letters from physicians, specialists, patients, and others interested in the Friedmann investigation, and the announcement which he made to-night is intended to convey them all the information which the Federal health officials feel that they are justified in giving at this time.

Here is the text of Surgeon General Blue's statement:

> On March 8 the Secretary of the Treasury, on the recommendation of the Surgeon General of the Public Health Service, caused a board of medical officers to be detailed to make a thorough investigation of Dr. Friedmann's alleged cure for tuberculosis.
> These officers proceeded immediately to New York and arranged with Dr. Friedmann for demonstrations of his remedy upon persons suffering from tuberculosis. These demonstrations are being carried on in certain New York hospitals through the courtesy of their respective authorities, and will be continued until sufficient information has been obtained for the forming of an opinion as to the merits of the treatment.
>
> Dr. Friedmann has submitted to the board a culture of the bacteria which he states are used in his method of treatment. In addition to the observation of persons under treatment by Dr. Friedmann, the board of officers will make experiments to ascertain whether this culture is, as Dr. Friedmann claims, harmless to warm-blooded animals. Considerable time will necessarily be required to carry out these investigations. The work will be carried out as rapidly as possible.
>
> In the meantime the public is informed of the inadvisability, in the great majority of cases, of traveling long distances in the hope of receiving the treatment, as those selected for demonstration purposes constitute only a small proportion of applicants.
>
> Certain statements purporting to be expressions of the board of officers of the Public Health Service carrying on the investigation have appeared in newspapers. These officers have expressed no opinion and will not be in a position to do so until the work has advanced sufficiently far to warrant some conclusion in regard to Dr. Friedmann's treatment.

Dr. John F. Anderson, the Director of the Hygienic Laboratory of the United States Public Health Service, spent yesterday and to-day over his test tubes and retorts in the Hygienic Laboratory at Twenty-fifth and E Streets in this city, working with the culture of the turtle tubercle bacilli which he received from Dr. Friedmann when in New York with a statement that this was the basis of the vaccine utilized by Dr. Friedmann in his treatment of tuberculosis cases.

This culture was in a test tube containing glycerin agar, upon which billions of bacilli were thriving. It has already been developed in the Hygienic Laboratory that this culture as used by Dr. Friedmann is a live and not a dead culture, and this is considered of great importance, especially if Dr. Friedmann's treatment is proved to be all that he claims for it. If the culture as used had dead bacilli as its basis, it could not be cultivated. Consequently it would be more difficult and considerably more expensive to obtain the vaccine. But with live bacilli as the working basis, it is possible to get from this original culture an unlimited quantity of the turtle tubercle bacilli and thus supply the demand more cheaply and more easily. Until this culture was received the officials of the United States Public Health Service did not know whether it was composed of live or dead organisms. These cultures are being grown under Dr. Anderson's direction in the Hygienic Laboratory. They are being grown on the original glycerin agar medium, and it is the intention to propagate them also in other kinds of media.

While studying the growth and development of the Friedmann bacilli in the Hygienic Laboratory, Dr. Anderson and his assistants will also conduct a very important series of animal experiments with the bacilli. Rabbits, dogs and other animals will be used in this experiment. A dozen animals of a certain kind, for example, will be utilized in an experiment in which half of the animals will be inoculated with the Friedmann vaccine, which has been described by Dr. Friedmann to Dr. Anderson as "live non-virulent, non-turbulent turtle tubercle bacilli." The other half of the animals, rabbits, for example, will not be so inoculated, and then the entire dozen will have deadly tuberculosis organisms injected into their bodies. With the healthy rabbits being used as a "control," the effect of these injections will be studied comparatively in the rabbits which were healthy and in those rabbits which had received the Friedmann treatment. Similar experiments will be conducted with other animals. Not until the United States Public Health Service is scientifically satisfied through these experiments that the treatment would be efficacious and not dangerous in cases of animal tuberculosis will the Public Health Service sanction its use on human beings.

Surgeon General Blue has a waiting list of applicants willing to be experimented upon. Their letters come from all parts of the country, and there are stacks of them. In nearly all of them the applicants express a willingness to take every chance of the consequences. Some of them have even signed releases which would free the Government from any responsibility in the event of a fatal result of the treatment.

DR. FLEXNER REPLIES.

His Serum Not Cause of Death, as Cincinnati Physician Charged.

Dr. Simon Flexner, Director of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, who discovered a serum which is regarded in medical circles throughout the world as a specific cure for cerebro-spinal meningitis, sent a telegram to Cincinnati yesterday in reply to a statement attributed to Dr. S. F. Kramer that several children had been killed by the use of the serum at the Cincinnati Hospital. The statement was made by Dr. Kramer, it is reported, before the Cincinnati Academy of Medicine.

According to the Cincinnati physician, the serum was subjected to chemical analysis when it was discovered that tricresol, a derivative of carbolic acid, was used as a preservative. This, he said, was harmless when injected in the proportion used into the spinal canal of an adult, but was fatal to a child. Here is Dr. Flexner's telegraphed reply:

> If the anti-meningitis serum itself or the preservative tricresol contained in it were the cause of the deaths reported by Dr. Kramer, many other similar reports should have been received. None have been. Considering the wide use of the serum and the consensus of opinion that it is not harmful, but highly beneficial to children, as well as adults, I see no reason for attributing the effects that Dr. Kramer has reported to either the serum or the preservative.

Dr. Kramer's assertion, it is reported, is to the effect that the tricresol quickly reaches a child's brain, for the reason that in early life the central canal of the spinal cord is not closed as in later years. It is said that Dr. Kramer attributed the death of four children to the serum.

Dr. Flexner's serum is in wide use in this country and elsewhere, and its administration has been attended generally with the most beneficial results. For this reason it is believed that the serum either was improperly administered, or that the children died from some other cause which was not recognized.

SOCIETY WOMEN TO TESTIFY

Washington Hearing to Disclose Whether They Have a Demoralizing Effect on Working Girls.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The Illinois Senatorial Vice Commission arrived in Washington to-night, and will call on President Wilson at the White House to-morrow. A session of the commission will also be held to-morrow to get evidence mainly along one of the lines of investigation, namely, whether the lives led by society women tend to excite a spirit of emulation among working girls and start them on the downward path through association with men able to furnish them with clothes and pleasures such as they see other women enjoying. Several leaders of Washington society have accepted the commission's invitation to be present.

The commission is headed by Lieut. Gov. Barrett O'Hara and in addition consists of State Senators Edmund Beall, F. Jeff Tossey, D. T. Woodward, and Niels Juul.

"Our purpose in coming East," said Lieut. Gov. O'Hara, "is to arouse a National sentiment for the effort we are making to get at the bottom of the prevalence of vice and obtain a betterment of conditions. Illinois, New York, and Pennsylvania are the States most concerned, and we shall try to arouse legislators and people in those States to the state of things that goes to drag down young women in this country, and particularly in the big cities. If we do not succeed in this endeavor the ultra-radicals will do it for us in a way that will go to extremes. We hope to counteract the undercurrent of feeling on this subject through appropriate action before it is too late to stem the tide of resentment that may lead to excesses.

"We have done nothing that would place us in the attitude of reflecting on the goodness of our working girls. We take the position that the American working girl, to maintain her respectability, is entitled to enough wages to give her a reasonable amount of clothing, a fairly comfortable room to sleep in, enough to eat, and a reasonable amount left over to enable her to indulge in pleasures. Personally, I think the minimum wage for women has got to come. Others of the commission think so also as individuals. But we cannot say so as a commission without seeming to prejudge the evidence.

"We are satisfied that taking the American working girls as a class they have no equal in the world for purity and morals. We do say, however, that they are subject to perils from th[illegible]men of this country. There are abou[illegible] hundred different avenues of inquir[illegible]ading to the dangers with which the American working girls are confronted, and one of those avenues is the desire of some working girls to imitate women who have the means to devote themselves to lives of pleasure. It is with a view to finding out something along this line that we have asked society women in Washington to appear before us to-morrow. We cannot compel them to come. We can only hope that they will accept our invitation and give us the benefit of their knowledge.

"We hope to get the aid of the Federal Government through President Wilson in arousing a National sentiment on this question. It is National, for it affects not merely Chicago, but every large city in the country. The red light district of Chicago requires 5,000 fresh girls every year. There is the same condition in other cities. We want to get at the source of the supply of these girls. We want to find out what is at the bottom of this supply with a view to remedying the conditions and save other girls from lives of shame."

"We found that girls could not live properly on less than $8 a week," said Senator Juul. "Since our commission has been at work several merchants employing large numbers of girls have voluntarily raised their wages from a minimum of $3.50 to $8 per week. The International Harvester Company has increased to $8 the wages of all its women employes receiving less than that amount."

Of thirteen Washington society women who were invited by the commission to attend its session here to-morrow nine had accepted up to to-night. They are Mrs. Edson Bradley, Mrs. Hennen Jennings, wife of a South African diamond millionaire; Miss Katherine Jennings, Mrs. Christian Hemmick, formerly Mrs. A. C. Barney; Mme. Havenith, wife of the Belgian Minister; Mme. Riano, wife of the Spanish Minister; Mrs. Hunt Slater, Mrs. Huntington Wilson, and Mrs. Murray Crane, wife of the Senator and sister of Miss Mabel Boardman. Those from whom responses have not been received are Mrs. Robert Patterson, her daughter, the Countess Gzicky, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Jr., and Mrs. Preston Gibson.

The Commission will ask President Wilson to urge Congress to make inquiry into the prevalence of vice in the District of Columbia with a view to enacting appropriate legislation. Such action by Congress, the Commission thinks, would give its work a National character.

The members of the commission have promised to be back in Springfield on Tuesday on account of the Senatorial deadlock situation there. Some of them were of the opinion that it might be of advantage to spend Sunday in New York for the purpose of obtaining information as to sentiment there concerning the extension of the vice inquiry to New York State, but after talking things over to-night the Commissioners practically decided that they could accomplish little if anything during such a short stay in Manhattan. Final decision was left in abeyance, but the chances are that the commission will go direct from Washington to Springfield.

Later on the commission will make a visit to New York with the idea of arousing public sentiment there on the subjects that it is investigating.

Special to The New York Times.

HARRISBURG, Penn., March 21.—As a result of the visit here to-day of the Illinois Vice Commission Gov. Tener told the Commission members that he would recommend to the Legislature that a commission be appointed to investigate living conditions of working girls, with special reference to the white slave traffic. The Governor's announcement came after the members of the Commission had conferred with him.

"We do not propose to attack the morality of American women; we merely want to show that there is a menace in low wages which cannot be disregarded," said Lieut Gov. Barnett O'Hara of Illinois, referring to the statement of Gov. Tener that the latter would co-operate with the Illinois Vice Commission in eliminating the white slave traffic; "but we would not tolerate the bringing out of evidence which would reflect in any way on the character of girls and women employed in stores and factories.

"No woman in any of the big cities in the United States can live on $6 a week. The conditions are the same in Philadelphia and in Pittsburgh as they are in Chicago."

ASKS ILLINOIS TO EXPLAIN.

Sulzer Angry Because New York's Privy Seal Is Ignored.

ALBANY, March 21.—Gov. Sulzer, in a letter to-day to Gov. Dunne of Illinois, requested an explanation from Judge Foell of Chicago for refusing to honor extradition papers issued by New York State under the privy seal of the State. Judge Foell held that such papers should be attested under the great seal of the State.

"I would inform you," Gov. Sulzer's letter ran, "that this is the first time in the history of New York State, so far as I know, where a requisition regularly issued and honored by any Governor has been denied for the reasons stated by Judge Foell of the Superior Court of Chicago.

"I regard this situation as a very serious one for the State of New York and trust that I may have an explanation from Judge Foell through you in reference to this matter which will relieve the situation of a like occurrence upon future cases."

Students May Vote at Cambridge.

BOSTON, March 21.—Students at Harvard who are not self-supporting but derive their support from parents living in other States are entitled to vote in Cambridge during their temporary residence there. Judge Braley of the Supreme Court in a test case held to-day that the mere fact that a student was not self-supporting should not bar him from voting.

THAW TO BE CALLED BEFORE GRAND JURY

Whitman and Sulzer Agree That He Shall Testify in Bribery Case, Governor Announces.

LAUDS OFFICIAL'S GRAFT HUNT

And Intimates He Will Not Remove Waldo or Other Police Head Except on Overwhelming Proof.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 21.—After District Attorney Whitman left for New York to-night, following a visit of more than a day at the Executive Mansion, Gov. Sulzer stated that one of the matters discussed with the New York City official was the pending Grand Jury investigation into the charges that bribery was attempted in the efforts made to obtain the release of Harry K. Thaw from the Hospital for the Criminal Insane at Matteawan.

The Governor said that it had been decided that Thaw should be taken before the Grand Jury to testify. He felt assured that no one would be spared, and would not admit that the appearance of the principals as witnesses before the State Committee of Inquiry would render them immune against prosecution, as has been contended.

"The police scandals in New York were touched upon incidentally in the course of our conference," Mr. Sulzer admitted, with evident reluctance. "I cannot say enough in commendation of the fearless attitude that Mr. Whitman has displayed in the investigation he has been conducting."

The Governor intimated that he would take no steps for the removal of Police Commissioner Waldo or any other New York City or County official except upon official charges, and these would have to be very strong and accompanied by overwhelming proof before he would act upon them. This is in accord with the Governor's strong views on the matter of home rule.

"Mr. Whitman's visit had no political significance," said the Governor. "It was entirely official. There are important matters which concern the District Attorney's office, the State Department at Washington and the Executive chamber, and in order that we may act in accord I deemed it a good thing to have the District Attorney come and give me his views. In all matters concerning the administration of justice I shall be guided by the views of the District Attorney and the Judge. I shall go very slow and do nothing contrary to their judgment."

It is understood that the case of "Happy Jack" Mulraney, who pleaded guilty to the murder of Patrick McBreen, a New York saloon keeper, and on the eve of his execution repudiated his confession and was reprieved, was discussed. The Governor asked Mr. Whitman to call any witnesses who might corroborate the story of Mulraney that another man committed the murder in order that justice might be done.

FAIR WARNING!

You will certainly regret it if you do not place your order with your newsdealer in time today, to make sure of to-morrow's Easter Times, which will contain, besides all the regular Sunday features, superb, full-page, full-color reproductions, on fine paper, of the Eight Masterpieces of the Morgan Collection, reproduced by courtesy of Mr. J. P. Morgan and the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Each of these eight pictures is reproduced to the full size of The Times page, making an art production impressive in size as well as in perfection of color and detail.

A Word of Warning to Those Not Yet Everyday Readers of The Times

It should be understood by all that The Times is publishing a strictly limited number of these magnificent supplements, which are very expensive, costing far more than the price received for them. They will not be reprinted, and consequently those persons only who make sure of to-morrow's Times in advance will have any chance to secure them. The supplement far excels The Times's celebrated Easter feature of last year, "The Holy Grail." The New York Times is always sold out.

COLUMBIA FENCERS LEAD FOR THE TITLE

Win Twelve Bouts in Intercollegiate Tournament at Hotel Astor.

The Columbia University fencing team gained a commanding lead over the representatives of four other institutions last night at the Hotel Astor in the first half of the tournament to decide the intercollegiate fencing title for 1913. The Morningside Heights trio lost only three bouts in fifteen, and on the form displayed by this team last night, it seems more than probable that the championship will come to New York this year. The representatives of the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, which finished behind the West Point champions in the 1912 tournament, rank second to Columbia, with ten victories and eight defeats. None of the other teams got as much as an even break in the eighteen bouts fenced last night.

The tournament is one team short of last year's entry. The University of Pittsburgh, which qualified for a place in the finals through the failure of Princeton to put a team in the field, failed to send any competitors to the championship, thus narrowing down the field. The teams in the present tourney besides Columbia and Annapolis are Cornell, Pennsylvania, and Harvard, but all are now regarded as having outside chances.

Forty-five bouts were fenced last night, each team taking part in eighteen. This completes the first half of the tournament. This afternoon, beginning at 3 o'clock, thirty more bouts will be decided, and the final fifteen will be fenced to-night in the grand ballroom of the Astor, one strip being used for all the final bouts. Three strips were in use last night, and the same will apply this afternoon for the bouts in the Belvidere.

Uncle Sam's cadets from West Point, the winners of the 1912 tourney, have no opportunity to defend their honors this year, as the team withdrew from the Intercollegiate League in January. Princeton's failure to put out a team and the withdrawal of Bowdoin from the league, after being admitted at the last annual meeting, further reduced the fields in the preliminary rounds which were decided a short time ago, leaving the five now competing at the Astor to settle the championship.

Columbia practically put Harvard's last hopes in the discard by a clean sweep against the Crimson trio in the inter-team series. Six of the nine bouts which these two teams must figure in were decided last night, and the Cambridge representatives failed to get a single victory. Columbia made another clean sweep in its three bouts with Pennsylvania, but got two out of three against Cornell, and lost two of the six bouts with the Navy team. Columbia has two of last year's team in this year's tournament, and the same is true of Cornell and Pennsylvania. The Navy and Harvard have teams no member of which had heretofore figured in a championship.

Mouquin of Columbia was the individual star of last night's competition, coming through with a clean slate for his six bouts. He was the only fencer in the tournament who did not suffer at least one defeat during the evening. Gerhard of Pennsylvania and Van Nardroff of Harvard went down to defeat in each of their six bouts. The Navy team made the only substitution, replacing Lingo with Glennon after the former had lost three bouts in succession. The change added strength to the team, as Glennon won two of his three bouts.

The representatives of the various colleges were as follows:

Columbia—A. N. Clough, Captain; L. F. H. Mouquin and J. H. Northrop.

Cornell—F. B. O'Coner, Captain; H. W. Sibert and H. A. Wadman.

Harvard—S. F. Damon, Captain; J. A. Aylen and R. Van Nardroff.

Naval Academy—A. W. Dunn, Captain; B. H. Lingo and R. F. Hans.

University of Pennsylvania—C. R. McPherson, Captain; H. Van Buskirk and B. Gerhard.

The officials of the meet are: Master of Ceremonies, Dr. Graeme M. Hammond, New York Athletic Club; Directors—W. L. Bowman, Cornell; Charles Tathem, New York A. C.; Paul Benzenberg, New York Turn Verein; Charles G. Bothner; Judges—John Allaire, New York Turn Verein; P. Allison, New York A. C.; Dr. D. A. Cairns, Fencers' Club; Mark Larrimer, Annapolis; J. A. McLoughlin, New York A. C.; Paul J. Meylon, Fencers' Club; J. B. B. Parker, Pennsylvania; S. Pitt, Fencers' Club; George H. Reimherr, Sr., New York Turn Verein; H. Wendell, Pennsylvania.

Summary of the bouts:

COLUMBIA.

Clough—Defeated Hans, Navy, 6—2; Damon, Harvard, 9—8; Aylen, Harvard, 5—3; Gerhard, Pennsylvania, 7—4; Sibert, Cornell, 8—4, Lost 1.

KOLEHMAINEN TO RACE.

Finnish Champion Said to Have Recovered Wonderful Form.

With an entry list numbering well over 800, the Spring games of the Second Battalion, Naval Militia, which will be held in the Armory at Fifty-second Street and New York Bay, Brooklyn, next Thursday evening, promise to furnish cinder path devotees with a night's good sport. The navy men have presented a tiptop entry list, their headliners being Howard P. Drew, the wonderful colored sprinter of the Springfield High School, and Hannes Kolehmainen, the Finnish long-distance runner, who beat the best in the world at the Olympic games last Summer.

Drew will run in the sixty-yard dash handicap, and, in anticipation of the possibility of a new record, the Games Committee of the Naval Battalion has had the straightaway over which the race will be decided surveyed, so that there will be no doubt about Drew's covering the full sixty yards. Kolehmainen will start in the two-mile run special. The Finn has fully recovered from the effects of his indiscretion in running hard races too close together, and he anticipates having little trouble in getting the best of the local distancers in the race at the "Navy" meeting.

New League Gets Protection.

Secretary J. H. Farrell of the National Association yesterday granted protection to the newly formed New York and New Jersey League, which will place clubs at Poughkeepsie, Newburg, Middletown, and Kingston, N. Y., and Paterson and Long Branch, N. J. The league was granted Class B protection. The league will now proceed to adopt a schedule, and the various clubs will begin signing their managers and players. The clubs were unable to do this before protection was granted to the new league.

Sunday School Baseball League.

There will be a meeting of the representatives of all Sunday schools interested in organizing a Sunday School Baseball League for the coming Summer Thursday evening, March 27, at 8:15 o'clock at the Central Y. M. C. A. Sunday schools anxious to become affiliated with the tournaments as conducted by the Sunday School Athletic League are invited to send delegates to this meeting.

WOES OF BROOKLYN TEAM.

Rain Forces Them to Cancel Game and Drives Them Into Y. M. C. A. Gym.

Special to The New York Times.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 21.—Rain this morning put an end to all outdoor work after the Brooklyn players had been at Warren Park for about half an hour. Some of the players had to remain in the old clubhouse for a couple of hours before they could get back to their hotel. This caused Manager Dahlen to fall back on the local Young Men's Christian Association Gymnasium this afternoon, where the players spent nearly three hours in exercise. The field at Warren Park was in bad condition before the rain set in, and when Manager Dahlen returned to the hotel he immediately got in communication with Harry Smith of the Newarks, now training at Savannah, and called off the game scheduled for here to-morrow.

If Dahlen could locate a good place he would undoubtedly move the team at once, as the men have only five more days here before starting for Brooklyn. Reports received to-day show that the rain was general all over the South, and from present indications the team will remain here until they break camp next Friday morning.

The best news to reach Dahlen arrived at noon, when he received a wire from Charles H. Ebbets, Jr., that Benny Meyers had signified his intention to return to baseball, and would report to the Superbas' manager some time to-morrow. The outfield proposition has worried Dahlen more or less, as all his fielders are left-handed batters, which would handicap him at times. Meyers is a right-handed hitter, and last year with Toronto batted for .348 and stole 51 bases. Five years ago he was tried out by the Giants, but was sent to Newark after the Giants returned from their Southern trip.

Pitcher Hall, who promises to eclipse "Wild Bill" Donovan at his wildest, hit Rucker over the right eye with a ball in the gymnasium this afternoon, causing it to swell and bleed.

MINOR LEAGUE EXPELLED.

Blue Grass Players Declared Free Agents by National Association.

AUBURN, N. Y., March 21.—Chairman John H. Farrell of the National Board of Arbitration of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, to-night gave out a special notice to all organized baseball clubs for the first time in the history of minor league baseball expelling an entire league from the National Association. Mr. Farrell said:

"The officials of the Blue Grass League, having publicly and officially made known their determination to violate the National Agreement, this league, after a fair notification to its league President and a wire notice to its club members, has had its membership fee returned and its reserved players declared free agents. The National Association must abide by the provisions of Article 5, Section 3, of its contract with the major league the National Agreement."

The Blue Grass League includes Frankfort, Maysville, Richmond, Lexington, Paris, and Mount Sterling, Ky. An attempt has just been made to add Covington, Ky., to the circuit. As Covington is within five miles of Cincinnati, a club playing there infringes upon the territorial rights of the Cincinnati National League Club, and its existence constitutes a violation of the section of the National Agreement specified by Chairman Farrell. The decision declares over 100 players to be free agents.

PRINCETON SHUT OUT.

Virginia Wins from Tigers Through Hanks's Error in First Inning.

Special to The New York Times.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., March 21.—Virginia blanked Princeton to-day, 3 to 0, in by far the prettiest game of the local season. The opposing twirlers, Grant and Wood, were former chums at the Episcopal High School near Alexandria, Va., and each pitched a superb game, considering the soggy field. Virginia won in the opening inning, when, with runners on second and third bases, Landes drove a long fly to deep right, which got away from Hanks, both runners scoring. In the seventh Neff walked and tallied on Phillips's corking double.

Of the three hits made off Grant, two came in the fourth inning. With the bases full, however, he pulled himself out of a hole by fanning Gill and causing Carter to send an easy fly to Lile. Pendleton and Worthington fielded sharply for Princeton, while Lile, Phillips, and White starred for Virginia. The score:

Pennsy's Trip in the South.

PHILADELPHIA, March 21.—Coach Roy Thomas of the University of Pennsylvania's baseball team announced to-night that Sayre has been selected to pitch in their opening contest with the Naval Academy's nine on Saturday. Capt. Harry Imlay will do the twirling the game with Yale on Monday at Washington. The squad, accompanied by Coach Thomas, Theodore Brown, Chairman of the Baseball Committee, and nearly 100 rooters, will start for Annapolis to-morrow morning. Coach Thomas says he has the best material that has represented Pennsylvania on the diamond for five years.

College Baseball at Fordham.

This afternoon at Fordham Field, C. C. N. Y. and Fordham will cross bats, starting the local intercollegiate baseball season. Both Coaches, Coffey of Fordham, and Holton of City College will send into the game most of the candidates who have been practicing under them for the past month, to help determine the final line-up of each nine for the games later in the season. For the Maroon, Coach Coffey will try out four batteries: Williams and Elliffe, Keelen and Viviano, Kane and Zeller, and Wilkinson and Scanlon. Several candidates will also be tried out for shortstop, first and third bases, and centre field positions. For City College, Coach Holton has to form practically a new team this Spring, because the few veterans still at college have not displayed enough form to warrant retaining their positions of last year.

SWIMMING.

AMERICANS WILL TRY TO SWIM CHANNEL

Durborow, Callahan, and Schlomberg Plan to Paddle English Waters.

If plans now under way are brought to a satisfactory conclusion three Americans will attempt within the next few months to swim the English Channel, the great goal that the world's best distance paddlers have ever held in sight.

The candidates for the gruelling test are Charles Durborow of Philadelphia, Joseph M. Callahan of Pittsburgh, and Benjamin H. Schlomberg of New York. Durborow is an amateur and a member of the Philadelphia Swimming Club; the other two are life-savers. Callahan has been attached for seven years to the Atlantic City squad of professionals, and Schlomberg is affiliated with the United States Volunteer Corps.

Of Durborow's ability to complete the journey between England and France there can be no doubt. Last Summer he covered a course in Delaware Bay which measures nineteen and a half miles on the Government charts, and eye witnesses familiar with conditions abroad pronounced the feat equal in both distance and difficulty to the classic foreign trip. Indeed, tides and currents so lengthened Durborow's way that the patent logs on the accompanying boat registered a shade under forty-three miles. For the rest, the Philadelphian has speed far beyond the average plugger, inexhaustible endurance, unlimited grit, and the needed flesh to discount the ill effects of a prolonged stay in cold water. The Delaware Bay swim saw him hold the trudgeon stroke from start to finish, a period of fifteen hours and one-quarter.

Callahan has awaited for some time the opportunity to try the noted feat, and prepared himself for it by frequently taking long swims on the Jersey shore. Most of his records from point to point have never been touched. His friends are now convinced that he is good enough to succeed where so many have failed, and they have contributed the necessary funds to defray the cost of sending him to Europe. Like Durborow, Callahan is well fitted physically for the task before him. He has stamina, strength, weight, nerve, and is almost as fast as his rival.

Schlomberg's intention to tackle the Channel swim was made known through an open challenge published in the local newspapers. He offered to meet any swimmer in the world over the course between the 1st and 15th of May. The choice of such an early date caused considerable surprise, for many consider the Northern seas entirely too frigid in early May to make it possible for any man to stand their temperature for several hours without collapsing. Schlomberg, however, seems to have no misgivings, and is confident that he can succeed.

Callahan will not undertake the punishing grind until July, and Durborow is in favor of starting at the beginning of August. Both have written abroad to arrange all matters of detail, and from the way they speak it appears certain that negotiations will be favorably closed in the near future. Several foreigners are scheduled also to try and span the Channel shores, and it will not be surprising to hear of the daring swim being authentically achieved.

ATLANTIC GARDEN BOUTS.

Young Ahearn and Charley Pierson the Main Attraction.

Young Ahearn, who boxes Charley Pierson to-night at the Atlantic Garden Athletic Club, will probably have to fight harder than he fought when he boxed Jack Britton in Brooklyn, as this Western welterweight, Charley Pierson, has a record said to be second to none in the country, having fought "Wildcat" Ferns, Ray Bronson, and a host of Western welterweights. In the event of Pierson winning, the match maker will immediately sign him to box Mike Gibbons for the welterweight title.

Milton Blier, who faces Young O'Leary, is the boy who has been knocking out his opponents with a regularity that is disheartening to the men in his class. In boxing O'Leary he will in all likelihood be extended for the entire distance, trying to land a knockout punch on a little boy from the east side.

The championship of the east side is involved in the battle between Johnny Keyes of the lower east side and Micky Dunn of the Bronx. Keyes is the recognized 110-pound champion of New York by the easy manner in which he has defeated all his opponents, but in facing Micky Dunn he will box a boy who is just as fast as himself, and who wants the championship better than anything else. There will be three ten-round bouts.

Houck and Hommey at Fairmont.

Tommy Houck and Packey Hommey are said to be in excellent condition for their ten-round bout to-night at the Fairmont A. C. Judging from the form of the two boys it looks as if the contest will be one of the best matches between small men that the Bronx club has staged in many months. That there will be action a-plenty is a foregone conclusion, and it would not be surprising if the bout comes to a sensational ending. Houck is a hard-hitting and fast boxer, and only a few nights ago stopped Young Fulton, which is proof that he possesses a knockout punch. In the semi-final of ten rounds Battling Larry Doyle will take on Johnny Baker. This is also expected to furnish plenty of action. Preliminary to these bouts there will be a six-round set-to and seven four-round tilts.

Boxer Dies of Fractured Skull.

PITTSBURGH, March 21.—Tommy Levalle, a local lightweight boxer, died at Mercy Hospital here this morning as the result of a blow he received in a boxing bout before the Tariff Club last night. His skull was fractured. George Adamson, who was Levalle's opponent in the boxing bout, and Prof. A. C. Evans, who is alleged to have arranged the match, were arrested this afternoon and held to await the action of the Coroner.

FUTURE SPORTING EVENTS.

The wrestling championships of the Metropolitan Association of the Amateur Athletic Union will be decided on April 10 and 12, under the auspices of the New York A. C. The preliminaries will be held on Thursday evening, April 10, and the finals on Saturday evening at the club gymnasium. These bouts are open to all registered athletes whose clubs are members of the Metropolitan Association. There will be eight classes, as follows: 108, 115, 125, 135, 145, 158, and 175 pounds, and a heavyweight class for all over the last named figure. The regulation championship gold and silver medals will be awarded to the first and second in each class, and a championship banner will go to the club scoring the greatest number of points. If the entries warrant the contests will be continued on Friday evening, April 11. Entries close on Thursday, April 3, with E. J. Giannini, at the New York A. C.

The National interscholastic swimming championships, open to all high and preparatory schools, will be held at the New York A. C. natatorium on Saturday, April 5. The trials will be held in the afternoon and the finals in the evening. The events to be decided are the 50-yard swim, 100-yard swim, 220-yard swim, relay race of 200 yards, and fancy diving from a 3½-foot springboard. Entries close on Saturday, March 29, with E. J. Giannini at the club.

The A. A. U. diving championships will also be decided at the New York A. C. on Saturday, April 5. The springboard will be raised to the height of 11½ feet and the programme calls for ten dives, four specially named and six to be chosen by the competitor. This event is open to all registered athletes. Entries close on March 29, with Chairman of A. A. U. Championship Committee, care of New York A. C.

Too Wet for Golf and Polo.

Special to The New York Times.

AIKEN, S. S., March 21.—On account of rain this morning the semi-finals in golf for the Southern Cross and Aiken Cups were postponed until Monday, and the annual Palmetto handicap postponed until to-morrow. The rain interfered with the polo tournaments, which were called off for this afternoon. Three games are scheduled for to-morrow to make up for lost time this week.

INTERNATIONAL POLO PLANS.

Public Invited to Make Reservations for Games at Once.

Followers of polo will be given an opportunity to make their applications for boxes and seats in anticipation of the international matches between England and America at Meadow Brook from to-day on, and announcement is made that to insure participation in the allotment, which will be made April 28, all bids should be made to the Secretary of the Committee of Arrangements, V. E. Schaumburg, 6 East Forty-sixth Street, New York, before April 15.

The international matches, best two in three, will be held on the Meadow Brook grounds, Westbury, Long Island, June 10 and 14, weather permitting. Should a third game be necessary, the date will be announced after the second match.

Allotments will be made as nearly as possible in the order in which applications for same are received, preference being given to members of Polo Association clubs and active players. Payments for boxes and seats allotted must be made within ten days after the allotment or the application will be canceled and the boxes and seats resold. All boxes seat six persons.

Boxes and seats for the entire series only will be sold on application at the following prices:

In the West Stand—Boxes for the entire series, nearest the centre, $200; other boxes, $150; limited number of grand stand seats, near the centre of field, for the entire series, $15, and other grand stand seats for entire series, $10.

In the East Stand—Grand stand seats for entire series, $5. Applications for boxes and seats for single days will not be entertained before May 28. Holders of boxes in the west stand only will be entitled to admission to the club inclosure. A charge of 50 cents will be made for single admissions to an inclosure on the east side of the grounds.

Special trains, by arrangement with the Long Island Railroad, will be run from the Pennsylvania Station direct to the grounds and return. Round trip fare, $1.25. Schedules of trains will be published in the daily papers. The grounds can also be reached from the near-by stations of Hempstead, Merrick, Garden City, and Westbury by regular train schedule. No parking spaces for automobiles or carriages will be provided inside the polo ground inclosure. Ample field space for all vehicles of patrons will be provided outside.

MILLER IN RACING AGAIN.

Part Owner of Old Newcastle Stable to Return to the Turf.

Andrew Miller, Secretary of the Saratoga Association for the Improvement of the Breed of Horses, will buy a string of thoroughbreds this season and actively return to racing. It is not thought likely that Miller will buy horses to campaign except in New York State, and it is taken as an indication that the plans for a resumption of the sport in the State are well defined at this time, though no announcement has been made of just how far the associations have progressed in that direction. Some seasons ago Mr. Miller and his associates of the Newcastle Stable cut a very important figure on the American turf.

WILL REPLY TO LIPTON.

New York Y. C. Will Answer Latest Request on Monday.

The New York Yacht Club will answer Sir Thomas Lipton's latest statement in regard to the rejection of his challenge for the America's Cup on Monday. The request of the Royal Ulster Yacht Club, representing Sir Thomas, for a reconsideration of his challenge has been discussed by the Cup Committee of the New York Yacht Club, but it is not known whether a final decision was reached at that meeting, or whether a special meeting will be called. It was intimated that the reply would be unfavorable to Sir Thomas.

Yacht Racing Association Meets.

At the annual meeting of the Yacht Racing Association of Long Island Sound, held last night at the Hotel Astor, these officers were elected to serve in 1913: President—Stuyvesant Wainwright; Secretary—James W. Alker; Treasurer—George E. Roosevelt; Members of the Executive Committee—Frank Bowne Jones, Horace E. Boucher, Harry A. Jackson, Jr., and E. S. Willard. The racing rules as finally adopted at a previous meeting were ratified.

The dates chosen by the association for the season of 1913 are as follows: May 30, Harlem Y. C. annual and Bridgeport Spring races; May 31, Knickerbocker Y. C. annual and Indian Harbor special; June 7, Manhasset Bay annual; June 14, Larchmont Y. C. Spring; June 18, Indian Harbor race to New London; June 21, Seawanhaka-Corinthian special and New York A. C. Block Island race; June 25, Seawanhaka-Corinthian annual; June 28, New Rochelle annual; July 3, American Y. C. annual; July 4, Larchmont and Hartford annual; July 5, Oriental special and Riverside annual; July 12, Indian Harbor annual; July 19 to 26, Larchmont race week; Aug. 2, Stamford annual and Hempstead Harbor annual; Aug. 9, Horseshoe Harbor annual; Aug. 12, Huguenot annual; Aug. 16, Bridgeport annual; Aug. 23, New Rochelle special and Northport annual; Aug. 30, Seawanhaka-Corinthian Fall; Sept. 1, Larchmont Fall and Norwalk and Sachem's Head annuals; Sept. 6, Indian Harbor Fall; Sept. 13, Manhasset Bay Fall; Sept. 20, Indian Harbor Corinthian Cup and Bayside annual; Sept. 23, Riverside special.

Recreation Centre A. L. Games.

The Recreation Centre Athletic League will hold its annual basket ball and jumping championships at the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory this evening. The junior basket ball team of E. R. C. No. 84, Brooklyn, will play the team from E. R. C. No. 188, and the senior team of the latter centre will play the E. R. C. No. 117 team of Brooklyn. As the Amateur Athletic Union has decided not to hold any basket ball championships this year, these games will practically decide the titles. The jumping events will be the standing broad and running high for both juniors and seniors. More than 100 boys are entered for the four jumps.

McCourt Beats Moore with Cue.

PITTSBURGH, March 21.—Charles McCourt of Pittsburgh to-night defeated John Moore of Kansas City 50 to 34 in a National three-cushion billiard league game. McCourt had a high run of 5 and Moore 3. The game went 66 innings.

New York Billiardist Loses.

BOSTON, March 21.—Boston turned the tables on New York to-night in the National Billiard League three-cushion match, when Dr. R. Hudson of this city defeated H. Goldman of New York, 50 to 45. Both Dr. Hudson and Goldman had high runs of 4. Dr. Hudson's playing average was .46, while that of Goldman was .42.

NEWS OF THE GOLFERS.

Dates for the annual tournament of the Shawnee Country Club have been advanced a week, the time now being July 31, Aug. 1, and 2. The change was made for the purpose of avoiding a conflict with the Ekwanok Country Club, for several players would like to compete at both places.

The Brooklyn-Forest Park Golf Club and the Woodhaven Board of Trade will hold a joint meeting shortly for the purpose of discussing the situation with regard to the Forest Park public links. The golfers have long been advocating improvements. Recent talk of reducing the ground occupied by the links has aroused a storm of protest.

ARMY-NAVY GAME FOR POLO GROUNDS

Annual Football Contest May Not Be Played on Franklin Field This Year.

Secretary Foster of the New York Baseball Club takes quite some encouragement from the fact that certain army and navy men have inspected the Polo Grounds with a view of holding the annual Army-Navy football game there.

This annual event, so important to both branches of the United Service, has always been held on Franklin Field, Philadelphia, the playground of the University of Pennsylvania, and on account of its many attendant features the game, coming after what is known as the regular football season, the Saturday after Thanksgiving Day, has come to be regarded as a great social function, as well as one of America's principal sporting events. In the estimation of many more or less directly concerned, the game has outgrown Philadelphia.

Besides the general trend of this big game to a bigger setting is the yearly difficulty about tickets. The army and navy have never had enough, and neither has the University of Pennsylvania, so that the plan to move the game to bigger grounds will in a measure relieve the poor army and navy fellows who are pestered almost to distraction for "bids" to the great event that typifies better than anything else probably the National regard for the great game of football.

This isn't the first time that a proposition has been made to hold the Army-Navy game in New York. It has been pointed out that the location of this city being nearer to West Point than Annapolis is no serious objection, because it is only a matter of a few miles, and the difficulty of transporting the Annapolis Cadets the extra 180 miles could easily be overcome by the railroad folks.

The percentage of the receipts which usually go to the benefit of the Army-Navy fund would be larger if the teams played the annual game in this city. As far as the transportation facilities go the student bodies of both service schools would be able to attend the game and return to the schools on the same day.

The special trains which usually carry the students from the academies would easily be able to abide with the rules of the two institutions and have the cadets and midshipmen home on schedule time.

In former years this plan of having the game played in New York has been advanced by several influential army and navy men, but the plan has never been followed. There is no doubt that as far as gate receipts are concerned the game played in this city would draw a larger assemblage than at Philadelphia.

In fact, it would be a fairer arrangement to bring the two institutions to this city, because, according to the arrangement at Philadelphia, a certain percentage of the receipts go to the University of Pennsylvania, and by bringing the game to this city it is believed that a larger amount would be given to the service fund.

MOVING DAY FOR GIANTS.

They Leave Marlin Springs After Playing High School Lads.

Special to The New York Times.

MARLIN, Texas, March 21.—This was moving picture day for the Giants and also get-away day. To-night the party, occupying three special cars, entrained for Southern Texas. The regulars are bound for Houston, and the second team for Galveston.

Another development of the day was the coldest weather encountered in the whole time spent here. A cold wind from the north held forth all day, and it was too arctic like for the pitchers to work. It was the first practice day in the month spent here that it was too cold for twirlers to exercise arms, and the only ones who used their wings at all were Smith and Demaree.

Smith pitched a while in the afternoon battle with the Marlin High School, and Demaree unlimbered a few minutes because he wanted to work out a kink in his back. He wrenched his bacq yesterday, but to-day the soreness was almost gone.

The moving picture posing began in the morning, and with intermission lasted all day. All sorts of manoeuvres and training work were depicted on the films. A moving picture actor came to town and got into the pictures as the leading performer in a piece to be called. Breaking Into the Big League." He was assisted by the Giants in various posings and groups.

It was not much of atrick for the Giants to beat the Marlin striplings, and McGraw used two full teams before the game was over. The first Marlin boy up earned undying fame by slamming Smith for a clean home run. That ended Marlin's scoring. Four home runs were made by the Giants, McCormick, Snodgrass, Torry and Evers. Evers and Torrey put the ball over the right field fence.

CORNELL WRESTLERS BEST

But Lehigh Bids Fair to Give Ithacans a Battle in To-day's Bouts.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., March 21.—With five men qualified for the semi-finals and finals to-morrow afternoon Cornell appears to have the advantage in the intercollegiate wrestling championship tournament. The Lehigh team will give Cornell a stiff rub, however, with three men qualified and one more point won through falls in the preliminaries to-night. Lehigh has 4 points; Cornell, 3; Princeton, 3; Columbia, 1; Pennsylvania, 1.

The feature event to-night was the bout between Boak of Cornell and Prickett of Princeton in the 125-pound class, which went for eighteen minutes before the Cornell man secured his fall. Lehigh has several men qualified for second place, and will make a good showing. Columbia is doomed for last place.

Exhibition Baseball Results.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 21.—St. Louis (National,) 17; University of Tennessee, 0.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 21.—Chicago, (National,) 5; Chattanooga, (Southern,) 1.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 21.—Boston Nationals, 7; Atlanta, (Southern,) 6.

HOUSTON, Texas, March 21.—Philadelphia Americans, (recruits,) 12; Houston, (Texas,) 2.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 21.—Philadelphia Americans, 6; Nashville, (Southern,) 0.

HARVARD CHESS VICTORY.

Yale Grads Beaten in Second Match by 6 to 0.

Establishing a record for the annual series between the Harvard and Yale Clubs of this city, the chess team of the Harvard Club administered a crushing defeat to the side representing the Yale Club in the second and last match contested yesterday at the clubhouse of the latter. There were six boards, and the home team, headed by John L. Clark, former Nebraska State champion, made a clean sweep on all. The other winners were A. E. Goddard, W. M. P. Mitchell, S. W. Howland, Franklin Hopkins, and C. E. Nixdorff. The Harvard Club team, which took the first match two weeks ago by 3½ to 1½, thereby won the series by a total of 9½ to 1½, incidentally getting the first leg on the new inter-club chess trophy, which was carried in triumph to the headquarters of the victors across the street. The summary:

Bds.	HARVARD CLUB.		YALE CLUB.
1	J. L. Clark	1	A. S. Jameson	0
2	A. E. Goddard	1	J. H. Watson	0
3	W. M. P. Mitchell	1	W. Carmalt	0
4	S. W. Howland	1	Henry Holt	0
5	F. Hopkins	1	H. Alling	0
6	C. E. Nixdorff	1	H. Hoyt	0
	Total	6	Total	0

Umpire—Robert Putnam. The Harvard Club played white on the odd-numbered boards.

Magnus Smith, champion of the Manhattan Chess Club, yesterday met his first defeat in the annual championship tournament of the club at the hands of Harry Rosenbaum, who won a fine game, opened by the latter with a four knights, after fifty-one moves. This left Dr. Adair in the lead with a score of 5½ to ½, Smith being second with 5 to 1.

NEW RIFLE TEAM RECORD.

Company H Wins Trophy in Seventy-first Regiment Shoot.

The first rifle team of Company H, Seventy-first Regiment, composed of Capt. A. E. Wells, Corporal C. Martens, and Private J. Bianchi, established a new regimental record in the sixth annual shoot for the Banks Trophy last night at the armory ranges. The winning team was credited with a total score of 198 out of a possible 210, beating the best previous figures of 197, made three years ago by Company K.

The event was one of the most important matches of the indoor season, and was for a loving cup donated by Commodore David Banks, in addition to individual prizes to the three members of the winning team.

The entry list mustered twenty-two teams, consisting of three men each, comprising a marksman, sharpshooter, and expert. The ranges were constantly occupied for a period of nearly four hours. The men first engaged in seven shots in a standing position for a possible score of 105, and then at the prone position for a like number. The victory of the winning company was due to the sterling performance of Capt. Wells. The team's two strings showed scores of 94 and 104 at standing and prone positions, respectively. In the latter position they missed a full score by only 1 point, establishing a record in the event.

Company K was second with a score of 193, and Company L third with 190. Fourth position was closely contested, with a triple tie between the first and second teams of Company B and second team of Company K, each having a score of 184. The scores:

Company.	Standing.	Prone.	Total.
H (first team)	94	104	198
K	89	104	193
L	88	102	190
B (second team)	87	97	184
B (first team)	87	97	184
K (second team)	86	98	184

Shooting for Indoor Title.

Competition for the 100-shot indoor gallery championship of the United States will close at 10 o'clock to-night at Zettler's Rifle Club, 159 West Twenty-third Street. Over fifty of the best marksmen in the East have competed, and A. Hubalek of Brooklyn continues in the lead with 2.478, with Dr. W. G. Hudson of New York second, with 2,474. P. E. Brooks of Newport R. I., was high man yesterday, with 2,459, ond H. M. Thomas of New Haven a close second with 2,451. The scores: P. E. Brooks, Newport, R. I., 2,459; H. M. Thomas, New Haven, 2,451; L. P. Ittel, Pittsburgh, 2,442; L. P. Hansen, Jersey City, 2,390; A. Bergetrow, Newark, N. J., 2,314.

Athletes in Bedford "Gym."

Columbia, Amherst, Rutgers, and New York University will compete in a quadrangular gymnastic contest to-night at the Bedford Branch Y. M. C. A., corner of Bedford Avenue and Monroe Street, Brooklyn. As the intercollegiate gymnastic championships are to be held at Princeton March 28, each team will be at its best and will do its utmost to win the point trophy offered by the Y. M. C. A.

Four Brooklyn students, members of the Bedford Branch, are among the leaders of their respective colleges. Cremer, the leading point winner of N. Y. U. and last year's intercollegiate winner of the side horse, with Brinton of Pennsylvania, is expected to win, while Capt. Anderson of Rutgers, also a Brooklyn Y. M. C. A. member, is favored to capture the horizontal bar. Sengstaken, the Columbia club swinger, and Herrschaft, an ex-Boys' High School and Y. M. C. A. athlete, will represent Amherst on the parallels.

Other members of the teams are Capt. Marsh, the Amherst crack tumbler and Indian club swinger; Gaipa, the ring artist; Nelson and Briggs, intercollegiate club champions; Haasis brothers, horse, clubs, and tumbling experts, of Rutgers; Dutcher, the National champion in Indian clubs; Kennard, the tumbler; Hopchoosky, flying rings, and Saul on parallels, for N. Y. U., and Columbia's unusual horizontal and parallel bar performer, Bhadkampkar.

N. Y. U. has defeated Amherst and Columbia in dual meets this year, and Rutgers has waylaid Columbia and N. Y. U. The strongest combination of all the teams will be massed against each other in the neutral gymnasium of the Bedford Y. M. C. A. The affair is scheduled to begin sharply at 8 o'clock, and the events contested will be horizontal bar, side horse, parallel bars, swinging rings, Indian clubs, and tumbling.

Con Walsh Makes New Record.

Con Walsh, formerly of the New York Athletic Club, but now a member of the Seattle Athletic Club, on Saturday last contributed a new record when he threw a 56-pound weight for height 19 feet 6 1-10 inches. Affidavits attesting that the measurement was correct and that the weight scaled 36 pounds are on their way to the A. A. U. headquarters, and there seems little doubt about the new mark finding its way into the handbook. Walsh was formerly the holder of the "56" for height record of 16 feet 6 3-16 inches, made at Travers Island Sept. 24, 1910.

GOULD AND HUHN LOSE AT COURT TENNIS

Handicap of 15 Too Much to Give to Potter and Tompkins, the Victors.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, March 21.—In the best contested four-handed court tennis match of the season, Wilson Potter and F. C. Tompkins, instructor to the Racquet Club, defeated Jay Gould and W. H. T. Huhn at the Racquet Club this afternoon by three sets to two. The losers gave the winners 15 in each game, and the handicap proved just a little bit beyond their powers to overcome on the day's play. Both Wilson Potter and Tompkins deserved their victory, as after the first set they played a very fine game.

In the first set Potter was a trifle erratic, but after that he settled down and played a very steady and consistent game. His mistakes were few and far between, and those that he made were quite excusable. Tompkins seldom has played a better game. There was nothing the matter with the play of Gould and Huhn, but the handicap was a trifle too much for them.

In the first set the backmarkers were seen to better advantage than their opponents. They began well by winning the first two games, and, although their opponents made it two-all, they ran out the set by winning four games in succession. Gould and Huhn obtained a lead of two games to one in the second set also, but their opponents then got going in fine style, and, winning game after game, made it set-all by winning by six games to two.

The third set was the best contested of the three, and right up to the end the result was in doubt. Potter and Tompkins displayed superb form in the fourth set, and, although their opponents played with great energy, they could not hold them, and they took the first five games.

The sixth went to Gould and Huhn, but this was the only game they secured in the set, and they were beaten by six games to one.

The final set was most interesting and kept the spectators interested all the way through. The score:

Wilson Potter and F. C. Tompkins defeated W. H. T. Huhn and Jay Gould, 2—6, 6—2, 5—6, 6—1, 6—4.

College Soccer Starts To-day.

First to take the field in the annual series of intercollegiate soccer football matches, which will be played at South Field this afternoon, Columbia University, having kept in training throughout the Winter, is well prepared for Haverford College, which will provide the opposing team for the opening struggle. Capt. William B. Evans of Columbia has selected the following men to play for the Blue and White: W. J. Krefeld, goal; F. B. Spencer, right back; C. J. B. Laguardia, left back; I. A. Felton, right half; W. B. Evans, centre half; W. A. Riddel, left half; M. Y. Chung, outside right; J. S. Peck, inside right; W. W. Colquhoun, centre forward; H. Shanholt, inside left; H. P. Zoller, outside left; C. E. Hamilton, reserve. The match will afford an opportunity to Fred Milnes, Captain of the famous Pilgrims of England, and now in New York, to witness for the first time a game for the intercollegiate trophy, of which he was the donor several years ago.

A FRUITLESS DISCUSSION.

We should like to know what definite conclusions have been reached or what measurable progress toward a conclusion has been made by anybody as the result of the investigation and public discussion of the social evil and of conditions in what is called the underworld. As an incident of inquiry into the evils of the police "system" in this town, much publicity has been given to the statements and confessions of persons of the underworld, there has been much theorizing about remedies and reforms. The recent wage inquiry in Chicago not merely touched on this subject, but dwelt upon it, turned it over, examined it, and brought out testimony as to the relation between low wages and sin which no competent student of social affairs would consider to be of value. But the highly questionable quality of the "facts" elicited seemed to stimulate rather than to check the discussion, and theories were extemporized on the spot, including the theory of the minimum wage, about the worst remedy that could be applied. Senator WAGNER's Committee on Remedial Police Legislation has elicited statements and testimony, which, given to the newspapers, swell the flood of public information or misinformation.

The question what it all comes to or can come to is pertinent, because the discussion treats of matters as to which opinions have more commonly been expressed in private than in public, and there have been some surprising exhibitions of readiness to make the social evil the theme of platform discourse. The attitude and the usage of society in respect to the underworld have varied. A few centuries ago conversation, books, and plays were so unrestrained that without much reproach freedom went to licentious extremes. Perhaps society was less moral in those times. Then, later, people ceased to speak of or to indulge in pleasantries about matters that had been so freely spoken of before. There was a reform in morals as well as in speech. But men and women did not become better because they had ceased to talk of things more proper for private consideration. The rise of the Puritan movement in England was the chief cause of greater purity in speech and in behavior. Reform came through deep religious conviction.

The publicity with which unfortunate social conditions are now discussed does not lead to religious conviction, to any reform in morals, or to any practical remedies for existing evils—at least it does not visibly lead in those directions. If it be true that no benefit accrues from the discussion, we see no reason why it should not stop. Certainly it is unpleasant, and, inferably, it may do harm. Modesty and that purity of mind which centuries of civilization and growing refinement have taught us to regard as praiseworthy qualities are not enhanced, they are not safeguarded, they seem to be in some degree endangered by this new public interest in the affairs of the underworld. All that might be endured if good were to come. But where is there the slightest evidence that good will come?

The evil will continue, there will always be an underworld. We do not suppose that any person who has given serious consideration to the matter doubts that. There are conditions, however, which society may hopefully attempt to remedy. The question what can be done for women who wish to reform is one of the most moving and serious of all. But relief work wisely carried on in private is much more likely to bring good fruit in this field than legislative inquiries or public meetings. The white slave traffic is a monstrous crime against humanity that must be stopped by the sternest enforcement of law. For that something better than an inquiry and report by a committee of the Legislature is required. It will be observed that in this matter offers of co-operation from denizens of the underworld have been received by the Wagner Committee. A great deal of allowance must be made in respect to the contents of these communications, but in one respect it must be admitted that they contain practical suggestions. Segregation is urged and advised by the writers of these letters. Segregation is the policy that has been recommended by some of the most diligent students of the problem. It is a policy that would tend to reduce or control some of the worst evils resulting from social vice, notably one of the most dreadful of all, disease. It would make more effective the attempt to suppress the white slave traffic. It would tend unmistakably to the abolition of police graft. But what practical-minded man supposes that there is enough enlightened public opinion in this State to secure the enactment of a segregation law? Everybody knows the forces that would be arrayed against it, forces that have made themselves felt in cities in this country and in other countries, forces of a nature akin to that which secured the abolition of the army canteens and let loose a flood of evils for every one it sought to cure. Thus the only practical end of publicity so far is unattainable. A barren idealism stops the way, the belief, no doubt sincere, but a belief that all human experience from the beginning belies, that suppression, not regulation, must be the aim of the law.

The curable evils to which Senator WAGNER's Committee has given all this publicity and prominence may be reached without the publication of daily reports from the underworld. The work to be done, the most certainly efficient of any that can be attempted, is to reorganize the police force of New York City, to put it upon a sound basis of discipline and control under a Commissioner serving for a considerable term of years, independent of other official control and of political control, having the full power of discipline over his subordinates, and held to a just and strict accountability for the performance of his duty—that is practicable, that would be the most far-reaching of reforms. It is in that way, and in that way alone, that graft can be stopped, the "system" broken up, and the evils that afflict society brought under control. The way to that reform lies through action, not through talk.

AVATARS EXTRAORDINARY.

A Mr. TRIPPETT of Montclair has discovered through the agency of a dream that he is now in his third incarnation in this world. In his first incarnation his name was Cedric, which suggests a Saxon origin, and he was in love with a girl named Lucy, who was murdered. He was hanged for the murder, though he was innocent. In his second stage of earthly existence he was a slave and the reincarnated Lucy was his master's daughter. In his present reincarnation Mr. TRIPPETT is Town Clerk of Montclair, and has published the story of his two former incarnations in a book called "The Door Without a Knob."

Mr. TRIPPETT's dream was induced by tobacco. He stopped smoking for forty days and then smoked incessantly for three hours. After that he dreamed. But the same dream, in the nightmare form, had often troubled him. Now he knows it is true. It must be true. Surely if Mr. TRIPPETT had been inclined to fib about his incarnations he would have been JULIUS CAESAR in the first and NAPOLEON BONAPARTE in the second. The world is full of men who fancy themselves reincarnations of CAESAR and NAPOLEON, or act as if they did. But Mr. TRIPPETT confesses to having had a mighty hard time trying to exist on the surface of this globe, and admits, as we understand it, that he is much better off now as Town Clerk than he was in his former states. Therefore his novel tale of his triple career bears the stamp of veracity. As a novelty it is welcome. We had grown very tired of the fellows who had "staggered humanity" in earlier incarnations and only bored it in the latest.

THE FOREIGN MISSIONS.

With the change in the Administration the question of appointments of Ambassadors and Ministers to foreign countries has come up for vigorous and incessant discussion out of the White House and the State Department. Nothing of the intentions of President WILSON and Secretary BRYAN in this matter is yet positively known except that the Ambassadorship to the Court of St. James's was offered to Mr. OLNEY and declined, and that Mr. WILLIAM F. MCCOMBS has declined to accept the French Ambassadorship. Dr. ELIOT of Cambridge, Mass., is reported to have declined the appointment also declined by Mr. OLNEY. A number of other gentlemen of National repute have been spoken of for this place. Candidates for the German, Austrian, Italian, and Mexican Ambassadorships, who are believed to be more or less certain of appointment, are named in the Washington reports, and early appointments are expected to the Ministerships in China, Holland, and Denmark. Names have not yet been connected with the heads of our embassies in Russia, Japan, Brazil, Turkey, Spain, and other countries, but there seems to be no doubt whatever in Washington that there will be changes at all these posts.

It is a significant fact that not one of the men named in the current gossip for diplomatic appointments has had any experience whatever in the diplomatic service. The idea of a diplomatic corps of men specially trained by long service in foreign capitals and promoted for efficiency has always been ignored by the politicians, and it must be admitted that it has never very deeply impressed the public mind. Yet we have seen the beginnings of the development of such a corps, and we have not heard that President WILSON intends to discard the system of examinations for appointments to minor positions in the diplomatic service, and the selection for those positions of young men fitted by character and special education to fill them. Of course, the continued existence of such a corps of competent diplomatists, men fitted to represent our Government at foreign capitals, depends upon the recognition of efficiency by promotion. Young men of high character will not educate themselves for the diplomatic career if the career is not to be opened to them.

In regard to the two most important Ambassadorships, it has been the approved custom to fill them by the appointment of men who go abroad rather as representatives of the American people than as diplomats. President WILSON's reported determination to abide by that custom is not surprising. Foremost citizens, assuredly, have been spoken of for the British Ambassadorship, though two of them are obviously men of too great age to perform effective Ambassadorial work in case of a serious international crisis. The answer to this objection is, of course, that in these days of quick communication the State Department and the Foreign Office are kept closely in touch. This is to say that the Ambassadorship is of no practical importance, and that the appointment is only the Nation's gift to a man of great worth. It may be measurably true of the British Ambassadorship, but there are many other diplomatic offices which would be better filled by men of special diplomatic training.

Reward for political services, however, seems to be still the prevailing notion of our foreign appointments. When they are made they may all turn out to be excellent appointments. But the institution of a diplomatic service, removed as far as possible from partisan influence, has long been talked of and hopefully looked forward to, though we seem to be no nearer to it than we were in the old bad days. The best we can hope for is the appointment of generally competent men who will spend some part of their time in trying to learn the requirements of their posts, other than the purely social requirements, and will not fail us in an emergency.

A CONDITION PRECEDENT.

If Bulgaria consents to, and the Powers allow, the transfer to Rumania of the fortress of Silistria and the adjacent territory, there is one condition that should be required and enforced. That is the grant of the rights and immunities of citizenship to the several thousands of Jews now living there in safety and fair prosperity. This is in no sense a matter of sectarianism; it is a matter of humanity and of decent regard for justice and for treaty obligations. The Bulgarians have been intelligent and humane in their treatment of all the subjects of the King. There is no reason to doubt—should they finally transfer territory to Rumania—that they would gladly guard the rights of the people by a proper pledge from Rumania. But Bulgaria would, after the transfer, be practically powerless to exact fulfillment of the pledge. The great Powers alone could do that.

While there is no direct mode of action by which our Government could intervene in this matter, it could exert its moral influence with entire propriety, in the spirit of the note of Secretary JOHN HAY to the Rumanian Government. It might, indeed, go further and express informally to the Powers its view of the interests which it and every other Government having nationals of the race whose rights are involved must feel in securing just treatment for their brethren in the territory in question. The wrongs of this race were acknowledged in the Berlin Treaty, and provision for their remedy was made. That has not been enforced. Now it should be.

STOCK EXCHANGE INCORPORATION.

Infallibility is not given to mortals, and when Gov. SULZER introduced a dozen bills on delicate and intricate subjects in connection with Wall Street it was inevitable that there should be degrees of excellence among so many. He himself conceded that some of them would not stand discussion, and withdrew one in particular. The Stock Exchange itself admitted that some of the other bills had merits, or at least were unobjectionable. Reserve, therefore, in varying degrees is the becoming attitude of the judicious when opinions so differ. But there is one bill respecting which authorities are almost unanimous in dissent, and some of those who favored it have reconsidered. This is the bill for the incorporation of the Stock Exchange, respecting which the special committee of the Merchants' Association yesterday reported:

> Your committee has reconsidered its recommendation to take no action with relation to this bill, and now recommends that the bill should be disapproved and opposed.

Incorporation is a privilege, not a duty. Privileges are optional, but duties are universal. Corporations are creatures of law, and may be regulated by statute in consideration of the privileges created by statute, but the compulsory acceptance of unwanted privileges is a novelty and a contradiction on its face. It is difficult to say how many thousands of such associations there are, and members of many of them have substantial rights in the undivided property of the association. How shall those rights lawfully be ordered conveyed to a corporation against the will of the owners? The point is so clear that the bill does not propose to compel incorporation directly. It merely makes criminal business conducted as the Stock Exchange business has been conducted by its members. It may be possible to make such actions subject to punishment, but they would not be altered in their quality. "The crime and not the prison makes the shame." The creation of statutory crimes, which are not such in common opinion, is what brings laws into disrespect and desuetude.

But the bill does more than seek to coerce incorporation. It seeks to compel the Exchange to do a banking business against its will and custom. Brokers neither have nor should have a banking relation with the Exchange. The banks are as much affronted by this innovation as the Exchange. It is further provided that the Superintendent of Banks shall make an examination of the books of the Exchange, which does no banking business, and, in fact, which merely provides a place where its members do personal business. Examination of the books of the Exchange would disclose nothing, and examination of the books of brokers by State officials is an inconceivable intrusion. The Exchange does it, but it is by agreement and is no precedent for the same thing by law until the broker commits acts which bring him within the law.

While these proposals would do no good they would do harm by crippling the disciplinary processes of the Exchange itself. Where the State acted, the Exchange would be released from responsibility. The creation and maintenance of an open market is a delicate and difficult matter, and is better performed by those who understand it than by those seeking to meddle without the request of persons concerned and contrary to the expressed opinions of many of the most respectable and influential representatives of the business community.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Should Be Rewarded, Not Taxed.

There was omitted from the protest of the Motor Truck Club against the imposition of a special and onerous tax upon those vehicles what is perhaps the very best reason why it should not be done—a reason so good, indeed, that it would serve not ill as an argument in favor of paying money to their owners, instead of taking money away from them, and of taxing the rest of us to provide the funds.

Every motor truck that comes into use here means the banishment from the city of at least two horses, and oftener of four or six. That, in turn, means reducing to that extent the difficulty and expense of keeping the streets of the city clean and protecting its inhabitants from filth-fostered diseases, which are many.

There is no need to deny that the horse is a noble animal and faithful servant. As a matter of fact, of course, he isn't particularly noble, and his alleged fidelity is only a product of anthropomorphizing imaginations—of what used to be called "nature-faking," that is. There is no profit, however, in dwelling on these unpopular truths. Better to admit, frankly, that the services of horses to humanity have been enormous, to pass lightly over the demoralizing effect which men have always suffered from close association with them, and to put a note of sorrow as sincere as may be in saying that as fellow-residents of a city they are numbered among undesirables and tolerable only from necessity.

The automobile began and carried far the banishment of horses from cities, and the motor truck is continuing the good work and promises to complete it in time. The time would be the shorter if the process of substitution were encouraged by rewards instead of discouraged by taxes. When the horses are all gone, street cleaning will be a cheap and easy task, compared with what it is now, and as soon as we stop making pavements adjusted to equine convenience, and show judicious regard for the peculiarities of modern traffic, there will be practically no street cleaning, properly so called, to do—will not, that is, if we can train ourselves to better manners and higher aesthetic standards. And that is probably possible.

Teaching Needed Leniency.

Disquieting at first thought, as proving anew that certainty and permanency are beyond mortal attainment, there is yet something of consolation and reassurance in the solemnly reported discovery that the standard yard measure so carefully deposited and protected in Westminster, and the only four officially guaranteed copies of it in existence, are all "short." Made with every regard for accuracy of a bronze alloy supposed to be imperishable, it has been found that the passage of time, and of not very much time, either, has taken away of their substance.

The loss, to be sure, is not great, ranging as it does only from a minimum of 23-1,000,000 to a maximum of 215-1,000,000 of an inch, and such departures from rectitude would be counted as sin in few market transactions, even if noticed. Departures they are, however, and all one way. It is evident, therefore, that the precautions taken for the purpose of preserving these units of measurement have failed, lamentably and completely, and, as better guardianship than these venerated standards have received is probably impossible, the inevitable deduction is that accuracy in yardsticks is impossible.

And just there is where the consequent gloom is lightened, for, if these yardsticks are "short," what wonder is it that others, of necessity less well made and watched, show the same peculiarity?

Hitherto, when a Sealer of Weights and Measures, in one of the spasms of virtuous activity to which those officers are subject, has gone unheralded through the busy marts, and discovered, as he always did, that in most of the operations there customers were getting the worst of it, we have sorrowfully taken it to be proof that other than material standards of commerce were defective. This conclusion evidently was and is unnecessary. What happens in Westminster by millionths of an inch doubtless goes on by thousandths, or hundredths, or even eighths, in ordinary shops, and presumably without the knowledge or intention of the shopkeeper.

How harsh, how unjust, therefore, is the cynicism which receives the tradesman's plea of ignorance and accident with incredulity—which calls derisive attention to the invariability of error in his favor! None of the five standard yardsticks grew longer, but every one under its many coverings and behind its many locks waned steadily though slowly toward nothingness. This should be a lesson for us all, and the next time the grocer or the dealer in dry goods sends us less than we pay for, instead of impugning his honesty, we should content ourselves with saying, "Oh, well, it can't be helped!"

Plausible, But Not Promising.

Sir THOMAS LIPTON illustrates his persistence anew by questioning, gently but firmly, the accuracy of the interpretation placed by the New York Yacht Club officials on the deed of gift under which they hold and defend the America's Cup.

He calls their attention to a passage in that venerable document seemingly intended by its draughtsman to give the challenger the privilege of determining, within the limits of sixty-five and ninety feet, the length of the boats to compete for the trophy. It cannot have been the purpose, he says, to compel the challenger to tell the size of the boat he was going to build, and to let the defenders build one a lot bigger to meet it without time allowance.

There is at least a certain plausibility in this contention, in spite of the high, though rather mysterious, probability that it has been made in vain.

FACTORY REFORM BILLS

Afford Ample Fire Protection, Attorney Points Out.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As draftsman of legislation for the New York State Factory Investigating Commission may I say a few words in reply to the letter of H. F. J. Porter in a recent issue of THE TIMES? Mr. Porter's statements, if not corrected, may tend to mislead people who have not read the bills.

To refer to but one or two instances, it is not true that Bill No. 7 permits waste materials, cuttings or rubbish to accumulate on the floors of a factory for a month if they have a string tied around them. That privilege is extended only in case of baled waste material stored in fireproof inclosures; all other waste materials, cuttings and rubbish must be removed not less than twice each day.

Mr. Porter's statement that "Bill No. 8 calls for fire alarm signal systems which may be installed by the Fire Commissioner in this city or by the Fire Marshal in this State" is equally untrue. The bill requires such fire alarm signal systems to be installed in every building in which more than twenty-five persons are employed, by the owner or lessee of the building, under penalty of criminal prosecution.

Nor is it true, as Mr. Porter states, that no protection by way of automatic sprinkler systems is provided for buildings under seven stories in height. Bill No. 9 expressly gives the Industrial Board power to adopt rules and regulations for the installation of automatic sprinkler systems in all factory buildings where the safety of the occupants requires them. These instances show clearly the unfair and misleading character of Mr. Porter's criticisms.

The Factory Commission's legislation on this subject of fire prevention has been carefully devised to prevent, so far as possible, the occurrence of fire and to provide for the escape of occupants if one occurs. In order to prevent fire they require:

> (1) all future factory buildings over four stories in height to be of fireproof construction; all over one story to have incombustible roofs and cornices, and other structural requirements partly contained in the bills themselves and partly left by them to the Industrial Board; (2) factories to be kept free of all unnecessary inflammable material, to guard gas jets and other like maintenance requirements; (3) automatic sprinklers where manufacturing is carried on above the seventh floor so as to put out a fire in its incipiency.

In order to care for the escape of occupants in case of fire the bills provide for:

> (1) sufficient exits and of sufficient size and character to afford means of egress for all the occupants, the exit requirements being based on the number of occupants; (2) the safeguarding of exits by separating inclosures and other structural requirements; (3) preserving free means of access to all exits, both from every employe's station to the exit and from the exit to the street; (4) fire-alarm signal systems to apprise the occupants promptly of a fire; (5) periodical fire drills to familiarize employes with the location of exits and with the use of them. These provisions, if observed and enforced, will insure every factory building being readily emptied in case of fire.

Power to make further regulations to meet different situations as they arise is given to the Industrial Board. The commission has thus prepared a comprehensive plan which would seem to meet all the exigencies of the situation and to guard effectually against the danger from fire.

WORKING GIRLS NOT TO BLAME.

Too Tired to Seek Education in Night Schools.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In reply to the letter published in THE NEW YORK TIMES, stating that many working girls are unambitious, I would say that I do not believe it is true. I believe the reason why many girls do not attend evening classes and schools, and take advantage of other means of self-improvement offered to them, is because they are so physically and mentally tired after a long, hard day's work in office or shop that they have not the strength to devote their evenings to hard study. Furthermore, many of these girls must spend their evenings sewing for themselves, or caring for their families. Most of these girls have the natural desire for recreation and amusement, and if it is not possible for them to obtain it in the right way, they will take it in some other way, little realizing what the consequences may be.

There are a few girls who, possessing good health and strong wills, are able to work hard all day and still devote their evenings to study. But the majority of girls who work in office or shop have come into life physically, mentally, and morally handicapped. Most of them are underpaid and overworked, and insufficient food, lack of pleasant home conditions and opportunity for wholesome recreation render them incapable of rising, with conditions as they now are. If the department store, instead of paying salaries to teachers of these evening classes, would use this money for increase of wages of its employes, it would be doing far more for the uplift and advancement of the girls. Shorter hours and higher wages would mean greater efficiency in work rendered. It is justice, not charity, which is needed.

THE PROHIBITION AGITATORS

"Unwilling to Deprive Themselves," Says President Gilmore.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have just received a letter from the Hon. Fred. Zutavern, a member of the House of Representatives of the State of Kansas, and in this letter Mr. Zutavern informs me that the Committee on Temperance has killed his bill which provided a penalty for the purchase, possession, and use of alcoholic beverages in the prohibition State of Kansas.

Mr. Zutavern says that he had a hearing before the committee and advanced his ideas in behalf of the enactment of the law, but he says that the members did not want to prohibit themselves, and therefore killed the bill.

The fate of Mr. Zutavern's bill in Kansas is the fate that will be met by any similar measure in any other "dry" State. In this country there is a tremendous cry for prohibition parading as temperance, and as teetotalism, and as a fight on alcohol as a crime breeder, and as a source of practically all of the evils from which mankind suffers, and yet the whole cry for prohibition is found to emanate from those who are unwilling to deprive themselves of their right to drink wine, beer, and whisky.

NOT FLOUTING THE DEAD

But Dr. Maxwell Treats Them Unfairly, Dr. Wile Says.

The Board of Education,
New York, March 20, 1913.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

With respect to City Superintendent Maxwell's personal attack upon me in your columns, my training has been such as to make me realize that such attacks are not arguments. I only regret that Aristotle, Plato, and Socrates, who, Dr. Maxwell states, are of value in exposing sophistry and false conceptions, did not have sufficient influence to prevent the injection of personalities when the honest course demanded merely a discussion of the facts at issue.

Dr. Maxwell states, "whether they were asked for or not, the fact remains that many conferences between the Board of Education and the members of the Board of Superintendents have been held." Dr. Maxwell, however, produces no records from the minutes, to which he referred me, to show that the Committee on Studies has ever asked for or held a conference with the Board of Superintendents as such, nor indeed is it possible for him to produce such records. There may have been unofficial conferences between the members of the Board of Education and individual Superintendents, but there never has been a regular conference as indicated between the Committee on Studies and Textbooks and the Board of Superintendents—and on this point Mr. Maxwell's first statement conveyed to the public a false impression.

I cheerfully grant that the underlying pedagogical principles that were enunciated by Pestalozzi, Froebel, Spencer, Locke, Rousseau, Mann, Herbart, and many others still live, but appreciating their principles and applying them to the construction of a course of study in 1913 are different things. The principles of architecture, art, and science are constant, even though ever evolving to adapt themselves to modern needs; but the building of a Metropolitan Life or a Woolworth structure was not contemplated in the plans for the Parthenon.

It is unfair to the dead to cast the responsibility for a course of study, which an expert like Prof. McMurry states is twenty or thirty years behind the times, upon those who are not living in the flesh to defend themselves from the imputation. The responsibility for the present curriculum, ill-adapted as it is to the needs of New York school children, lies at the doors of the Board of Superintendents, despite the eternal principles that were advanced by the great philosophers, thinkers, and educators of the past.

In conclusion, I would say that my defense in response to an unsolicited attack has been solely for the purpose of giving honest information to the people of this city without any desire to make any plea in my own behalf.

STENOGRAPHERS AND SERVANTS

"Employer" Rebuked for Putting Them in One Class.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Through the medium of your paper may I inform "Employer" that I take exception to his classing "stenographers" with "servants"? His only excuse for so doing is that both words commence with the letter "s." I myself am a "stenographer," an educated woman, understanding my own language thoroughly and speaking and translating French and German. I know of many other "stenographers" who have been teachers and librarians, but who have changed their professions, owing on the one hand to the strain of teaching and disciplining overcrowded classes, and on the other to the very small salary paid by the New York Public Library to its assistants. These women, including others like myself, who have been obliged to take up the first occupation which would prove remunerative on account of the sudden death of the head of the house, are very far removed in position from "servants" and I think it would be wise for "Employer" to engage a higher class of "stenographer" than he appears to be accustomed to.

Possibly, however, he would not be willing to pay for high-class service and would prefer a "hungry" and "bedraggled" person who could not afford to object if he should keep his hat on his head or his feet on the table while dictating, not forgetting the cigar in his mouth.

STENOGRAPHER.

DR. BRODER MAKES DENIAL.

Word "Faker" Not Applied to Dr. Friedmann, He Says.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In view of the renewed publications of language attributed to me in connection with Dr. Friedmann's first visit to the People's Hospital, I wish to specifically deny that I used the terms "charlatan" or "faker" as applied to Dr. Friedmann, nor did I state, as appears in the press to-day, that "he did not even know how to use a hypodermic syringe."

I did and do condemn his unprofessional methods, including his refusal to make public his discovery, as medical ethics required him to do, and advertising himself with a press agent.

My criticisms did not go to the merits of his alleged discovery, for I had no facts before me.

Until he has proved the virtue of his remedy through tests made by the medical officers of the United States Government, I believe it to be the part of wisdom for the medical fraternity to refrain from giving him that professional recognition which they would have accorded him under other conditions.

I would be glad to make public my letter to Mr. Greenbaum, President of the People's Hospital, but as a matter of courtesy I refrain from so doing.

AN UNMARRIED WOMAN SPEAKS

Should a Wife Be Expected to Aid in the Family's Support?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Up to date I am a spinster. My training for life taught me that the man who wished me to be his wife would expect to make a home for me and our children, and that my business would be the making of that home a place of delight for us and our friends. If that prospect was not pleasant to me I was to say "No." If he were a man who expected his wife to support herself and him and their children or to aid in their support it would not speak well for the woman who should marry him. A dependent husband was a laughing stock, and no words were too strong to represent the feeling in our world for one who was willingly so. If disease or accident prevented his doing his duty, every one sympathized and helped, if possible, to prevent hardship.

I still have an old-fashioned preference for the man who likes a little privacy in his home life, and for the woman who likes seclusion when it can be had with honor, and I always coveted the position of a public school teacher, since it assures a sufficient income for an unmarried woman, and she need not marry unless from a high motive. Am I hopelessly passe?

THE PARDON LAWYER'S GAME.

Can His Activities Among Convicts Be Made Criminal?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Can it be possible, as we see stated occasionally in the papers, that there is no law in our State under which attempts to secure money from prisoners in order to obtain pardons for them is punishable? Is it possible that there are no provisions in our bribery laws that meet such crimes?

If our condition is really as defenseless as this in the light of such corruption, is it not possible that the interests of law and order can prevail upon the Legislature to make some special provision dealing with this crime? We have become so accustomed in our day to talk of graft as if it were a harmless thing that we are losing sight, I fear, of the words which really define these attacks upon social decency and honor.

NEW YORK'S "CLEAN-UP"

Doctor Who Helped Clean Cuba Draws a Contrast.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The United States Army at the time of the first intervention was in charge of all the sanitary work in the Island of Cuba. At that time experiments were being actively made in Havana as regards the transmission of yellow fever by means of the Stegomyia Calapus, or yellow fever mosquito. The findings of the Yellow Fever Commission had not yet been published. The many theories as to the cause of disease, some of these based on the idea that the collection of dirt and filth was its cause, had not been exploded when the medical officers of the army in connection with the Quartermaster's Department began the systematic "clean up" of a nation.

The Spanish Army had an utter disregard for general sanitation. The condition of the streets and public dumps was deplorable. Many of the towns could be detected by the odors from the streets quite some distance before arriving at them.

Active work was begun in conjunction with the house-to-house cleaning, of cleaning up all streets and removing all material outside of the city, where it was destroyed by fire. The dumps were discontinued in many instances and prohibited to be used. Later on, the principal streets in Havana were flushed out every night between the hours of 2 and 5 A. M., two squads of men working on a street, the first squad collecting all material from the street and placing it into wagons which followed, and the second squad with heavy brushes and the hydrants on, literally scoured the pavement, the result being that when the morning sun rose it shone on a town with streets as clean as the floors of your own home.

A code of sanitary laws was formulated at this time which were extremely rigid, and the enforcement of them was turned over to the Sanitary Department. In view of the fact that later great importance was attached to the propagation of the yellow fever mosquito, these laws were made especially binding, and they were rigidly enforced. The Platt amendment, which forms part of the Cuban Constitution, contains a clause which obliges the Cuban Nation to maintain itself in proper sanitary condition. The importance that the United States Government attaches to sanitary measures may be gathered from this fact.

In New York, however, the problem presents an entirely different aspect. Here no military intervention exists. The military orders, under the Cuban conditions, were law and could not be modified nor questioned, and had to be complied with. When we must work under a civil government, all the elements which go to form that civil government must be taken into account before a measure affecting the general public may be put into effect. The problem simplifies itself as we ascend in the scale of general public education until we arrive at a point where civic education has become so far advanced that radical laws compelling the public to observe sanitary laws are no longer necessary, and the different civic elements take it upon themselves to comply with the law voluntarily.

Such is the conditon that we find in New York to-day. Commissioner Lederle has come forward as the champion of the public health and ordered a general cleaning up of this city. He has reckoned that "uncleanliness is the deadliest of our removable causes of disease." In order, however, to make this movement a success, the civic elements which compose the population of this city must co-operate. Commissioner Lederle has invited the different organizations interested in matters of a sanitary import to lend their aid by distributing literature and explaining to the public the object for and the necessity of practicing general cleanliness.

But this is by no means the only way that these associations may do a great public service. They can require the stores where they trade to handle their goods in a cleanly manner. They can insist on the proper covering of foods. They can impress upon the minds of those they come in contact with the necessity of doing away with the spitting nuisance. They can hold meetings and give lectures on the proper way to live, and impress upon the minds of the public the absolute necessity of disposing of all refuse matter and cleaning up each individual house, yard, cellar, and roof in this city. This educational campaign means even more than the actual removal at one time of this material, for sanitary education assures in the end permanent public cleanliness. The throwing of refuse in the streets of New York is a disgrace to any civilized nation and should be stopped once and for all. Violations of the existing city ordinances regarding the throwing of refuse in our public thoroughfares should be drastically punished.

The different organizations which have been invited to co-operate have responded enthusiastically. The enormous moral force which these organization wield, and which is being directed along lines which will be most efficient in placing our city in a more beautiful condition than ever before, speaks well for our general education and proves once again that New York may well be looked to to set the pace, not only in a commercial way, but for sanitary advancement.

False Financial Rumors.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In regard to the Wall Street scare the other day, that the Government would bring suit against the American Smelters Company, which was subsequently denied by the Attorney General, would it not be the business of the New York Stock and Consolidated Exchanges to investigate who is the author of such reports and take measures to make such offenses punishable by fine or imprisonment? Many a man was forced out of the market on the rumors and suffered great financial loss, besides its causing a lot of worriment. The telegraph companies could assist in tracing who circulates this false news. It is just such business that makes people afraid to deal in the market and lose confidence in the Exchanges, which could do a great deal to remedy such evils.

EX-GOV. BLACK DIES AT HIS TROY HOME

Former State Executive, Taken Ill Several Days Ago, Had Been Unconscious for Hours.

AN "ACCIDENT" IN POLITICS

But His Brief Career Was Picturesque—Made Memorable Fight for Renomination.

TROY, N. Y., Saturday, March 22.—Ex-Gov. Frank S. Black died at his home here just before 1 o'clock this morning of valvular disease of the heart.

The former Executive had been very ill for several days. For the last thirty-six hours he had been unconscious, being kept alive only by the use of oxygen.

Mr. Black had been a sufferer from heart disease for many years, although it was not thought serious until several months ago. He first discovered that he had a weak heart when he was walking up the Capitol steps one day while he was Governor.

A widow and one son, Arthur, survive him.

Gov. Black's Career.

Frank Swett Black has been described as the most successful "accident" of any man prominent in public and professional life in this State in the past two decades. His election as Governor of New York in 1896, succeeding Gov. Morton, was mildly accidental. He never cared for politics; entered it through circumstance, and got out as quickly as possible.

Gov. Black was tall and lank of figure, and his thin smooth-shaven face was of serious mien. He was one of eleven children born to Jacob Black, a farmer with lean acres near Limington, York County, Me., and Charlotte B. Black. As a boy he had made up his mind to become a lawyer, and this, together with his homely appearance, deliberateness but directness of speech, and crude ability as an orator, gained him the nickname of "Judge" even before he knew the definition of a brief.

Born on March 8, 1853, he lived the life of a toil-driven country boy until he taught his first school at the age of 17. With the money earned thus he entered Dartmouth College with the class of 1875. He was an honor man at commencement.

He went from college to Johnstown, Fulton County, N. Y., where he got a job as editor of The Johnstown Journal. Young Black believed at that time that the Maine statesman, James G. Blaine, was the greatest living man. When the proprietor of The Journal was out of town Black overturned the political policy of the paper and committed it to Blaine. Black was dismissed promptly for this. He left town to work his way East, and tarried in Troy because he liked the looks of the place.

His first work in Troy was on The Troy Whig and later on The Troy Times. At this time Mr. Black got his first insight into politics. It was Rensselaer County Republican politics, but the field was large. In the meantime Mr. Black had been admitted to the bar. The Democrats of the county had been victorious for many years under the leadership of United States Senator Edward Murphy, Jr. Mr. Black formed an alliance with a number of independent voters with the result that he became practically Republican leader of the county. From then on his rise in politics was rapid. He had formed a law partnership and had been on the stump in the Presidential campaigns of 1888 and 1892. In 1894 he was nominated for Congress by acclamation and he was swept into office by the tidal wave of that year, defeating Charles D. Haines, his Democratic opponent. It was in an election riot of that year that "Bat" Shea killed Robert Ross and Black helped to prosecute Shea. He became President of a Committee of Safety and waged warfare against the political system whose activities had made rioting a feature in all elections in that city.

Mr. Black always attended State conventions as a delegate and acted with the regular organization. He was a friend of Louis F. Payn, the Republican boss of Columbia County, and also of Thomas C. Platt, the Republican boss in the State. It was Payn who brought about the nomination of Black for Governor in 1896. At a conference in the Worden Hotel, Saratoga Springs, it had been decided that Benjamin B. Odell, Jr., should be the candidate of the convention. Payn and Platt had a memorable conference on that night, Payn all the time insisting that Black should be the candidate.

"I have never asked you for anything in my life," said Payn, "but I ask you for this nomination for Black. He will make a great Governor."

So the slate was upset at the last moment and Black's name went before the convention and he was nominated.

Black was elected succeeding Levi P. Morton, who declined a renomination. As soon as he was elected, Black decided upon appointing Payn to the important office of State Superintendent of Insurance. There was an outcry from one end of the State to the other, even Republicans joining in. All sorts of appeals were made to Black to change his mind. But Black was adamant and the appointment was made.

One political incident in which Black figured was the agreement which Platt made with Richard Croker to have a legislative bill passed that would prohibit the publishing of cartoons by newspapers of the State.

Black took a firm stand against the bill and Platt became very angry. In fact that was the beginning of the trouble between the two which culminated in 1898. In that year Platt, determined to get even with Black, planned to have Theodore Roosevelt selected as the candidate for Governor. He sent word to Black that if the latter would support Roosevelt's nomination he would be sent to the United States Senate to succeed Edward Murphy, Jr., of Troy. But Black refused and took personal charge of his forces at the Saratoga convention. About 300 delegates out of 1,000 stood by him to the last. In the campaign that followed, it was freely charged that Black and his friends were not supporting Roosevelt. The result seemed to prove it, for Roosevelt squeezed in with a bare 17,000 plurality as against over 212,000 for Black two years before.

Black and Roosevelt were not on a very friendly footing thereafter until 1904, when the fight was made against nominating Roosevelt for the Presidency. Roosevelt's friends implored Black to make the nominating speech at Chicago, and Black did so. Following Roosevelt's election in 1904 a campaign was started to make Black United States Senator. Benjamin B. Odell, Jr., threw in his support, but after Black insisted he did not want the office Odell withdrew and supported Chauncey M. Depew. It was well known, however, that Black never became thoroughly reconciled with Roosevelt. Black in 1907 at Concord, N. H., made his famous "man on the barrel head speech." In this speech he said:

"Keep your eye fixed on him, who in all ages has been the people's seducer and their enemy, the man exhorting the crowd from the head of a barrel.

"His cry is not justice but popularity, not fair play but power. He acts not to command respect, but to draw the crowd. There is only one test of right and wrong for him, viz.: What does the majority want? No matter what may come to-morrow if he can be cheered to-day."

By easy stages after that Black dropped out of political life. He relinquished the helm as Republican leader of Rensselaer County and devoted himself entirely to his law practice. In his career he had many important law cases in both civil and criminal practice. At one time he defended Roland B. Molineaux. Just before his retirement he would not take a case unless there was a large fee attached. In the Spring of 1912 he announced that he had amassed a fortune of $500,000, which was ample to keep him for the remainder of his life, and that on his sixtieth birthday he would retire. In 1898 Mr. Black married a daughter of Dr. Hamilton of Provincetown, Mass.

'THE VAGABONDS' PRODUCED.

Director Christian's First Production in Irving Place a Success.

Wilhelm Schmidt-Bonn's three-act play "Mütter Landstrasse" ("The Vagabonds") was presented for the first time at the Irving Place Theatre last night as the first production under the new Director, Rudolf Christians, who succeeds the late Dr. Baumfeld. It proved to be rather a grim comedy of Bavarian hill life, which told how a prodigal son, seeking to return home, fared at the hands of an almost unbelievably relentless father. The most the stern parent would do was to take into his house the boy's wife and son, whom he had never seen.

In the last act the son, who had been told by an itinerant violin player that the highway was the only true mother, left his wife and child sleeping and stole away to become a vagabond as he suddenly heard the strains of the spielman's violin. The father repented for a moment, but it was too late.

Otto Stoeckel had the principal part of the vagabond son, and was very successful. Heinrich Marlow was secondary only in slight degree as the father, and conveyed admirably the relentless obstinacy of the old man whose passion for convention had been outraged. Director Christians appeared in the short part of the spielmann, and Mathilde Brandt, the guest star of the organization, was admirable as the wife of the old man. Others who appeared were Annie Rub-Forster, Max Jurgens, Christian Rub, Cenci Goetzer, and Heinrich Falk.

WALLACK'S TO CUT PRICES.

Most of Its Orchestra Seats Will Be $1 When "Ann Boyd" Is Put On.

When Wallack's Theatre opens on March 31 with the dramatization of Will N. Harben's novel, "Ann Boyd," starring Nance O'Neill, the prices for the first time at Wallack's will be lower than those prevailing at Broadway Theatres.

Manager Burnham says that the move is made to meet the tendency which he recognizes to exist among theatregoers toward favoring lower prices for their amusements. With the exception of some of the front rows, the orchestra seats will be sold at $1. The balcony will range from that price to 50 cents, and the whole gallery will be sold at 25 cents a seat.

MUSIC NOTES.

The Jewish Philharmonic Society, conducted by Max Margolis, will give a concert at Carnegie Hall next Monday evening. Cantor Sirota, and Sara Gurewitch, 'cellist, will be the soloists.

A testimonial concert to commemorate the twenty-fifth anniversary of Philip Hauser as organist of the East Sixty-eighth Street Reformed Church, near First Avenue, will be given at the church next Friday evening. There will be a miscellaneous programme, and Joseph Barnby's cantata, "The Lord is King," will be performed.

TO AID SYDENHAM HOSPITAL.

Lee Shubert Gives Benefit Performance at the Lyric To-morrow Night.

Lee Shubert, in memory of his brother Sam Shubert, will give a benefit for Sydenham Hospital, at the Lyric Theatre, to-morrow night. Some of the best known stars of the Shubert theatres have volunteered their services, and a long programme has been arranged.

The proceeds, which are expected to reach nearly $20,000, will go toward the new hospital, which will be started some time in June. Already more than $10,000 has been subscribed. Joseph P. Day, President of the hospital, paid $2,000 for a box which he and his family will occupy.

Other patronesses are Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Guggenheim, Mrs. Frances Cohen, Mrs. A. Gilbert, William H. Fletcher, Judge Otto A. Rosalsky, A. Kempner, S. Frankelstein, Sanford Simons, Mrs. Emma Rosenthal, B. Hirsch, and Dr. and Mrs. Edward L. Spitzer.

SINGER CHARMS EDISON.

Miss Linnie Lucile Love Sings to the Inventor at His Home.

Thomas A. Edison declared as "unusually clear and even for reproduction and almost perfect in modulation" the voice of 18-year-old Linnie Lucile Love, when the young woman, who appears in "Romance" at the Maxine Elliott Theatre, sang before him yesterday at his residence in Orange, N. J.

The girl was blind when she came to New York from Seattle, Wash., two years ago, but has had the sight in her right eye restored. Despite her many difficulties, she has made rapid strides in music.

MISS BENSON WEDS APRIL 15.

Bishop Burgess Will Officiate at Her Marriage to Montague Flagg.

Miss Thyrza Benson, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sherman Benson and granddaughter of the late Robert Hoe, and Montague Flagg of New York, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Noel Flagg of Hartford, Conn., are to be married on Tuesday, April 15, in Grace Church, Brooklyn Heights. Bishop Burgess will officate, assisted by the Rev. Dr. C. F. J. Wrigley, the rector.

The bride will be unattended. Charles Noel Flagg, Jr., will be his brother's best man, and the ushers will be Philip S. Wainwright of Hartford, Alfred G. Kellogg of Brookline, Mass.; Henry A. Rapelye of Pittsburgh, Thomas Atherton of Wilkesbarre, Channing Turner of Chicago, and George E. Hite, Jr.

Miss Anne Rogers to Wed.

Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Rogers of 35 West Fifty-third St. and of Hyde Park, N. Y., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Anne Pendleton Rogers, to J. Griswold Webb, son of the late H. Walter Webb of this city. Miss Rogers, who is very popular in society, is a sister of Mrs. Kenneth B. Schley of 845 Fifth Avenue. Mr. Webb is a senior at Harvard, and is a member of the Automobile Club of America. No date has been set for the wedding.

Dr. Julia Sears Gives Easter Address.

Dr. Julia Seton Sears, founder of the New Thought Church, will conduct the regular Sunday service at the Republic Theatre to-morrow morning. "The Risen Christ" will be the subject of her address.

WILL RENDER IRISH MUSIC.

Gaelic Society Holds Its Annual Festival To-morrow Night.

The thirty-fifth annual Feis Ceoil agus Seanachas, or Musical and Literary Festival of the Gaelic Society, will take place at Carnegie Hall to-morrow evening. Victor Herbert, a grandson of Samuel Lover, the Irish poet, will direct the festival, and his orchestra will render Irish selections, including his "Irish Rhapsody," dedicated to the society, and will give for the first time a clan march by Swan Hennessy. Miss Idelle Patterson will sing Irish songs.

Dr. Joseph Dunn, Professor of Gaelic Studies at the Catholic University, Washington, will describe at the "Seanachas," or literary part of the entertainment, the Gaelic epic "Tain Bo Chuailgne," or "Cattle Raid of Cooley," which he has recently translated.

TALK OF VAUDEVILLE WAR.

United Booking Offices and the Hammersteins May Clash.

There was a rumor about Broadway last night that when the new Palace Theatre opened its doors on Monday it would usher in a situation of strained relations between Oscar and William Hammerstein, who have an exclusive franchise for vaudeville in the Times Square section at their theatre, the Victoria, and the United Booking Offices.

The report had it that the Hammersteins would seek an injunction against the United Booking Offices, restraining them from supplying acts to the Palace, aside from any question that might be raised about the ownership of that house or its control. Neither of the Hammersteins would discuss the matter last night, but it is not generally credited that they believe they have legal redress in the matter.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"The Yellow Jacket" will be the next American play to be produced in London. It will be given next Thursday night at Charles Frohman's Duke of York's Theatre.

Following the engagement of "The Beggar Student," which opens to-night at the Casino, it is announced that the Gilbert and Sullivan Opera Company will revive its former offerings by the librettist and composer whose names it bears.

Virginia Harned has been engaged by Daniel Frohman to appear at once for the Famous Players' Film Company in a moving picture version of "Trilby," in which she originated the title part.

"Romance" will be given for the fiftieth time at Maxine Elliott's Theatre to-night. Last night Geraldine Farrar and Lucrezia Bori were hostesses at box parties to see the play.

Julia Sanderson will introduce a new song in "The Sunshine Girl" at the Knickerbocker Theatre Monday night called "Rambling Through Honeymoon Lane."

Two hundred members of the Presbyterian Ministers' Association of the metropolitan district will attend the Kinemacolor exhibition at Carnegie Lyceum next Monday afternoon.

Col. William F. Cody ("Buffalo Bill") and Major Burke attended last night's performance at the Hippodrome.

THINKS EYELESS FISH PROVE SECOND SIGHT

Harry Trippett, Who Was Hanged in Previous Existence, Offers New Theory.

DUE TO PITUITARY GLAND

Montclair Town Clerk Proposes to Demonstrate Sixth-Sense Ideas for Board of Health.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., March 21.—Eyeless fish from the Mammoth Cave in Kentucky will be dissected by Harry Trippett, Town Clerk of Montclair, at a meeting of the Montclair Board of Health, which will be attended by several doctors. Mr. Trippett has arranged the meeting to demonstrate to scoffers his belief in the existence of "second sight," as advanced in his book, "The Door Without a Knob," the publication of which has caused a stir here. In it Mr. Trippett recorded his belief of his existence on this earth at two periods previous to his present life.

The pituitary gland, Mr. Trippett said to-day, is responsible for the existence of a sixth sense in some people which he believes exists more or less in every human being. In every animal having eyes there is a small gland situated at the point where the nerves from the two eyes cross one another. Some persons, according to Mr. Trippett, have unusually large pituitary glands, and to these individuals, he says, is given the power of "second sight," which is called clairvoyance by some.

Mr. Trippett says that the eyeless fish of the Mammoth Cave have this pituitary gland in a highly developed form. Through the United States Government, after much difficulty, he obtained two of these eyeless fish, and dissected them to confirm his belief that the large pituitary body of the fish was responsible for their powers of perception under physical handicap. He dissected the brains of the fish, and found that, as he expected, the pituitary gland was highly developed.

Apparently, he says, these eyeless fish, through the power of the large pituitary body in their brains, are enabled to see without the usual optical organs.

Among specific instances of second sight that Mr. Trippett attributes to the presence of a highly developed pituitary gland is that which involved the late Judge Wilgerard and his wife of this town. Judge Wilgerard received a box of cigars from a young man named William Maxwell. The gift had no marks to indicate where it had come from except the young man's name. Maxwell's family were very eager to find him, as he had been absent from home for several years. Mrs. Wilgerard took the box in her hand, and concentrating her mind on the object, experienced a vision which showed her that Maxwell had married and was living on a plantation in Virginia. Afterward, when Maxwell was communicated with, he said that his environment as described by Mrs. Wilgerard at the moment of her vision was the same in every detail as it actually existed.

Mr. Trippett explains in reference to the dream in which his former existences and his hanging for murder were revealed that he believes it is quite as possible to-day to receive information in dreams and by revelations as it was in olden times, providing people show a willingness to follow the truth when they receive it.

While there are many persons in Montclair who scoff at Mr. Trippett's beliefs and theories regarding occultism, he advances his arguments with much logic. He believes that his forthcoming demonstration before the Board of Health and the doctors of Montclair of the highly developed pituitary gland of the eyeless fish will be productive of the dissemination of more knowledge about that little-known but wonderfully important detail of the human makeup. He believes also that its study by scientists and surgeons and the sympathetic interpretation of the results of these investigations by the human race will bring about a greater spirituality in the world.

BURY MAGISTRATE O'CONNOR.

City Magistrates Are Pallbearers at Funeral of Their Colleague.

The funeral of Magistrate Keyran J. O'Connor, who died suddenly of heart failure on Monday, was held yesterday at the Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, East 115th Street. The Board of City Magistrates acted as honorary pall bearers, and a guard of honor was supplied by 300 members of the Pocassett Club, the Tammany organization of the Twenty-eighth District, of which the Magistrate was a member.

As a token of respect Chief Magistrate McAdoo ordered all Magistrates' Courts to adjourn yesterday.

STATE PENSION FOR PILSON.

Half Pay for City Employe in Yonkers Who Has Served for 50 Years.

Under the provisions of the bill signed by Gov. Sulzer yesterday, George Pilson, who has served the City of Yonkers continuously for fifty years, is to be retired on half pay. Pilson is the only city employe at the present time qualified by length of service to enjoy the benefit of the act. He has been employed as fumigator in the Health Bureau.

Though nearly 80 years old, he is active every day, and he does not seek to be retired, but grateful city officials feel that he has earned the reward of a pension.

Old-time citizens recall that when Yonkers was scourged with an epidemic of smallpox, Pilson was the only one to be found who would venture near the dead bodies of victims, and he prepared for burial and interred many bodies. He has never contracted a contagious disease in all his years of service.

Pilson boasts of being the only survivor of the John Brown raid at Harper's Ferry. He was working in Yonkers for old Elisha Otis, inventor of the Otis elevator, when he decided to join Brown's forces.

Marriage and death notices intended for insertion in The New York Times may be telephoned to 1000 Bryant.

SOUTHERN TO HOLD THE CENTRAL PACIFIC

New Dissolution Plan Will Avoid Necessity of Getting Approval in California.

TO OBTAIN NEW CHARTER

It Is to Permit the Southern to Buy Back Its Stock Now Held by the Union Pacific.

When the next dissolution plan for the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific system is broached it will be so framed that it will not come under review by the California Railroad Commission, if the lines now being followed are worked out. It was the California board's opposition to features connected with the Central Pacific which caused the overthrow of the original and amended plans for separating the two companies.

The Directors of the two roads are now going on the assumption that the new Attorney General will not insist that the Southern Pacific Company sell the Central Pacific. This is the line connecting the Union Pacific, from its terminus at Ogden, with the coast. Attorney General Wickersham held that there should be competition between the Central and Southern Pacific, as well as between Union and Southern, and intimated that unless the dissolution plan included arrangements for transferring the Central to Union he would bring fresh proceedings to force Southern Pacific to sell Central Pacific.

It is now proposed to work out a plan along much simpler lines than those which were followed in the original agreement. The Central Pacific will be retained by Southern Pacific, as at present, unless the Attorney General holds that this will not effect a real separation. This will at once do away with many complications which have arisen, including the removal of all grounds for objection by the California board.

The plan now under consideration also solves another great difficulty in connection with the sale of the $126,650,000 of Southern Pacific stock now in the Union Pacific's treasury.

Under its charter the Southern Pacific Company is not allowed to deal in its own shares. It is proposed to have the charter amended so that the Southern Pacific will be able to buy a large proportion of its stock now held by Union Pacific. This will make it a relatively easy matter to market the remaining shares. It is also intended to have the Southern Pacific's by-laws amended so as to consitute a smaller number of shareholders as a quorum. With the Union Pacific shares enjoined from voting, it would be necessary to get practically every share of Southern Pacific stock outstanding in order to make any action effective.

With the Central Pacific in the hands of Southern Pacific it will be an easy matter to arrange traffic agreements with Union Pacific. Under the grant by Congress permitting the construction of Central Pacific it was provided specifically that the latter must furnish traffic facilities with Union Pacific.

STERLING OFFICERS IN COURT

Edwards and Platt Give Bail to Appear in Boston.

W. S. Edwards, who was the Treasurer, and Henry H. Platt, who was the Assistant Treasurer, of the Sterling Debenture Company, the offices of which in East Sixteenth Street were raided by the Post Office Inspectors for their sales of stock, were brought before Commissioner Shields yesterday in removal proceedings. They have been indicted by the Federal Grand Jury in Boston with Frank E. Winchell, President and General Manager of the Oxford Linen Mills at North Brookfield, Mass., and with Harold A. Foster, Postmaster at North Brookfield, on the charge of having conspired to defraud the Government.

Foster, as Postmaster, received $2,000 a year, and it is charged that in order to increase his salary, which was calculated on the business of his office, he and his associates conspired to purchase large numbers of stamps at North Brookfield for use by the Sterling Debenture Company in this city. On one occasion the indictment charges the defendants thus purchased $200 worth of stamps from Foster. Both Platt and Edwards waived examination and were held in $1,500 bail for their appearance in the Boston Federal Court to plead.

Platt is a brother-in-law of Winchell, and Edwards, who is said once to have held the record for the quarter mile, is a graduate of Columbia and a Captain in the Twenty-second Regiment of Engineers of the National Guard.

WOODHAVEN BANK DIVIDEND.

Wrecked Institution's Depositors to Get 75 Per Cent. First Payment.

Special to The New York Times.

WOOD HAVEN, L. I., March 21.—Daniel W. Quinn, Deputy State Superintendent of Banks, who has been in charge of the liquidation of the Woodhaven Bank since it closed several months ago, following a run, during the absence of its President, William F. Wyckoff, announced yesterday that within three weeks he would be ready to pay a first dividend to all depositors who had filed claims against the institution.

The dividend will amount to 75 per cent. of their deposits, and $450,000 will be paid out. More than 2,300 depositors will participate in the dividend. Five hundred others who have failed to file claims will not. The accounts of the depositors range from 24 cents to $5,000.

$3,250,000 CHECK UNCLAIMED

Italian Officer Supposed to Have Lost It Not Yet Located.

PARIS, March 21.—The mystery of the check for 13,000,000 marks ($3,250,000) drawn by a Berlin bank on the Bank of Italy at Rome, which was found last night on the Nord Express in a satchel which also contained a passport bearing the name of Commander Arizzo Rossi, still remains unsolved, despite the efforts of the police to locate its owner.

The Italian Embassy says it is unable to explain the mystery. It was declared there to-day that Commander Rossi could have no motive in passing through Paris to go to Berlin from Rome. It was also said that the embassy had no knowledge of Commander Rossi being on a special mission.

These figures exclude Panama Canal and public debt transactions.

The condition of the United States Treasury at the beginning of business to-day was: Working balance, $81,799,636; in banks and Philippine Treasury, $42,640,657. Total of the general fund, $149,605,442.

BUSINESS ON THE MEND.

Mercantile Trade Reports Favorable, Despite Weather Conditions.

General business during the week showed a substantial improvement over the week before, reports to the mercantile agencies go to show, although adverse weather conditions and labor troubles caused some recession at a few trade centres. Dun's Review says:

> The distinguishing features of the iron and steel trade are the heavy purchases by the railroads and implement makers. Textile manufacturers are busy with advance orders that will keep their shops running for some time. Dry goods distribution is, however, experiencing the slowing down usual at this period of the year. There is a seasonable quietness in the shoe trade, but purchases for Fall requirements are expected to begin in April. Outside of some reports of dust storms in Kansas, Winter wheat conditions are regarded as exceedingly bright. February exports of breadstuffs amounted to $18,676,857, an increase of $8,631,213, but there was a large decrease in cotton exports. Bank clearings this week showed a loss of 1.9 per cent., as compared with last year, but a gain of 14.7 per cent. over 1911. Railroad earnings in the first two weeks of March gained 7.2 per cent.
> Buying of iron and steel has taken on new life, although demands are still below shipments from the mills. New business keeps up surprisingly well in view of the remarkable records of recent months, and railroad requirements continue a prominent feature, an order for 45,000 tons of Bessemer rails being reported in the Chicago district. Other equipment is also in brisk request, particularly spikes and track bolts, and much bridge work is contemplated.

Bradstreet's says:

> Though wholesale trade reports are inclined to manifest more or less irregularity, due principally to financial factors, retail trade has expanded in a rather noteworthy way, and jobbing lines, which are somewhat quiet in the Eastern and Southeastern parts of the country, maintain a satisfactory pace in most other sections. Demand for Easter articles has superinduced relatively brisk movements from the counters of final distributors and jobbers, where favorably circumstanced, note that orders for staples continue of comparatively good volume, demand being mostly for near-by shipment. However, the strain in money matters, combined with prospective tariff changes, tends to make for conservatism in placing future orders. Consumption appears to be of large proportions, and, while numerous strikes are being waged throughout the country, industrial operations are such as to afford widespread employment. Soil conditions as a whole are favorable, Winter wheat prospects are good, and farmers are going forward with preparations for the ensuing season. Allowing for the reservations noted as to trade in the comparatively backward zones, there is a good demand for dry goods, men's furnishings, shoes, hardware, builders' materials, paints and oils, lumber, harness, groceries, drugs, seeds, and farm machinery.

WILL BUILD RUBBER FACTORY

Chance for Builders and Machinery Men on Brazil Contract.

United States Consul G. H. Pickerell, stationed at Para, Brazil, has received a cable from Rio de Janeiro telling him that the Brazilian Government has awarded to the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company of South America the contract for the erection and establishment of a complete rubber manufacturing plant in the Brazilian capital, and the erection of a rubber washing plant in the City of Manaos.

The details of the award are not known, but it is presumed that they are in accord with decree 9,521, dated April 17, 1912. The company will have to buy a large amount of machinery and building material at once, as the buildings must be erected and the plant must be running one year from the date of signing the final contract. Those in position to supply this material, according to Mr. Pickerell, should direct their correspondence to the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio, as this company is, no doubt, now able to furnish specifications.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Antique Furniture Gains Free Entry —Rye Bread at Lower Duty.

The Board of United States General Appraisers, yesterday sustained a protest by Kronfeld, Saunders & Co., who asked free entry for antiques, consisting of carved vases, old English earthenware, writing desks, and walnut tables. Collector Loeb assessed them under various paragraphs of the Act of 1909. The goods were shown to be more than 100 years old.

The Board declined to reverse the Collector at San Juan, Porto Rico, in his assessment on roofing tiles, returned at four cents per square foot under paragraph 85 of the present law. The importers asked 25 per cent. ad valorem under paragraph 87 or 94, or 35 per cent. under paragraph 97. Judge McClelland decided.

Collector Loeb's assessement under the present law of 50 per cent. on rye bread imported by John Aspegren was reversed. The collector based his action on the ground that the bread was sweetened within the meaning of paragraph 244. The importer asked entry at 20 per cent. under the same paragraph as "unsweetened." Judge Waite found the conflicting evidence as a whole to favor the importer.

Olives packed in casks were held properly assessed under Paragraph 275, Act of 1909. The importers included Austin Nichols & Co., D. Marinakis, F. H. Leggett & Co., the Coumonlos & Rarathyris Co., F. Cusimano, and Ely N. Sonnenstrahl.

RAILROADS ANSWER FIREMEN'S DEMANDS

Chairman of Managers Tells Arbitrators Companies Are Harassed by Exactions.

UNCERTAIN AS TO POLICY

Men in Charge of Firemen Say Mechanical Stokers Lighten Their Work and That Pay Is Sufficient.

Elisha Lee, Chairman of the Conference Committee of Managers, opened the case for the railroads in the firemen's wage arbitration at the Waldorf yesterday. Mr. Lee pointed out the heavy expenses to which the roads are being put for other purposes than labor, as well as the constant increase in wages, and said they could not submit to extravagant demends in justice to their stockholders or to the public, which eventually had to pay them.

"The railways appear before this tribunal," said Mr. Lee, "as institutions built up by the investment of private capital, and yet unable to control the price at which they may sell their transportation, to produce which is the purpose of their existence. We believe that it is wise and in the public interest that the people should, through properly constituted commissions, protect themselves against unreasonable or discriminatory charges or practices by public utilities.

"But the railroads constitute institutions which not only cannot control the price of their product, but they have not the privilege of getting, in the cheapest market, the labor with which that product is largely manufactured. They can neither utilize the most favorable market, nor can they refuse to buy.

"They must keep the transportation machine moving. The public has given unmistakable evidence of a disposition highly to disapprove of any interference with railroad operation no matter by whom caused. It was in recognition of our responsibility to this public that we consented to abide the arbitrament of this board.

"Railway employes have come to know that a strike which would tie up traffic is well nigh unthinkable. They know that if a strike doesn't take place the railways must give way. The men make large demands upon railway managers, not expecting those demands to be granted, but believing that arbitration must take place, and that in the end the splitting of the difference between what they demand and what the railways offer will result in their favor.

"There was originally a virtual equilibrium in the wage payments of this country. Railways west of the Mississippi paid higher wages because labor was scarcer in that territory, and the cost and conditions of living were less favorable. There was a similar differential in favor of Southern roads.

"The plan of labor leaders has been to get the roads paying lower wages to increase them, then apply pressure to those paying higher wages to re-establish the previous differential. Step by step the campaign has proceeded. Thus, to-day, the railways are face to face with large demands from their trainmen.

"We are likewise confronted with constantly increasing demands through mandatory legislation. The State of New Jersey has just enacted into law a bill placing it within the power of the Board of Public Utility Commissioners of that State to designate grade crossings which should be removed and that upon the railways shall fall the entire burden of cost of such removal. The President of the Pennslvania Railroad has stated publicly that to remove all grade crossings remaining on the road alone would cost his company $60,000,000. There is thus created a constant menace to the revenues of all railroads.

"The State of Pennsylvania has passed an extra crew bill, which has already cost the Pennsylvania Railroad more than $800,000. Similar measures arbitrarily burdening the roads with unnecessary expenditures are pending in New York and New Jersey. The New York Central Railroad estimates that the cost to them—and the waste to the public—of the extra crew bill now pending in New York will be more than $700,000 a year.

"The purpose of these citations is to put before this tribunal something of the state of mind and the feeling of uncertainty of railway managers in their dealing with their labor. We are unable to deal with these questions with that confidence in the result, with that ability and freedom to recognize in every class of labor whatever just claim it may have upon our revenues. Such unexpected, such burdensome, such unprecedented and unforeseeable exactions as we are now faced with make it impossible for us to approach the subject with any feeling that past experience or even current statistics can guide us with any accuracy to a proper solution of these problems.

"In the presentation which the railways will make to this court, therefore, we shall ask you to bear in mind these somewhat intangible but nevertheless essential elements in the situation. All the roads concerned in this movement do not plead poverty or impending bankruptcy as a reason why even the whole of the demands of the firemen should not be granted. The basis of our contention, the theory which has pervaded all our negotiations, is this:

"Appreciating our responsibility to the public to provide an adequate and efficient transportation machine, menaced upon every side with growing burdens making it constantly more difficult for us to obtain adequate capital with which to finance needed improvements, unable to estimate either our revenues or upon what basis of cost we shall be permitted to earn them, we have felt it our duty not only to our shareholders, but to the public whom it is our duty to serve, to resist to the breaking point those demands of labor which we believe are extravagant and entirely out of accord with our obligations as a whole.

"We now propose to show that these men are to-day well paid for the services performed, and the rules and working conditions are such that they do not require the radical changes requested."

Mr. Lee's first witnesses were men who had risen through the grades of fireman and engineer in recent years to having charge of these employes. These were William Holbrook, road foreman of engines on the Pennsylvania Lines west of Pittsburgh; H. B. De Salis, chief foreman of engines on the Western Division of the New York Central, and E. Merkle, road foreman of engines on the Cumberland Division of the Baltimore & Ohio.

Each denied that mechanical stokers had been a failure, and asserted that so far as they had been introduced they had greatly lightened the work of firemen. Their use is of very recent date, and only a few of the engines on any road are so equipped, but on some roads, at least, their use is being rapidly extended. The reduction in labor they involve is urged as an offset against the increase in coal shoveling that has followed the introduction of heavier engines, pulling heavier trains. Some of the witnesses for the men had said that the mechanical stokers had been tried on their roads, but hadn't worked. Mr. Holbrook said he had found the mechanical stoker a great help to the fireman.

"The only work he has to do," he said, "is to regulate the stoker by a valve from his seat in the cab. The only coal he has to put in is in building the fire at the terminal, say 500 pounds. The fire must be burning well in all parts of the firebox, as the stoker distributes the coal evenly over the surface. If one part of the surface is not burning well, the coal will pile up there. The fireman, however, has to do the same work in building a fire before starting with any kind of engine."

"Have you found that one of these stokers will work continuously—that a run can be made without their getting out of order?"

"I have found they worked well. One fireman on my division made fifty consecutive trips without having to put coal in the firebox."

When a stoker does get out of order, the witness said, the fireman has to shovel coal the same as on any other engine, and on cross-examination he admitted that in that case the fireman has more work to do than on other engines. He would not admit, though, that the work of a fireman had been increased by the use of larger engines. While he had to handle more coal, the big engine was a better steamer and required less attention, the witness asserted.

"Considering the fact," asked W. S. Carter, President of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, "that all the mechanical officials who have expressed themselves have said they believed the firemen should have some relief, don't you think they are entitled to an increase of wages?"

"I think our rates are very fair and just at the present time," was the answer.

Mr. De Salis said the work of firemen had been reduced rather than increased for the same class of engine in recent years. His road furnished coal shovelers to help the firemen at certain points, and on the hardest runs assistant firemen were put on for part of the way.

Mr. Merkle said his road was having no trouble now with the mechanical stokers. At first they were not adjusted to the right size of coal, and the men were not familiar with their operation, but they were now entirely satisfactory, he asserted.

The hearing will go on to-day.

TO AVERT RAILWAY STRIKES.

Business Railway Association Wants Erdman Act Strengthened.

Urging immediate action by Congress to protect the country from a general railway strike, the Railway Business Association, the National organization of manufacturers of railway equipment, material and supplies, has issued a bulletin which advocates the strengthening of the machinery for Federal arbitration of labor disputes, especially in view of the fact that Eastern conductors and trainmen are to press demands for increased pay after the firemen's case is settled.

"The Erdman act," says the bulletin, "through which until recently strikes causing interruption to train service have been almost wholly prevented, has all but broken down at the point where, mediation failing, arbitration was attempted in the large-scale disputes involving many roads at once." The act, it is urged, "should be amended forthwith or legislation substituted for it providing a form of voluntary arbitration so little open to valid objection as to deprive disputants of all reasonable excuse for declining arbitration under the law. To postpone remedial legislation is to invite widespread and perhaps National disaster at any moment."

George A. Post, President of the Railway Business Association, says that despite the shortness of the coming extra session of Congress, the matter of amending the Erdman act should be taken up at once.

Defects of the Erdman act are enumerated, such as the inadequacy of three as the number of arbitrators, the shortness of time (thirty days) allowed for the investigation, the unfitness for this purpose of statistics now available, the restriction of scope to railway employes engaged in train service, and certain features as to mediators.

HAWTHORNE TO BEGIN TERM.

Leaves Soon with Dr. Morton—May Have to Serve for a Time.

It is expected that Julian Hawthorne and Dr. William J. Morton, who are now in the Tombs, will leave either to-morrow or Monday to begin their actual service of a year and a day in Atlanta Penitentiary for using the mails to defraud in a Canadian mining scheme. The Federal District Attorney's office understands that they will not make an effort to get their sentences set aside, at any rate at present.

As their sentence was dated from Nov. 25 and the Federal law gives prisoners in Atlanta sentenced for one year or more the right to apply for parole after they have served one-third of their term, it has been suggested that they might seek release on March 26 on the ground that one-third of the time for which they were to be confined would have then passed. However, the Federal authorities here do not believe that the Parole Board would be inclined to construe the regulations in that way. They consider that Hawthorne and Morton will have to spend at least four months actually in the penitentiary before their cases would be considered.

Bank Chooses Williams's Successor.

Special to The New York Times.

RICHMOND, Va., March 21.—The Directors of the Richmond Trust and Savings Company met to-day and accepted the resignation as President of John Skelton Williams, who has been appointed Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. In his place they elected F. L. Bemiss, a brother-in-law of Mr. Williams.

The Stock Exchange From Within
By
William C. Van Antwerp

The purpose, methods and economic significance of the Stock Exchange from the point of view of the active broker.

Every American citizen should read this account of one of our greatest national institutions.

Says THE NEW YORK SUN:

"The book, which has just been issued, is the only work of its kind. It gives a well rounded and complete idea of the Exchange by combining the history of it from day to day workings, told in intimate and personal way, with the philosophy and fundamental principles on which the [illegible] financial district has accepted the book as the most valuable contribution on the Stock Exchange that exists."

Says THE SPRINGFIELD UNION:

"Mr. Van Antwerp is an acknowledged financial authority and a forceful, logical writer."

Says Philadelphia Evening Telegraph

"The author has collated a fund of information in regard to the Exchange system in general and the New York Exchange in particular, which makes interesting reading."

PROPOSALS.

STATE OF NEW YORK.
Office of Superintendent of Public Works.
Albany, March 19th, 1913.

Notice to Contractors: Sealed proposals will be received by the undersigned at his office in the Capitol at Albany, N. Y., until twelve o'clock noon of Tuesday, April 15th, 1913, at which place and hour they will be publicly opened and read, for improving the New York State canals, pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 147 of the Laws of 1903, and of the amendments thereto, as follows:

Erie Canal—Section 9 and 10.

For driving steel sheet piling in the embankment of the canal at certain localities within the limits of Contracts Nos. 60 and 66, Sheets 1 and 2.

2

For furnishing and delivering lumber and wooden piles at Bushnell's Basin, N. Y., and at Holley, N. Y.

Plans may be seen and detailed specifications, engineer's estimate of quantities, proposal blanks, form of contract and bonds required, and other information for proposers may be had at the office of the Superintendent of Public Works at Albany, N. Y., at the office of the Assistant Superintendent of Public Works for the Middle Division at Syracuse, N. Y.; at the office of the Assistant Superintendent of Public Works for the Western Division at Rochester, N. Y.; and at the canal office, Spaulding's Exchange, Buffalo, N. Y.

Copies of detailed plans or drawings may be obtained from the State Engineer and Surveyor at Albany, N. Y., upon payment to him of the cost of producing them.

Monthly estimates will be paid of ninety per centum (90 per cent.) of the work done at the contract price. Every proposal for said work must be accompanied by a money deposit in the form of a draft or certified check upon some good banking institution in the City of Albany or New York, issued by a National or State bank in good credit within the State and payable at sight to the Superintendent of Public Works for five per centum (5 per cent.) of the amount of the proposal.

The person whose proposal shall be accepted will be required to execute a contract and furnish bonds within ten days from the date of notice of award delivered to him or them in person or mailed to the address given in the proposal.

Upon execution of the contract and approval of bonds, the certified check or draft will be returned to the proposer unless the same shall have been presented for collection prior to such time, in which case the amount of the deposit will be refunded by the Superintendent of Public Works.

The deposits of bidders other than the one to whom the award of contract shall be made will be returned immediately after the award has been made.

The amount of bond required for faithful performance will be ten per centum (10 per cent.) of the amount of the estimated cost of the work according to the contract price, and an additional bond, known as the labor bond, in the sum of ten per centum (10 per cent.) of the amount of the estimated cost of the work according to the contract price, will be required as security that the contractor will pay in full at least once in each month all laborers employed by him upon the work specified to be done in the contract.

In the event that more than one surety company is offered as surety on said bonds, coinsurance only will be accepted.

Each proposal must be addressed to the Superintendent of Public Works, Albany, N. Y., and must be indorsed on the envelope with the name of the construction for which the proposal is made.

Award, if made, will be made to the person or persons whose proposal shall be lowest in cost to the State for doing the work, and which shall comply with all provisions required to render it formal. Before any award shall be made the lowest bidder will be required to satisfy the Superintendent of Public Works of his ability to provide suitable equipment and materials for the proper performance of the work.

The right is reserved to reject all proposals and readvertise and award the contract in the regular manner if, in the judgment of the undersigned, the interests of the State will be enhanced thereby.

DUNCAN W. PECK,
Superintendent of Public Works.

THIRTEEN MEN HELD FOR FEUD MURDERS

Westchester Authorities Think They Have in Them Also Leaders of Black Hand Gang.

LONG SERIES OF OUTRAGES

Dynamiting, Shootings and Hold-Ups Charged to Them, Including Rockefeller Estate Disturbances.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., March 21.—In the arrest to-day of thirteen Italians by Sheriff Doyle, Chief of Police Harmon of White Plains, and a number of Deputy Sheriffs, the authorities believe they have captured the heads of a "Black Hand" society that has committed a dozen murders and a number of other crimes in Westchester County. The "Black Hand" outrages have been going on for two years. Several men were threatened on the estate of John D. Rockefeller, at Pocantico Hills, while a dozen of the Rockefeller laborers were robbed at a pistol's point. The men became so frightened that for weeks Mr. Rockefeller employed a score of guards on his grounds to protect them.

Along the Catskill Aqueduct now being constructed through Westchester County, where thousands of men have been employed, "Black Handers" have reaped a harvest.

The arrest of the men revealed that there had been a feud between the Sicilians and the Calabrians who live in Westchester, and three murders in White Plains are traced to this feud. Raphel Bova, Charles Eumbere, Rocco Pelegrino, and Francesco Calbaro of White Plains, and Peppo Rosso and Santa Nostra of Port Chester are charged with being accessories to the murder of Philipo Carida on Feb. 26. Three weeks ago Tony Marro was assassinated in broad daylight on one of the streets of White Plains, and Pietro Reipucci, who was arrested by Detective Frittiti, has been identified as his slayer. Previous to Tony Marro's murder, his brother received a poison from one of the members of a gang, and he died in great agony.

Salvatore Marro, the father of the two murdered men, has sworn to avenge the death of his sons, and it is feared the feud will spread with serious results.

Most of the murders followed the dynamiting of the home of Mary Fidelle in Bronx Street, where Bova, one of the prisoners, boarded. Then came the murder of Carida, whose body was thrown in the Bronx Valley sewer. A short time after that Felipe Felice, a seventeen-year-old boy, now said to have come from Port Chester, attempted to kill Tony Marro in Railroad Avenue, early one Saturday night. Marro was wounded in the jaw and recovered. Felice was convicted, and is now in the Elmira Reformatory. Marro was a victim of the vendetta later on. Giovanni Giallorenzo of Port Chester was murdered on the night of Jan. 5 last, after he had been lured to a hen house on the property of Frank Fowler. This murder is also laid at the door of the gang in a partial confession made by one of the prisoners. Then came the murder of Tony Marro in Bank Street as he left the Kelsey Smith mill, where he was employed. Last Friday night an attempt was made to burn the building in Martine Avenue where Bova runs a meat market, and this has never been explained. Nostra is said by Reipucci to have been his employer, and the Marro side of the faction say that Reipucci was sent for for the express purpose of killing Tony Marro.

It is also asserted by the authorities that some members of this same gang attempted to hold up the Mertz Brothers' paymaster five years ago, as he drove from the Port Chester office of his employers with the weekly payroll. The paymaster was shot, but the horses ran away, and he and the money were carried beyond the reach of the bandits.

TAME OHARA NOT SO TAME.

Trio of Policeman Think Jap Should Spell It O'Hara.

Tame Ohara, who up to yesterday was the Japanese butler of Lorenzo Martinez Picabia, a Wall Street banker and broker, who lives at 306 West Ninety-first Street, knows quite a deal about his countryman's art of wrestling jiu jitsu, and this knowledge necessitated the services of the reserves of the West 100th Street Station before he was landed in a cell last night.

Tame is only a little fellow. He admitted that the cause of all the trouble was because he had overindulged in saki. This had led the banker to inform the butler yesterday afternoon there was no longer room in the house for him. Last night Tame and four of his countrymen appeared at the Picabia home. Mr. Picabia called Patrolman Riordan.

"My butler," said Mr. Picabia, "and four other Japs have taken possession of the house and threaten to shoot us."

Riordan found Tame in the parlor and started to arrest him. Tame's friends appeared from the floor above and—well, Riordan has lost count of the times he was floored in the next few minutes. Tame's friends were as capable as he so far as wrestling was concerned.

Riordan bumped around until his whistle fell out of his pocket. He threw it to the banker, who blew for all he was worth. Patrolmen Ferguson and Quinn arrived. Tames friends disappeared and Tame was apparently subdued. Just as the policemen and their prisoner left the house, Riordan went on his back. Ferguson was not so easy and managed to get a hip lock that quieted the Jap. The journey was then uneventful until the front of the station was reached, when the Jap wriggled his arms and legs and one, two, three, Ferguson, Riordan and Quinn were on the sidewalk. Ferguson grapped the little Jap's legs as he fell and brought him down also.

Then came the reserves and the end of the journey.

"And his name is Ohara!" said the three policemen, Ferguson, Riordan and Quinn, admiringly, as he was taken to a cell.

"And tame at that!"

MANY NEW SUBWAY JOBS.

Draughtsmen and Engineers Must Be Taken On by Service Board.

About 250 new employes must be taken on by the Public Service Commission in the next few weeks. The signing of the subway contracts has made it necessary to prepare at the earliest possible moment the plans for fifty new rapid transit sections, and as it will take about five men for each section the engineering force must be raised to approximately 1,000. At the present moment, taking in everybody, from Chief Engineer Alfred Craven to the office boys, there are on the pay roll of the engineering department 764 names.

Most of the jobs to be filled are for draughtsmen, who will get salaries ranging from $1,200 to $1,800, and a certain number of engineers at from $1,500 to $2,500 must be taken on. It is reckoned that the additional force will cost between $375,000 and $400,000 a year, and their salaries will come out of the city budget. However, under the new contracts the engineering expenses of the city are considered part of the cost of construction, and one-half of them will be charged up against the Interborough and the Brooklyn Rapid Transit.

Another very important cause of increasing the cost of the Public Service Commission will be the necessity of establishing a force to supervise the expenditure of the Interborough and the Brooklyn Rapid Transit when the contracts come into force and the city is in practical partnership with the traction concerns. This will not, however, be till Jan. 1, 1917, and the special force for this work will be organized gradually.

GOT JOBS FOR 1,729 MEN.

One Item in Annual Report of Y. M. C. A., Bowery Branch.

Three thousand and eighty-five men found lodging and 1,729 employment last year through the Bowery Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association, at 153 Bowery. The forty-first annual report of the branch, issued yesterday, showed that the stay of the lodgers averaged eight days each. Most of the men who found shelter in the branch, as well as many others not availing themselves of the lodgings, had meals ranging from 5 to 15 cents. The branch served 288,218 meals. As showing the effect of the uplift work among men, only 11 per cent. of the meals were served free and 34 per cent. of the men constituting that small proportion subsequently paid for the food that had been given to them.

Although the Bowery Branch is the relief agency of the Young Men's Christian Association to which all the thirteen other branches in the city send applicants for aid, its aim is to assist men, not to pauperize them. When a man is penniless it will let him have food and lodging without payment, but with the understanding that he is to pay as soon as he is earning money again.

The branch in 1912 held 215 Gospel meetings and its officers talked on religious subjects with 2,172 men, of whom 832 announced that they intended to lead Christian lives. The attendance at the meetings averaged 52; 21 lectures and entertainments were given, with an average attendance of 67 men. The Wednesday night Bible class has an average attendance of 45.

In spite of the size and variety of the five-cent meals and the fact that, despite the increased cost of supplies, only the best food was bought by the branch, the kitchen showed a comparatively small loss. The receipts of the branch last year were $27,951.53. Its expenses left a balance of $168.41 with which to begin the current year. H. L. Crawford, Treasurer, received contributions of $5,586.63 for the branch in 1912.

IMMIGRANTS GAIN ENTRANCE.

Right of Children of Naturalized Parents to be Settled.

Following the decision of former Secretary of Commerce and Labor Charles Nagel, who held that minor children of naturalized foreigners should be admitted to the United States, Samuel Gwosdow of New Britain, Conn., sent for his two daughters, Nanushe, 16 years old, and Rebecca, 11, living with their grandparents in Starabin, Russia. Arriving on Feb. 13, on the steamship California, both girls were placed under observation and ordered deported, Rebecca on the grounds of feeblemindedness and Nanushe as accompanying guardian.

Judge Leon Sanders, President of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society, requested a stay of the deportation order until a paper could be submitted and forwarded to Washington showing that the father of the two girls was able to provide for them. When Judge Sanders learned that Nanushe was admitted on March 15, while Rebecca was held for deportation, he appointed a committee, consisting of Counselors Isidore Hershfield and John Bernstein, members of the Board of Directors of the society; I. Irving Lilsitch, Ellis Island representative, and Samuel Mason, General Manager, to go to Washington and confer with Secretary of Labor Wilson. On its way to Washington the committee was informed by telegram that Rebecca had been admitted with the provision that the case was not to be cited as a precedent.

On Thursday Secretary Wilson met the committee and conferred with the members on the work of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society. He said that he was open to conviction in regard to the question of admitting minor children of naturalized parents. He further promised to send to the society the memorandum of Secretary Nagel in which he gave his reasons for admitting minors, and the brief of Commissioner Williams, together with his own opinion. He requested the representatives of the society to read these papers carefully and then submit to him a brief setting forth their arguments why Secretary Nagel's decision should not be reversed.

CURRAN TO HAMMITT.

He's Sorry Standkeepers Are Being Worried to Help Mayor's Suit.

Alderman Henry H. Curran sent this letter yesterday to J. O. Hammitt, secretary of the Citizens' Union, in reply to the one he received from Mr. Hammitt the day before:

J. O. Hammitt, Esq., Secretary of the Citizens' Union, 41 Park Row, New York.

Dear Sir: I have your letter informing me that you have investigated my statement that the Mayor's Bureau of Licenses has been busily at work endeavoring to obtain evidence that might be useful to Mayor Gaynor in my suit against him arising from his libelous letter to me of Sept. 9, 1912. You have found that my statement was true.

In so far as these subordinates of the Mayor are trying to find something for him to use against me, they will not succeed, for there is nothing to find. That a city department under the Mayor's jurisdiction should interest itself in this lawsuit is a matter that concerns one citizen as much as another. The city's departments were obviously not formed to rid the Mayor of the consequences of his personal torts.

I have in mind, however, the 300 keepers of stands in my district, who have been subjected to this inquisition. These standkeepers are human beings. They have businesses to maintain and families to support, and these stands are their livelihood. Within the last three weeks they have been cross-examined by city officials, solely with regard to my own conduct, in a way that may best be described as the "third degree"; their work has been interrupted and some of them have practically been starved in waiting.

I know something of the ordinary hardships these stand men undergo in earning their small livelihood, and am sorry to learn that they should be singled out for official persecution just because they do business in my district. Very truly yours,

HENRY H. CURRAN.

HOW TWAIN REACHED OLD AGE

Violated All Rules of Health, According to Old Friend.

RICHMOND, Va., March 21.—Mark Twain attributed his long and healthy life to his constant violation of all the rules of right living, according to Dr. William Lyon Phelps, who delivered a lecture at the Richmond College recently about the humorist.

Dr. Phelps was a personal friend of Twain, and spoke of Twain's life as a wonderful romance, in which every circumstance tended to push him forward in the great career for which he was destined. In his youth he said he had no literary ambition, and he would never have left his position as a Mississippi River pilot but for the outbreak of the civil war. He then became a miner in the West, and missed striking an immense fortune by five minutes, so that he remained poor and had to become a newspaper man. He was sent abroad as a correspondent, and the book, "Innocents Abroad," which first made his reputation, was the result.

The great flaw in Twain's character, said Dr. Phelps, was his pessimism, for, with all his humor, he considered life wholly bad. He declared in all seriousness that he always felt happier at a funeral than at a wedding, because at a wedding the trouble was just beginning, whereas at a funeral it was all over.

"Mark, at one time," continued Dr. Phelps, "said that for twenty-four years he had known that life was not worth living." This trait, Dr. Phelps said, showed that although a great literary artist, he was not a great philosopher.

Dr. Phelps read several letters from Twain to him, including one which was probably the last that he wrote. Mark Twain's humor, he said, was the typical American humor, having nothing of the cynicism and mockery of the French, nor of the careless good humor of the Irish. American humor he defined as an explosive reaction against American nervousness. It was a sort of broad and incongruous buffoonery.

LEGALITY DOUBTED OF ROAD BOND ISSUE

Question of Constitutionality of $50,000,000 Debt Passed at Last Election Again Up.

RECONSIDERATION IS URGED

Those Who Doubt Right to Issue Bonds Point to Section of Constitution as Supporting Their Contention.

As one of the results of the removal of C. Gordon Reel from the position of Superintendent of Highways in this State, discussion of the constitutionality of the second bond issue of $50,000,000 for highways, which was carried at a special referendum last November, has been reawakened. There are those who have the interest of the automobile at heart and who are enthusiasts for good roads as well, who still do not believe that such an issue can legally be made under the terms of the Constitution. The argument with which these persons support this view is based on the debt-incurring sections of Article 7 of the Constitution.

By virtue of Section 12 of that article, the first $50,000,000 now expended was authorized. This section reads in part:

> A debt or debts of the State may be authorized by law for the improvement of highways. Such highways shall be determined under general laws, which shall also provide for the equitable apportionment thereof among the counties. The aggregate of the debts authorized by this section shall not at any one time exceed the sum of $50,000,000. The payment of the annual interest on such debt and the creation of a sinking fund of at least 2 per centum per annum to discharge the principal at maturity shall be provided by general laws, whose force and effect shall not be diminished during the existence of any debt created thereunder.

When, before election, some objection was raised to the issuance of another $50,000,000 of bonds for highway purposes, it was argued that although no more could be issued under this section because of the sentence already quoted, "The aggregate of the debts authorized by this section shall not at any one time exceed the sum of $50,000,000," a second $50,000,000 could be authorized under the regular debt incurring section—Section 4 of Article 7. This section reads in part:

> * * * no debts shall be hereafter contracted by or in behalf of this State, unless such debt shall be authorized by law, for some single work or object, to be distinctly specified therein. * * * No law shall take effect until it shall, at a general election, have been submitted to the people, and have received a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election.

It was under this provision, therefore, that the second or present issue of $50,000,000 was authorized. Those who hold that this was unconstitutional point, however, to the concluding sentence of Section 12, as precluding the contracting of any highway debts under Section 4. This sentence says:

> None of the provisions of the fourth section of this article shall apply to debts for the improvement of highways hereby authorized.

In view of this question as to the propriety of the latest bond issue and also of the unsatisfactory maner in which they believe the money accruing from the first was expended, those interested in the subject and in good roads are suggesting a thorough and temperate reconsideration of the whole subject with further steps for raising highway funds as may then seem advisable.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 21.—In the question of the constitutionality of the law passed last year and approved at the polls last Fall authorizing a second debt of $50,000,000 for highways improvements, it is the contention of some that Section 12 of Article VII. of the Constitution, adopted by a vote of the people in 1905, prohibits by its last sentence an additional highway debt contracted under the terms of Section 4 of the same article. Officials and others in Albany who have investigated the question are of the opinion that the Legislature was within constitutional limits last year when it authorized an additional highway debt of $50,000,000.

It is held by those interested in highway improvement that Section 12 does not prevent the incurring of an additional debt under Section 4 to the debt incurred under Section 12. If it were the intention to limit the aggregate highway debt for fifty years to $50,000,000, it is pointed out, the last sentence of Section 12 would clearly state that intent and not prohibit the application of Section 4 to highway debts "hereby authorized" only. Attorney General Carmody gave an opinion to the Legislature last year to the effect that the bill providing for a second highway debt of $50,000,000 was not inconsistent with the provisions of the Constitution.

SULZER SIGNS TWO BILLS.

One Provides for the Removal of Savings Bank Trustees.

ALBANY, March 21.—Senator Pollock's bill providing that the trustees of any savings bank may be removed from office upon charges by an affirmative vote of three-fourths of the trustees at any meeting, subject to the approval of the Superintendent of Banks, was signed today by Gov. Sulzer.

The Governor also signed the Walker bill providing that a company, organized either as an employers' liability company or as a fidelity and guaranty company, must have at least $250,000 capital stock fully paid in cash if it transacts business of that nature.

SULZER DEFINES GENIUS.

Consists of Observation, Concentration, and Analyzation, Tells Students.

ALBANY, March 21.—Gov. Sulzer talked of "real greatness" to a delegation of students from the Walton High School, who visited him to-day.

"Real greatness," he said, "consists in the possession and development of three faculties—observation, by which you acquire knowledge; concentration, by which you store it away, and analyzation, by which you utilize it. Any individual who possesses well developed these three great faculties is a genius."

IN NEW JERSEY.

JERSEY CITY.—Already 10,011 names have been signed to the petitions for a commission government election there on April 15. The number needed was only 7,053. The petition must be filed before April 1.

BAYONNE.—Many of the members of the Police and Fire Departments of Bayonne have signed the commission government petitions, and say they will support the movement when the election is held on April 15.

BAYONNE.—Officers and members of Company I, Fourth Regiment, N. G. N. J., are making a house-to-house canvass soliciting subscriptions for the $45,000 armory to be erected on Broadway, near Thirty-fourth Street.

NEWARK.—While running to buy some candy four-year-old Harry Gauer, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Gauer of 53 Parkhurst Street, was run down by a trolley car. The front wheels passed over the child's right leg, severing it below the knee.

ARLINGTON.—A driver for a Newark department store saved two lives here, when arriving to deliver goods he found Andrew Crawford and his daughter Mildred overcome by gas in a house which they had just rented.

HACKENSACK.—Mayor Robert L. Craig of Moonachie Borough was arraigned on an indictment charging him with assault on his father-in-law, John H. Schmidt of Moonachie, on Jan. 5. Craig pleaded not guilty, and was put under $1,000 bail to appear in court on April 2.

PASSAIC.—Christopher Davis and George Butley of Lodi were rivals for appointment to the old Board of Freeholders of Bergen County. Mayor John C. Geohegan called a special meeting, and appointed himself. He was confirmed.

PASSAIC.—Leaning out the second-story window of her home Mrs. Anna Bednarz of 44 First Street lost her balance, and fell to the ground. She is expected to die. Her two children saw her fall.

HACKETTSTOWN.—Detectives Farrell and Keogh of Newark identified a car that had been left Thursday night at a local garage as the property of Dr. H. A. Welcher of 246 Walnut Street, Newark. It was stolen several days ago.

TRENTON.—Deserted by her husband because he could not get along with his brother's children, who were also his own stepchildren, Mrs. Florence A. Moll has obtained a final decree of divorce.

TRENTON.—Latimer Botchenski and John Schernetski were injured when a wall, weakened by a recent fire, fell at the plant of the Sanitary Earthenware Specialty Company. The wall crashed through the room of a kiln shed where the men were at work.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

SUPPORTS COLE BILL.

Ex-Senator Travis Says It Is Practical for Commission Men.

Ex-State Senator E. M. Travis of this city issued a statement yesterday concerning the new Cole bill relating to commission merchants:

> The new bill was prepared at Albany on March 12, the conference which prepared it consisting of Assemblyman Cole, Mr. Vary, Master of the State Grange; Mr. Giles, Secretary of the State Grange; Senator Godfrey, former Master of the Grange, and five other officers of the State body. The commission merchants of the fruit and vegetable trade were represented by me. L. C. Tuckerman of Milton, N. Y., was later called into conference.
>
> The Cole bill is workable. It will prove helpful to the farmer and practicable to the seller. The Roosevelt bill was a dream of some theorist, and could not have been put into practice without ruining both the grower and the commission merchant. The new bill provides for a fidelity bond and the licensing of the commission merchant, but it eliminates both from the retailer, as was planned by the Roosevelt bill. It provides seven causes for the revocation of the license and provides also for a fair writ of certiorari, which will protect the honest commission merchant. Ample protection is afforded the farmers in ascertaining the disposition of their consignments. The books of the commission merchant relating to the farmers' consignments are subject to inspection, and all other details relating to the farmers' business may be looked into.
>
> The bill offers punishment for misrepresentation, false packing, dishonest stenciling, &c., on the part of the farmer, shipper, speculator, or commission merchant. It is eminently fair, and should prove helpful to all concerned, including the consumer.

The statement represents the views of the National League of Commission Merchants and the Fruit and Produce Trade Association.

NEW AUTOMATS OFFERED.

The Zahn Soon to be Shown and Saurer Firm Interested Here.

Following the recent report of the sale of ten Groebli automats to a local embroidery firm by the Loeb & Schoenfeld Company, holders of the American patent rights, comes the announcement that Zahn automatic 10-yard machines, 1913 model, will shortly be put on exhibition by the Robert Reiner Importing Company at their offices in Weehawken Heights, N. J. This machine, aside from eliminating the human factor from the manufacture of embroideries, is said to increase production from 30 to 50 per cent. A capacity of 125 to 135 stitches a minute is claimed for it, against the average capacity of 85 to 105 stitches.

In view of the suits now being pressed against several users of old types of the Zahn automat by the Loeb & Schoenfeld Company, the announcement that the builders of the Zahn have apparently overcome the infringement, alleged by Loeb & Schoenfeld will doubtless cause much surprise here. The impression has prevailed for some time that the Groebli patents exclude all other types of automats from this country, but with the Zahn automat to be offered shortly and representatives of the Saurer automat here recently to look over the field, some interesting developments are looked for in the near future. A general revolution and enlargement of the domestic embroidery industry is expected to result from the placing of automatic machines within the reach of the trade at large.

EASTER JEWELRY TRADE.

Importations Much Larger Than One Year Ago.

There has been no change reported in the local jewelry trade during the past week. The usual pre-Easter lull is felt strongly, but a picking up is expected beginning next week. Diamonds have advanced slightly, but are having the largest sale at the moment, with pearls closely following. There is practically no call for genuine rubies and sapphires, because synthetic gems, which are said to be as brilliant and hard as the real stones, are largely replacing them. There is, however, an increase in precious stones over last year. For the week ended March 8, 1912, imports wre valued at $648,328, against $1,671,871 for the corresponding week of the present year.

Business with silverware manufacturers is reported ahead of last year. It is thought not unusual, however, because of the early coming of Easter. The staple lines in sterling are the more active, with hotel silver moving best in plated ware. Heavy sales of Easter novelties were reported during the past week.

PETITION AGAINST REALTY CO.

Stockholders Say Dunton Lodge Firm Is Bankrupt.

A petition in involuntary bankruptcy against the Dunton Lodge Realty Company, which owns 430 building lots near Dunton station, in Queens, has been filed in the United States Court in Brooklyn by Dey Brothers, dry goods merchants of Syracuse, N. Y., stockholders in the company. The petition has been sent to Charles A. Tilping, referee in bankruptcy, with offices in the Bridge Plaza, Long Island City, who will set a day for a hearing.

According to the schedules, the company owes $10,059.84 in unpaid taxes, $186,892 in secured claims, most of them mortgages; $58,440 in unsecured debts, and $23,470 on discounted notes. The total liabilities are placed at $278,682.28, while the assets of the company consist of an equity of $104,000 in its property at Dunton and $200 in cash.

SOME YARNS SLOW.

Uncertainty Over the New Tariff Given as the Cause.

Selling in the local yarn market during the past week was quiet, but normal. Business in worsted yarns is not encouraging, according to various reports, and weaving yarns are moving especially slowly. In cotton yarns, however, better conditions prevail. Spinners are reported busy, and buyers seem willing to take more goods. Certain knitting mills are said to have placed orders up to next September and October, but weaving yarns have not been specified so far ahead.

One dealer said yesterday that whatever lack of confidence was felt in the market was due to the unsettled tariff condition. He said also that even though the new rate were not made until considerably later, if the date it is to go into effect were given out, more confident ordering would result. No particular change from the present rate was expected, although it was said that it would probably be lowered a little.

LIGHT TRADING IN PRINTCLOTHS

In general with business in other lines, the local printcloth market was materially affected yesterday by the religious holiday and the proximity of Easter. Many of the larger traders were reported away on short vacations, and, as a result, there was little buying of consequence. Quiet was also reported from Fall River, due largely to the holiday influence. There was a good call here for piques, and a few good-sized lots of drills and sheetings were said to have moved. Wide voiles were also active for near-by delivery, but trading in the remainder of the market was generally without feature. The day's quotations follow:

SIDELIGHTS ON SELLING.

A feature of recent dressmakers' openings has been the number of waistcoats that have been shown. It is expected that they will be widely used for Fall.

Fancy buttons of china, crystal, crochet, bone, and metal are well-regarded as garnitures for the better class dresses and suits this season.

At the moment the color tendency in Fall furs points strongly to browns. This is believed to result largely from the present demand for the various shades of brown and tan in other lines.

Reports from the Middle West are strongly indicative of a heavy call for pile fabrics this Fall. Both their practicability and the present style tendency favor them.

OBJECT TO STATE PLANT.

Electric Light Men Issue Another Letter of Protest.

The Public Policy Committee of the National Electric Light Association made public another open letter to the State Conservation Commission yesterday, attacking the proposed hydro-electric development by the State at the Crescent and Vischers Ferry Dams. The situation has been grossly misrepresented, the committee charges, and the course proposed, if carried out, would work a grave injustice to private capital and end in disaster to the State.

It would only be possible, the letter says, to provide service at from $7.50 to $10 annually for each horse power by charging all losses to capital expenditure, a course permitted by the proposed act for the first two years.

The association charges that the commission is also endeavoring to free itself of the control of the Public Service Commissions under the supervision of which the private corporations are placed.

In asking why the commission should engage in a commercial enterprise the association points out that that commission cost the State $661,366.82 last year, of which sum only $134,909 was used for what seems to have been work actually accomplished. The appropriation this year was $809,260. Attention is also called to the fact that municipal operation has proved unprofitable not only in New York, but also in other cities. The hydro-electric plant in Chicago is cited as an example, the aggregate loss in the past four years being more than $600,000.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES

The Daily Consular and Trade Report notes the following foreign trade opportunities. Further information regarding them may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, care of the Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C., giving the number of the item referred to:

10,619. AUTOMOBILE COACH WORK.—A foreign business man, who states that he is in a position to furnish the best of references, informs an American Consulate that he desires to receive offers, carrying with them exclusive agency rights for Italy, from American manufacturers of glazed hides for automobile coach work. Correspondence should be in Italian or French.

10,620. PIANOS.—An American Consular officer in Spain reports that a resident of his district would like to get into communication with a few first-class American manufacturers of pianos, as he believes that this article might be imported to advantage in that country. Correspondence should be conducted in Spanish.

10,621. INDIAN PRODUCE.—A report from an American Consul in India states that a local export firm engaged in shipping cotton, cotton waste, gums, drugs, seeds, and myrobalans to Continental centres desires to get in touch with American buyers of these lines. References are given and correspondence may be in English.

10,622. ENGINEERING SUPPLIES.—A European civil engineer, member of a technical office, with connections throughout a certain country, informs an American Consulate that he would like the representation, preferably of independent American manufacturers, of the following classes of goods: High-grade band steel; material for automobile, car, and locomotive springs; plate and sheet aluminium; copper wire, trolley and other; copper bolts for locomotives; electric insulating material, vulcanized and other of all descriptions, mica, paints, tape, &c.; nickel plates and strips; machinery for steel and iron foundries; "new silver" compounds, argentan, &c. He further desires to investigate the possibility of handling American wheels and axles for locomotives in competition with Germany. Correspondence, preferably in German, is solicited, with quotations free on board European port, in dollars or francs, with measurements and weights in the metric system. If, however, this is impracticable, details may be in English system of weights and measures and correspondence in English.

10,623. HIDES AND SKINS.—One of the commercial agents of the Department of Commerce reports that a firm in Egypt exporting hides and skins desires direct communication with American tanners wishing to import Egyptian and Sudanese hides and skins. Correspondence may be in English.

10,624. METAL BUTTONS.—An American Consul in Germany reports that a resident of that country would like to get in touch with American manufacturers of metal buttons. Correspondence should be in the German language.

10,625. SMALL PLANTS FOR MANUFACTURING MAIZENA AND STARCH.—A South African broker informs an American Consular officer that he desires to obtain for a client, said to be a man of considerable means, the machinery required and cost thereof for the manufacture of maizena and starch from mealies, (Indian corn.) This person wishes a plant capable of turning out two and one-half tons of starch and one ton of maizena per day. The same inquirer also wishes illustrations and prices of the machinery or appliances necessary to put up the starch and maizena in packages of the usual market size. Suggestions are also asked for floor plans appropriate for the installation of the plant referred to. Duplicate information should be sent to the Consular officer submitting the report.

10,626. BOOTS AND SHOES AND LEATHER.—A foreign business man informs one of the commercial agents of the Department of Commerce that he desires to be put in touch with American exporters of box calf and glazed kid, also exporters of boots and shoes. Bank references will be furnished and correspondence may be in English.

10,627. RUBBER COATS.—A report from an American Consular officer in a Mediterranean country states that a firm of large dealers in rubber goods in his district desires to represent an American exporter of rubber coats for men and women (mackintoshes) of the less expensive and of the better qualities. Correspondence may be in English.

CONSULAR TRADE NOTES.

Watermelon seeds are now worth $5 gold a hundredweight, at Tientsin, China, says Consul General Knabenshue, while pumpkin seeds are quoted at $3.25 and $1.10 a hundred pounds, respectively, for the best and lower qualities. These seeds are served at Chinese dinners as salted almonds are served in America.

Consul General James A. Smith of Genoa reports that Italy's foreign trade has made considerable increase in the first month of the present calendar year. Exports totaled $34,970,183, an increase of $2,492,877 over January, 1912, while imports amounted to $50,547,920, an increase of $2,093,246.

The Government of Panama, by a law of Jan. 15, 1913, put into effect a duty of $2 per quintal (about 101 pounds) for salt. The Executive is authorized to reduce this duty to $1 when there is a shortage of salt of good quality produced within the country.

FUR SEASON OPENING.

Some Medium-Priced Lines Being Shown—Fall Colors and Styles.

Some of the local furriers making medium and popular-priced lines already have their salesmen on the road with the coming season's offerings. Business, both on the road and spot, has not been any too heavy, as yet, but a much better season than that experienced in 1912 is looked for generally. Little anxiety is shown of a duplication of the unseasonable weather that last Fall and Winter caused the trade considerable loss.

Novelties in sets and pieces are expected to have the best run, with 45-inch coats also best in the medium-priced goods. Full-length coats are expected to be popular in those parts of the country where climatic conditons warrant their use. A wide range of novelties is shown in neck pieces, including shaped pieces with stole and fancy ends. Straight stoles are also shown. In sets where animal effects are sought, tails and heads are used on both muffs and neck pieces.

All kinds of furs will be used, from present indications, with natural colors used in preference to dyed. With prices of the raw furs up from 10 to 60 per cent. at the London sales, it is generally expected that quotations on the finished goods will be higher than last year.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

U. S. HAIR COMPANY.—A petition in bankruptcy was filed yesterday against the U. S. Hair Company of 67 and 69 Front Street, a Musica concern, by these creditors: Eugene Schwind, $18, for clerical services; John Franco, $25, services as bookkeeper, and the Republic Bank Note Company, $550, for printing stock certificates of the company. It was alleged that the company was insolvent and on March 20 admitted in writing inability to pay its debts and willingness to be adjudged bankrupt on that ground. Judge Mayer appointed B. W. B. Brown receiver, under a bond of $2,500. The company was incorporated on Oct. 28, 1911, with capital stock $2,000,000, and Philip M. Musica was President. In a statement of the company's financial condition, issued on Feb. 16, 1913, assets were said to be $1,400,000, which included cash in bank, $90,000; stock, packing cases, chemicals, $611,000, and plants, fixtures, leases, contracts, secret formulas, trade marks, and good will $698,947.

JOSEPH R. MUNTER.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Joseph R. Munter, dealer in clothing and men's furnishing goods, at 1,439 Broadway, by these creditors: Present & Co., $109; Cohen, Goldman & Co., $20, and Alfred Decker & Cohen, $500. It was alleged that he was insolvent and admitted in writing inability to pay his debts. Judge Mayer appointed Oliver Goldsmith receiver, with a bond of $5,000, and with authority to continue the business ten days. Liabilities are $25,000, and assets $10,000. He intends to offer a settlement to creditors. He has been in business 22 years, and was a partner in the form of Moe Levy & Co., from 1900 to January, 1911.

SAMUEL LIVINGSTON.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Samuel Livingston, jobber in notions and fancy goods, at 23 Orchard Street, by these creditors: Charles L. Hepburn, $318; R. Gruhn & Co., $227, and B. Abramson & Bro., $95. Liabilities are estimated at $11,500 and assets $5,000. He offered a settlement to creditors on Thursday of 25 cents on the dollar.

GEORGE A. WADDILL, a broker, living at 600 West 157th Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $52,568 and nominal assets. The assets consist of the Santa Rosa mine, in the State of Zacatecas, Mexico, probably forfeited for taxes; 1,275 shares of stock of the Seguranza Mining Company, pledged as collateral; suit against the same company for $5,830, transferred; note of the Asturiana Mining Company for $51,000, (Mexican currency,) pledged as security for notes, and participation in a mortgage in the Dolores Trompeta mine, near Calorce, Mexico, unpaid balance, $653. Among his creditors are the Banco de Londres y Mexico of San Luis Potosi, $27,859, (secured;) Bancaria de Hipotecas Prestarmos, Mexico, $5,000, (secured;) Bank of Montreal, $1,580, (secured;) Banco Internacionale e Hipotecario, $1,663; Banco de San Luis Potosi, $2,000, and P. H. Southwick, New York, $4,720, (secured.)

ESTHER HARRIS.—Esther Harris of 508 West 139th Street has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $2,350 and no assets. Of her liabilities $2,000 is to the Commercial Trust Company on indorsement of notes of Jacob Harris, a tailor, who went through bankruptcy two years ago.

HENRY M. SCHILLER.—Henry M. Schiller, salesman of 701 West 178th Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $2,803, to two creditors, and no assets. He was formerly in a clothing business.

JAMES J. REILLY.—James J. Reilly of 300 West 141st Street, formerly a saloon keeper at 2,465 Eighth Avenue, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $996 and no assets.

WILLIAM J. LINDEMANN.—William J. Lindemann, a druggest of 39 West 118th Street, who formerly had a store at 250 Delancey Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $8,925 and assets of $25 and one share of stock in the Lindemann Drug Company. The largest creditors are Holzman & Levy, $5,300, secured, and Moses Valentine, $2,450, secured.

L. HAMMEL & CO.—Judge Mayer has appointed Milton M. Sittenfeld receiver for L. Hammel & Co., manufacturers of leather belts, &c., at 106 Seventh Avenue, with a bond of $3,500. Creditors asked to have David Falk appointed receiver, who agreed to serve without compensation. Liabilities are $18,000 and assets $7,700. An offer has been made to purchase the entire business.

HARRY A. SPIVACK.—Judge Mayer has appointed J. Clifford McChristie receiver for Harry A. Spivack, doing business as the Clover Paper Company, bond $500.

KLENERT & ROSENBLUTH, INC.—Schedules in bankruptcy of Klenert & Rosenbluth, Inc., dealers in plumbing supplies at 1,683 First Avenue, show liabilities of $22,115 and nominal assets of $38,928, consisting of stock, $21,777; trucks, $3,250; accounts, $13,743, and cash, $158. Among the creditors are the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing company, Pittsburgh, $1,761; Hexter Motor Truck Company, $1,015, secured, and the Security Bank, $900.

KEYSTONE CHEMICAL MANUFACTURING COMPANY.—A judgment for $61,386 was entered by default yesterday in the New York County Clerk's office against the Keystone Chemical Manufacturing Company, a New Jersey corporation, in favor of the Warner Chemical Company for merchandise sold to it in the last five years, and on three notes made on October, November, and December, 1912. The summons was served on Franklin H. Warner, the treasurer, at 141 Broadway.

Weekly Failure Report.

Bradstreet's reports 282 business failures in the United States in the week, against 289 for the previous week, and 252, 235, 231, and 226 for the corresponding weeks of 1912 to 1909. The Middle States had 78, New England 41, Southern 74, Western 43, Northwestern 12, and Far Western 34. Canada had 29, against 34 for the preceding week. About 80 per cent. of the total number of concerns failing had capital of $5,000 or less, and 8 per cent. had capital from $5,000 to $20,000.

JUDGMENTS ENTERED.

The following judgments for amounts more than $100 were filed yesterday, the first name being that of the debtor:

Anderson, Frederick—B. Piring, $162.

…USANDS OF USES FOR PETROLUEM OIL

While Production Declines New Demands Grow, and It All Works Well for the Standard Oil.

CONTROLS BY SIMPLE PLAN

Fixes Prices at the Wells and for Independent Refiners Through Ownership of Pipe Lines.

It appears from a compilation of facts and figures made by Russell Hastings Milward that all things work together to increase the wealth of Standard Oil. Gasoline is going up so fast that automobile makers are alarmed, and are seeking some substitute fuel. The Standard has admitted that gasoline must go higher because crude oil production is diminishing. When it was increasing the Standard rolled up its hundreds of millions, and now, while it is decreasing, a thousand and one new uses are found for it, so that each ounce of it becomes more valuable correspondingly to the ratio of decline. Mr. Russell says:

"The usefulness of petroleum has become almost unlimited. Besides the many grades of gasolines, naphthas, illuminating oils, lubricating oils, paraffin, and greases obtained from the crude oil of paraffin base, filtered paraffin residues or concentrated jellies, known as vaseline, petrolatum, cosmoline, and petroleum ointment, are also obtained. These jellies are universally employed as therapeutic in diseases of the skin, as a basis in the manufacture of medicated ointments for general household use, and also in the compounding of shoe and metal polishes.

"Rhigolene is used as an anaesthetic; cymogene has been used in the manufacture of ice; non-poisonous dye materials made of petroleum products are used in candy factories and dyeing establishments, and more than 30,000,000 pounds of wagon grease are manufactured annually from petroleum in the United States.

"Over 300,000,000 candles of 700 varieties are annually manufactured from paraffin, and on account of their fine quality have practically driven the wax and tallow candles out of the market.

No End to Demand.

"Paraffin is used in the manufacture of chewing gum and of waterproof paper; is useful in preserving biscuits and other bakery products from dampness; as a preservative on Cleopatra's Needle in Central Park; on the fronts of houses in New York City, to prevent crumbling or disintegration of the stone; in laundries, for bleaching cotton and linen and polishing starched articles; and in sealing canned fruits, jellies, and preserves. It is also used in the manufacture of colored crayons and as a substitute for beeswax, tallow, and sealing wax.

"The use of asphalt oils has been greatly augmented by the automobile, and in the treatment of pavements for city streets and country roads a good, permanent roadbed, free from dust or mud, has been secured."

The total flow of oil in the United States for the year of 1859, the first of which any official record has been kept, amounted to only 2,000 barrels. For the year 1909 the production as estimated by David T. Day of the United States Geological Survey, amounted to 178,000,000 barrels.

Gradually the oil derrick wended its way and the petroleum industry was extended over a vast territory. Since the opening of the Pennsylvania fields in 1859 New York, Ohio, Illinois, West Virginia, Kentucky, Oklahoma, Texas, Colorado, Utah and California have been added as producing territory.

The capital actually invested in 1859 amounted to a little more than $1,000, while to-day more than $1,500,000 represents the extent of the industry in the United States alone.

The first systematic drilling for petroleum was made near Titusville, in July 1859, in one of the old, rudely-covered pits, and the work progressed slowly until quicksand was encountered in such quantities that it was found necessary to drive an iron casing through the sand in order to again reach a rock foundation suitable for drilling. With difficulty this casing, the first of its kind ever used, and an original conception of Colonel Drake, was driven for 36 feet to bedrock and drilling then continued until Aug. 28, 1859, when, just as the day's work was about completed, the drill struck a crevice and dropped six inches. Little attention was paid to the incident until the next day when, upon careful examination, it was discovered that a crevice had been struck 69 feet from the surface and a constant flow of petroleum brought in. "I have tapped the mine," was Col. Drake's quaint way of wording the report of his remarkable achievement, the anniversary of which is annually celebrated at Titusville.

As Crude Oil Is Separated.

The products from crude oil of paraffin base are taken off in these proportions: Gasoline, 1½ per cent.; naphthas, 14 per cent.; kerosene, 55 per cent.; lubricating oils, 17½ per cent.; paraffin, 2 per cent., and residue of pitch, 10 per cent. From the asphalt-base petroleum is derived a residuum employed in the manufacture of insulating, waterproofing, and roofing materials.

Mr. Russell gives this bit of strange history:

"Along the banks of a stream in Pennsylvania, now known under the prosaic title of Oil Creek, the Seneca Indian once dipped his blanket in most romantic fashion as he tried in vain to transfer the brilliant and variegated colors he discovered on the surface of the little pools of petroleum. Disappointed because he could not at once convert his attractive find into a satisfactory dye material, the red man found other purposes for which the oil could be employed. The blanket was carefully squeezed and the oily substance recovered. Rude pits were dug, lined with rough-hewn timbers, and the oil was stored away for future use. Thus began the first known practical conservation of petroleum in America. Many of these old Indian pits are still found in an excellent condition, the timbers being practically as sound as the day when cut in the forest.

"It was not long, however, before the white man began to realize the value of this remarkable discovery and enterprising pioneers began to dig pits similar to those of the Indian and to gather the oil, which for many years was bottled and, under the names of 'Seneca Oil,' 'Indian Oil,' and 'Sand Oil,' sold extensively as a sure cure for all the aches and pains to which man is heir. It was universally accepted as a medicament, but with little curiosity as to how great a quantity of the wonderful curative could be secured or whence it came.

"As early as 1790 the manufacture of salt became an important industry in the United States, and for the purpose numberless brine wells were sunk throughout the country, especially along the western slope of the Alleghany Mountains, where brine was found in great abundance, collected, and evaporated into salt.

Burned Fifty Miles of River.

"Many of these wells had to be abandoned on account of their producing uncontrollable quantities of petroleum, then considered a most undesirable element. A notable incident of this kind occurred on the Renox Creek, near Burkesville, in 1829, when an attempt made to drill well and secure what was supposed to be an unlimited supply of brine resulted in the striking of a mammoth gusher.

"Consternation and disappointment among the owners of the well as they witnessed the great quantities of oil flowing rapidly beyond the creek and into the Cumberland River, where it finally took fire and burned for a distance of fifty miles. When the fire was extinguished the oil flowed on as rapidly as before, and, with the exception of a small quantity which was later recovered, bottled, and sold under the name of "American Medicinal Oil," was wasted.

"Abraham Gesner discovered a method of extracting an excellent grade of illuminating oil from coal, and in 1854 patented, a successful illuminant, "kerosene," commonly known as "coal-oil." The improvement was so great over the animal and vegetable oils then in use, the objectionable odor and smoke being eliminated, that they were gradually set aside, and in order to meet an enormous and ever-increasing demand for the product, it became necessary to establish factories throughout the country for the extraction of his popular illuminaing oil from coal. Altogether there were over sixty of these establishments in operation at one time, and the price of kerosene advanced rapidly until 1857, when it sold as high as $2 a gallon. The industry was short-lived, however, for upon the discovery of petroleum in sufficient quantities to effect a competition as a basis from which illuminating oils could be manufactured, these kerosene factories were converted into refinedies of crude oil.

"The great demand for kerosene and its consequent high price were the causes of attracting the world-wide attention of chemists and scientific authorities, and repeated attempts were made to discover the means of producing, at a lower cost, some other satisfactory illuminant from coal or petroleum."

Drilling for Oil.

Mr. Russell gives this simple account of how oil is obtained:

"The manner of driving or sinking an oil well is simpler than is generally imagined. A steel drill, weighing anywhere from 1,000 to 3,000 pounds, and measuring about 30 feet in length, is selected for the purpose. This is fastened to an adjustable line and connected with a heavy arm or beam, driven by an engine which continually raises and releases the arm and permits the drill to fall with great force into the hole. With each drop, and by its own weight, the drill literally crushes and pulverizes the rock into sand, which is removed with a "sand pump" from time to time as it accumulates in the boring. As the work progresses and the hole deepens the adjustable line is lengthened and the drill lowered as required.

"After drilling the depths varying from 100 to 2,000 feet, and when a crevice is struck in the rock the oil is frequently brought to the surface by the force of its own pressure; but it often becomes necessary, in case the flow of oil is not considered sufficient, to insert a charge of explosive at the bottom of the boring, "shoot" or blast the well, and thus increase the supply. After the drilling and blasting are completed the well is then cased with iron piping, known as a "lining," and a pump inserted.

"In the old days each well was pumped separately, but the industry is now conducted upon such an economic and scientific basis that the wells are pumped in groups by a veritable network of connecting rods extending over the fields and driven by one engine in a centralized position."

While the Standard Oil has been dissolved, it is still the principal stockholder in the segregated companies. The control of the oil fields and of the oil by one refining company is peculiar inasmuch as the fields and the wells in them are owned by a multitude of men and independent corporations. The Standard is, however, the carrier. It owns the pipe lines that tap every well and drain the product as fast as it is produced. In this it virtually has no competition and it is, therefore, practically the one buyer of crude oil at the well and can fix the price at whatever it pleases within reason or without it.

This condition also allows it, no matter how the corporation may be split up, to fix the price at which independent refineries must sell their oil. The independents with a few noticeable exceptions that do not make much difference in the result have to get their crude oil from the Standard Oil lines. As long as they mind their own territory exclusively and pay close attention to Standard Oil quotations they can get all the crude oil they want at just what the Standard itself has to pay for it at the wells, plus a nominal pipe line charge. If the independents are not good they may get into trouble.

FOR BARING ALIEN PEDIGREES

Woman Scientist Would Investigate Them for Traces of Degeneracy.

The family tree of every immigrant should be thoroughly investigated before admission into the country, says Prof. Carrie M. Derrick, M. A., an authority on biology and social reform. While lecturing on the subject in Montreal, Canada, she pointed out specific cases of the feeble-minded and degenerate propagating their species, delineating the pedigrees of whole families of degenerates.

Prof. Derrick instanced the familiar example of the Jukes family, which was descended from Max Jukes, a drunken and lazy wastrel, who in 1770 married a woman who was the mother of criminals. Of later descendants 300 had died in poorhouses, many had been feeble-minded, and there had been 300 cases of infantile mortality. The Jukes family had cost the State altogether $1,250,000. Contrasted with this was the family of Jonathan Edwards, who also married in 1770, and became the ancestor of a long line of clergy, physicians, college professors, distinguished army and navy officers, and good women.

Miss Derrick attacked the modern theory that education and good environment have redeeming effects on character. With the aid of another tree—that of a prominent New Jersey family—she showed how the scion of a good family who ran wild in his youth became the ancestor of feeble-minded descendants and alcoholics by wedding a feeble-minded woman. By his second marriage to a normal woman, however, he had another family, whose descendants were good and useful people, many of them distinguished, with only two alcoholics in several generations.

Alcoholism, Miss Derrick said, was often thought to be the cause of degeneracy, whereas the reverse was usually the case, alcoholism being the result of degeneracy. The prevailing temperance of nations compared with that of the past was not merely the result of temperance work, she said, but had also been caused, in a great degree, by families of drunken ancestry becoming extinct.

An important moral which the lecturer deduced from her biological discoveries was that in the upbuilding of the comparatively young nations of the United States and Canada unguarded immigration was one of the greatest dangers. Not only should the health and character of immigrants be known, she said, but the record should also embrace their parents and grandparents, and should a taint of degeneracy be disclosed rejection should follow.

TREES TO AID RECLAMATION.

Forest Planting Will Add Great Value to Oregon Project.

HERMISTON, Ore., March 21.—In developing the plans for the West extension of the Umatilla reclamation project, the National Reclamation Service has adopted a new feature in work of this character. This is the planting and maintenance by the Forestry Department of strips of forest trees throughout the extension at intervals of about every half mile. The strips will be 200 to 400 feet wide, and their total length will be approximately 150 miles.

The purpose of this new departure is to supply fuel and fencing for the future settlers on the land and to protect the sandy soil from the winds that blow up the Columbia River. The strips of trees will extend north and south, except along the two sides, where the direction will be east and west for nearly forty miles. They will be planted on the highest lines, along which are to flow the canals and laterals of the irrigation system. Roadways will have space between the rows of trees.

The Forestry Department will plant and care for the trees. When they are large enough for useful purposes, they will be sold at nominal prices to the neighboring land owners. Persons holding private lands in the extension have signed wind-break agreements, giving the Government an easement on their lands, where necessary to plant trees, and on the public lands, which compose the larger part of the new project, the Government retains control to do this work.

This provision for wind-breaks is an important feature in the reclamation of light, sandy soils of the desert. With plenty of water, which the irrigation canals will provide, a locust or poplar tree can be grown in two or three years to a height sufficient to hold the force of the wind above the surface of the land, and a series of such wind-breaks will relieve the entire project from a serious handicap to the early settler. Without cost to himself he will have protection for a large part of his ground, where he may be able to start his garden and orchard.

This network of forest, which is the idea of E. G. Hopson, supervising engineer of this reclamation district, will add much beauty to the landscape. The West extension runs along the Columbia for forty miles from Hermiston to Castle Rock, and is not more than three miles wide at any point. The railroad runs through the strip, and what now is but a sandy sage-bush waste will become before many years green fields interspersed with attractive strips of forest.

TONS OF SPRUCE GUM RICH MAINE CROP

Its Harvesting Profitable Work for Men Who Can Climb Trees and Dig Hard.

WEATHER IMPORTANT FACTOR

After Hardening and Sweetening for Months in March the Gum Is at Its Best.

Special to The New York Times.

BANGOR, Me., March 21.—Any one who can climb a tree and is willing to dig hard into the spruce limbs can make from $1 to $6 a day in the gum business, for the crop never fails, and Maine produces more spruce gum than all the other States combined.

In order to be fragrant and agreeable to those who chew it spruce gum must be ripened under certain climatic conditions that are found at their best in Northern Maine. While good clear gum is often found growing spontaneously in the wild woods without the help of human agencies, the best spruce gum—the kind that sells at $1.25 to $1.50 a pound at wholesale—is the result of the gum gatherer's foresight.

Gum is the dried and crystalized sap of the spruce tree which has exuded and simmered in the heat of Summer's sun and then hardened into amber-like nuggets in the cold of a long Winter.

Maple sugar may be made by boiling the sap of the rock maple tree for a few hours, but if a man were to try to produce spruce gum by boiling the sap of the spruce tree he would get nothing but a bitter and sticky tar.

Of the 15,000 pounds of spruce gum annually harvested in Maine, 12,000 pounds or more are gathered in the month of March. The gum picker wears steel climbing spurs on his boots and in his belt he carries a light hatchet. Strapped to his waist is a bag with a wide mouth for the reception of the gum. Climbing a tree, the picker proceeds from limb to limb, chipping off the lumps of gum as he finds them, until he reaches the top. Most of the gum is caught in the wide open bag as it falls from the tree, while all that goes to the ground stands out in such relief upon the snow that it is easily picked up. Having picked all the gum on the tree, the picker hacks and scars the bark so that the tree may produce another crop.

The best tasting and cleanest gum comes from the deep and narrow cuts made on the south side of a tree. Wounds made on the north side may exude sap, but, being away from the sun, the sticky juices are filled with bits of bark before they have time to crystallize. By scoring the bark in March the early flow of sap is made to come out slowly, and it forms a dam of pitch, so that when the heat of Summer comes and the sap runs freely the gum hangs in pendulous bags, which are glued to the bark in the matrix which formed as soon as the scar was made.

Weather conditions have as much to do with the making of gum as in the making of hay. When the first drop of crystal gum has exuded and hardened it grows daily in layers from the outside. When there is a succession of warm and windless days, followed by cool nights, the overlapping coats of pitch will harden as a pure gum. A windy or a cloudy day, followed by a hot night, leaves the gum soft on the surface; then when a bit of bark of an insect lights upon the globule it becomes glued to it and remains there, a permanent blemish to the gum.

Spruce sap ceases to flow after July 15. From that time on until the picker comes in March the bags of globules of pitch harden and sweeten until they turn to flinty lumps of fragrance. How the process is carried on or what chemical changes take place in the ripening no one may know. It is a secret of the spruce trees.

In May and June the gum drops are yellow and viscid and have a disagreeable, pungent taste, much like that of turpentine. A month later the drops are hardened on the surface and the yellow color has given place to amber-like transparency. The masses are still sticky inside and the turpentine taste has been succeeded by an intense bitterness. Under the sun of August the crystals of gum show pink and amber tints on the surface and have a vitreous lustre when broken open. Most of the sticky centre has hardened, but the pungent taste remains.

In September and October the pink lines grow deeper and are streaked with brown; by December every particle of pitch has become hardened, while from New Year's Day to March the frosts and ice take out the bitter taste and leave in its place that matchless aroma which gum chewers prize. Then the gum picker has his harvest time.

CHECKS PROTESTED, HE DIES

New Jersey Salesman Driven to Suicide by Financial Trouble.

ORANGE, N. J., March 21.—Despondent over money matters, Joseph M. Zaremba, a salesman, of Bloomfield, committed suicide to-day at the Red Mill Inn, in Springfield Avenue, Irvington, by inhaling illuminating gas. His body was found by an employe of the hotel, who went to call him.

Zaremba had been stopping at the inn for the past two days, and was apparently in good spirits when he went to his room last night. Papers found in his possession, together with protested checks, indicated that he was in financial trouble. He leaves a widow and one child.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The Western storm has moved rapidly northeastward across the Central Valleys and Great Lake region, and the centre is now passing down the St. Lawrence Valley. This storm has been attended during the last twenty-four hours by extensive precipitation over the eastern half of the country, and severe gales, record-breaking velocities, being reported at many stations.

The following are some of the highest winds reported: Detroit, 88 west; Buffalo, 88 southwest; Toledo, 84 west; Cleveland, 64 southwest; Dayton, 60 southwest; Louisville, 52 southwest; Pittsburgh, 52 southwest, and Scranton, 52 south.

The cold wave is advancing eastward directly in the wake of the storm, and the temperature has already begun to fall as far east as the Appalachian Mountains, the cold reaching these westwrd as far as the Rocky Mountains.

Fair weather is indicated for the eastern half of the country Saturday, with falling temperature in the Atlantic States. The weather in the Rocky Mountain region and adjoining sections will become unsettled Saturday, with rain or snow, and these conditions will advance east over the Central Valleys and West Gulf region during Sunday, as a disturbance in the Pacific Coast region moves eastward.

Winds along the New England Coast will be brisk to high westerly: Middle Atlantic Coast, brisk west; South Atlantic Coast, moderate variable.

Steamships departing Saturday for European ports wil have brisk westerly winds, with generally fair weather, to the Grand Banks.

FORECASTS FOR TO-DAY AND SUNDAY.

Eastern New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania—Faira nd much colder Saturday. Sunday, probably increasing cloudiness; brisk to high west winds, diminishing.

Southern New England—Fair Saturday and probably Sunday; much colder Saturday; brisk to high west winds.

Western New York—Snow flurries and colder Saturday. Sunday, probably fair, with probably rising temperature; diminishing west winds, becoming variable.

Northern New England—Generally fair Saturday and Sunday; much colder Saturday; brisk to high west winds.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at midnight, taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1912.	1913.		1912.	1913.
3 A. M.	27	56	4 P. M.	27	60
6 A. M.	25	56	6 P. M.	28	59
9 A. M.	25	53	9 P. M.	25	63
12 M.	27	60	11 P. M.	23	61

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 56; for the corresponding date last year it was 28; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 39.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 55; at 8 P. M. it was 51. Maximum temperature, 64 degrees at 12:30 P. M.; minimum, 47 degrees at 8:30 A. M. Humidity, 93 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 93 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 30.07 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 29.87 inches.

EDUCATION NOTES.

There are vacancies for adults in the following classes of Murray Hill Evening Trade School, 232 East Thirty-eighth Street: Furniture finishing, carpentry, electrical and sign painting. When this school was opened last Fall by the Board of Education classes were formed which, it is said, did not prove popular, and they were, in consequence, discontinued. The space which was allotted to those classes has been added to that used by the popular classes. This has made a few vacancies in each of the classes above named, and it is hoped that they will be filled when the school opens on Monday at 7:45 P. M., after the Easter holidays. Tuition and all the material used are free, and each teacher is a practical man in his line. Classes will be in session from 8 to 10 P. M. on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday evenings.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

City.

There are more than 3,000 applicants for the examination for patrolman. The receipt of applications has been closed. One hundred of the applicants are negroes.

The eligible list for structural draughtsman, Grades C and D, has been promulgated by the Municipal Civil Service Commission. The examination was held on Nov. 11, 1912. The salary is from $1,500 to $1,800 a year. There is one vacancy. The list, which is good for four years, is as follows:

Hubert J. Ord, 86.10; Moses Herman, 82.90; John Woods, 82.90; William W. Havens, 82.90; John A. Tuck, 82.40; Carlton H. Chapin, 81.10; Otto Wolpert, 80.80; Franklin E. Belmont, 79.90; Arthur Kraus, 79.70; Alfred Brady, 79.70; Leo C. Devery, 79.70; Arnim Boehm, 79.70; Julius Erckmann, 79; Charles N. Whinston, 79; Benjamin Ruzin, 78.70; Alfred A. Scheuer, 77.90; John H. Tomlinson, 77.70; Joseph Harber, 77; Jacob B. Rothborg, 76.70; Israel Rubenstein, 76.20; Henry J. Nurick, 75.10; Harvey F. Reed, 74.80; Walter S. United States.

The United States Civil Service Commission announces an open competitive examination at the New York Custom House for mechanical engineering inspector, for men only, on April 16 and 17, to fill vacancies as they may occur in this position in the Quartermaster Corps of the army, at salaries ranging from $1,200 to $1,500 a year, and vacancies as they may occur in positions requiring similar qualifications in any branch of the service. The duties of the position require the appointee's residence at or near the location where the work is being prosecuted; but as necessities of the service demand, he may be detailed to serve in any part of the United States as required. It is desired to obtain eligibles for both permanent and temporary employment. Competitors will be examined in the following subjects, which will have the relative weights indicated: Mathematics and practical calculations, (comprising arithmetic, algebra, to and including problems involving quadratics, geometry, elementary problems in mechanics, use of slide rule, and the correct working out of results from given formulae,) 10; drawing, (involving a working knowledge of machine construction and ability to draw neatly to scale,) 20; theory and practice of mechanical engineering, (comprising theory, nomenclature, practical computations, and the construction and operation of simple machines, including oil-burning apparatus,) 35; training, experience, and fitness, 35.

The duties of inspectors will consist in requiring contractors to carry out the plans and specifications prepared by the War Department for power plants, or similar work being done under contract with the War Department.

At least three years' practical experience in mechanical engineering work is a prerequisite for consideration for this position. Graduation in engineering from any technical school of recognized standing will be considered equivalent to one year of this period. Students of mechanical engineering about to graduate, or just graduated, and others who have filled minor positions and who have not received a suitable practical training, will not be considered for this position. Statements as to training, experience, and fitness are accepted subject to verification. Age, twenty years or over on the date of the examination. Paper and tracing linen will be furnished by the commission, but competitors should provide themselves with a Kent's or similar handbook of formulae, a slide rule, a T square, a drawing board not less than 18 inches square, india ink, and all necessary drawing instruments. If the use of handbooks is allowed it will be so stated at the time of the examination, which is open to all men who are citizens of or owe allegiance to the United States and who meet the requirements.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

San Francisco Investor Buys St. James Building for $3,500,000 — Interesting Cherry Street Deal — Hunt's Point Sale in Bronx—Long Island and Westchester Activity.

Additional evidence of the Broadway activity just north of Twenty-third Street was shown yesterday by the announcement of the sale of the St. James Building on the southwest corner of Broadway and Twenty-sixth Street for about $3,500,000. Rumors have been current for several weeks of a change of ownership, and the deal has now been confirmed by the brokers, Irvin R. Simon and Horace E. Simon. The property has been sold by the Pittsburgh Life and Trust Company, which acquired it about seven years ago.

The buyer is Julius Wolff of San Francisco. He took title in the name of the St. James Building, and gave back a mortgage for twenty-one years for $3,000,000, the conditions of which possess some unusual features. For the first year the interest is 2 per cent., the second year it is 2½ per cent., and for the next five years 3 per cent. Then follows a seven-year period at 3¼ per cent., while the last seven years will bear interest at 3½ per cent. In addition, the mortgage is to be reduced by $25,000 on June 1, 1914, and on Aug. 10, 1914, by another $25,000, and semi-annually thereafter until February, 1934, the sum of $25,000 is to be paid off, leaving at maturity $1,025,000. The assessed value of the property is $2,030,000.

Besides the St. James Building, a sixteen-story structure, the sale also includes the small building at 1,129 Broadway in the middle of the block, between the St. James and the Townsend Building on the Twenty-fifth Street corner.

The St. James Building replaced the famous hotel of the same name. It was erected about ten years ago. The plot is irregular, the Broadway frontage, including the smaller building, being 116.5 feet and 109 on Twenty-sixth Street. Directly opposite is the new twenty-story building on the site of the Café Martin, and which was recently sold by the Johnson-Kahn Company. On the block to the north is the Hotel Victoria, owned by the Johnson-Kahn syndicate and which will soon be torn down for another twenty-story commercial structure.

Old Cherry Street Plot Sold.

Mary Owen Borden and William H. Owen, Jr., have sold to a client of Ruland & Whiting, the property, 143 Cherry Street, a five-story and basement building on a lot 25 by 60, and 412 to 416 Water Street, a two-story building on a plot 75 by 60, adjoining the rear. After extensive alterations, the buyer will occupy the property.

This is the first sale of 143 Cherry and 416 Water Street since 1828, when it was acquired by the late Henry S. Brooks, founder of Brooks Brothers, clothiers. In 1843 he increased his holdings by purchasing 414 and 414 Water Street. The property at present is under lease to Joseph Edwards & Co., who have been tenants there for more than fifty years.

Builders Buy Harlem Apartment Site.

Williams & Grodginsky have purchased from the Van Hoesen estates the plot 100 by 71.10 on the south side of 111th Street, located 245 feet west of Fifth Avenue.

The buyers will improve the property with an apartment house similar to the one they recently completed on the plot adjoining on the east.

Resale of Rockville Apartment.

The Rockville, a six-story apartment house, with stores, at 247 and 251 Audubon Avenue, has been sold by the Lawyers Mortgage Company to the Brown-Weiss Realties.

The house occupies a plot fronting 108 feet on Audubon Avenue and 100 feet on 177th Street, and was secured by the sellers at foreclosure sale a week ago, as plaintiffs, on a bid of $165,000.

Deal in East Ninety-fifth Street.

Edward Polak has sold for T. Montgomery to a client the three-story brick factory, 338 East Ninety-fifth Street, 100 feet west of First Avenue, on a lot 25 by 100 feet.

Tenement Property Sold.

Polizzi & Co. have sold for Nathan Kohn to a client the five and one-half story tenement 517 East Thirteenth Street, on a lot 24.10 by 103.3 feet.

Another Hunts Point Sale.

The Henry Morgenthau Company has sold to a builder for immediate improvement the plot 87.6 by 105 feet, on the easterly side of Fox Street, 150 feet south of Barretto Street, in the Hunts Point section of the Bronx. With the exception of eight lots on Southern Boulevard, this is the last of the vacant property in the original purchase of the Morgenthau Company in the Hunts Point section.

The whole of this property between Intervale Avenue, 163d Street and the Boulevard has been, or is being built upon. When the Morgenthau Company purchased this property, about eight years ago, it was farm land, and there were no streets or public improvements of any kind. Within that short time a city of over 25,000 population has been created.

Bronx Borough.

Heller & Sussman, in conjunction with H. Schmuck, have sold for Albert Adami, 699 Prospect Avenue, a three-family house, with all modern improvements, on a plot 25 by 100 feet.

The A. F. Realty Company and A. S. Buhre have sold a plot on the west side of Virginia Avenue, about 200 feet south of Westchester Avenue.

Slawson & Hobbs have sold for Ida L. Terwilliger to a firm of builders the vacant plot 111.04 by 147.95, at the northeast corner of Grand Avenue and West Fordham Road.

Richard H. Scobie resold for George Daiker a plot of about four and one-half lots on the west side of Southern Boulevard and Crotona Parkway, between 176th Street and Fairmount Place, to P. J. Dwyer, who will erect two five-story high-class apartment houses with stores. The plot has a frontage of 120 feet on Southern Boulevard.

Brooklyn.

Frank A. Seaver has sold a plot of about ten lots on the northeast corner of Fourth and Ovington Avenues, for Henry Schwanewede and Sarah Abrams to Ernest O'Dell.

Long Island City.

The Cross & Brown Company have sold for Mary Jane Davis, Arthur L. Taylor, attorney in fact, a lot on the east side of Crescent Street, 175 feet south of Bridge Plaza, to the Country and City Corporation, who are to immediately improve the plot for the Knickerbocker Gold Foundry Company.

Long Island.

The Windsor Land and Improvement Company sold at Valley Stream to T. Patter and D. Silver each a plot, 40 by 100, on Beverly Parkway; to N. Morrison and J. Doran, a plot, 40 by 100, on Grove Street; to P. Bizel, a plot, 85 by 101, on Corona Avenue and Argyle Street; to F. Blumenfeld, a plot, 100 by 100, on Grove Avenue and Remsen Street; to M. Leahan, a plot, 60 by 128, on Emerson Place. The same company sold at Floral Park to J. Askworth, a plot, 104 by 142, on Floral Parkway.

New Jersey.

Samuel Kraft sold for the Hasbrouck Park Land Company, at Hasbrouck Park, to William R. Hanson, Martin Gricow, and Fred Bahr, plots 50 by 100 each on Williams Avenue; to Albert Starr, a plot, 100 by 100, on Terrace Avenue; to John Struner, a plot, 50 by 100, on Hasbrouck Avenue, and to Mrs. Bertha Kaill, a plot, 75 by 100, on Prospect Avenue.

Edward P. Hamilton & Co. have sold for Frederick Pring his residence on Irving Avenue, South Orange, to a client for occupancy. It is one of several new dwellings erected on what is known as the Hitch estate.

Leases.

Pease & Elliman have leased to the United Cigar Stores Company for L. Napoleon Levy for a term of years the store at the northwest corner of Seventh Avenue and Thirty-eighth Street. Also for Brill Brothers for a term of years to a client the store at 45 Cortlandt Street.

The Cross & Brown Company has leased for Ducasse & Co. to C. E. Fleisbach the entire building at 549 and 551 West Fifty-ninth Street for a term of years.

The Duross Company has leased the store 104 Seventh Avenue to Jacob Falk. Also the store 238 West Fourteenth Street to Elizabeth M. Salley, and the store at the southwest corner of Seventeenth Street and Marginal Street for Daniel Pollock to Louis Nachbar.

Slawson & Hobbs have leased the following dwellings: 256 West Seventy-third Street to R. E. Woll for J. A. Knapp; 781 West End Avenue for the Bronx Club to C. V. Kaplan; 65 West Seventy-third Street for the Clark Estates to Dr. Morris; 320 West Seventy-eighth Street for Florence H. Fitch to J. A. Campbell.

Pease & Elliman have leased for Mrs. Jane Sanders of Albany, N. Y., and Mrs. Katharine S. Rose of Denver, Col., 1,185 and 1,187 First Avenue, northwest corner of Sixty-fourth Street, 50 by 100, to Louis A. Sheinart for a long term of years for a moving-picture theatre.

Apartment Leases.

Pease & Elliman have leased an apartment in the Osborne, Fifty-seventh Street and Seventh Avenue, to Henry W. Rogers; sublet an apartment at 104 East Fortieth Street for Paul Chalfin to Mrs. Thomas McKee, and a large apartment at 555 Park Avenue, the new building at the southeast corner of Sixty-second Street, now being erected by Edgar A. Levy, to James Gayley, former President of the United States Steel Corporation. This building will not be ready for occupancy until next August.

$400,000 Office Building.

Plans have been filed for a sixteen-story office building on the northeast corner of Madison Avenue and Thirty-third Street, having a frontage of 49.5 feet and a depth of 95 feet. It will comply with ancient restrictions, in that it will be built five feet back of the building line, which will prevent any likelihood of litigation. The first three stories will be of granite, with brick and terra cotta trim. The entrance hall will be of Botticino marble, trimmed with Formosa marble. On the roof will be a studio. A feature will be fireproof vaults on each floor. The Burrell Realty Corporation, of which Loton H. Slawson is President, is the owner. William H. Gompert is the architect and has placed the cost at $400,000.

Realty Notes.

The Manhattan Club has decided not to move uptown and has secured an extension of the lease it held of its present clubhouse, facing Madison Square and the Garden, at the southeast corner of Twenty-sixth Street and Madison Avenue. The extension, secured from the executors of the Lawrence Jerome estate, owners of the property, is for three years from May 1, 1914.

Daughter Subpoenaed for Grand Jury—District Attorney Denies Second Arrest Is Planned.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., March 21.—The Plymouth County authorities were reticent to-day about the case of Mrs. Jennie May Eaton, in jail charged with poisoning her husband, Rear Admiral Joseph G. Eaton. Nevertheless, in opposition to statements made yesterday by State Officer Scott, District Attorney Barker stated this afternoon that he saw no possibility of a second arrest.

"We have no reason to suppose," he explained, "that any one besides Mrs. Eaton was concerned in this case. Although we have not discovered where the poison was bought, no suspicion that any one else bought it or had anything to do with it exists. I wish to set at rest any unjust suspicion that may have arisen against any other person."

However, the Eaton home still is under close surveillance No one is permitted to enter it or to have any talk with any of the tenants. A constable walks up and down before it all night and all day. State Officer Scott and Deputy Sheriff Condon spent the greater part of the day in a new search of the house and in questioning Mrs. Eaton's daughters. No room nor piece of furniture was overlooked.

A subpoena was served on Miss Dorothy Ainsworth, the younger daughter, by Deputy Sheriff Hersey, directing her to appear before the Grand Jury, which has been called for a special session in Plymouth next Monday. The result of the Grand Jury investigation will decide whether Mrs. Eaton shall leave the jail a free woman at once or be held for a trial Judge and jury in June.

It is considered evident from the guarded way in which the officers talk and the admitted fact that they do not know where the poison was bought that there is little evidence in their hands outside the chemist's report that Admiral Eaton died from arsenical poisoning. They profess to be sure it was not a case of suicide. They will not say when or in what manner or under what circumstances the poison was taken by the Admiral.

The "mysterious woman witness" at Tuesday's session of the inquest was recognized to-day. She is Miss Anna C. Rooney, a trained nurse, living in Brookline. Miss Rooney is a graduate of an insane hospital training school as well as of a medical institution. She was called into the Eaton home in Assinippi last June by Mrs. Eaton to watch the Rear Admiral. Mrs. Eaton introduced Miss Rooney as a friend. The Admiral apparently never suspected the purpose of the nurse's visit.

Mrs. Eaton, it is assumed, thought a nurse trained in insanity cases might observe something about the Admiral to warrant an application for a commitment of the naval officer to an asylum.

Charles B. Brooks of 25 Brimmer Street, this city, a cousin of Admiral Eaton, said to-day:

"I received on March 7 a letter from Admiral Eaton in which he asked me to dispose of valuable papers and books and other data for him. I immediately turned the letter over to District Attorney Barker, thinking it might have bearing on the case. Any good citizen would do this.

"I believe this letter will disprove any assertion that is made tending to show that the Admiral was of unsound mind and committed suicide. The letter is a splendid example of the work of a well-balanced mind. It proves conclusively, I think, that the Admiral not only was sane, but also was of tranquil mind when he wrote it."

Although Mr. Brooks refused to state the exact contents of the letter, which was written two days before the Admiral's death, he permitted it to be inferred that Eaton had complained of not having enough money, despite the fact that he was drawing a pension of $4,000 a year. It is said the Admiral's financial affairs were in a desperate state, that he frequently had to borrow money for car fare, and that he had not been able to meet the expense of Miss June Ainsworth's wedding, which was $300.

From her cell to-day Mrs. Eaton sent a cheerful message to her two daughters in Assinippi. She wrote:

> I want to tell you all not to worry about me. Don't cry and take on over it, for it will all come out all right in a few days. Look after Mother and don't allow her to become excited, and be sure to take care of everything on the place.

Mrs. Eaton appeared to be very optimistic. She accustomed herself to the routine of the jail quickly. She asked that work be given to her, but that was not permitted. She, however, was permitted to take exercise in the corridor.

The talk between Admiral Eaton and his physician, Dr. Joseph Frame, a few hours before the Admiral died will have an important bearing, it is understood, on further investigation of the case. What passed between the two is guarded carefully. Mrs. Eaton is accused of having given arsenic to the Admiral on March 7. On the afternoon of that day, Dr. Frame, who had been called to the house to attend Mrs. Eaton's mother, Mrs. George Harrison, also examined the Admiral. The retired officer died that night.

It is stated that Dr. Frame saw the Admiral only once, yet after his death made a report to Medical Examiner Osgood which resulted in an order that the body should not be embalmed until a post mortem examination had been made. It is hinted the physician was influenced not only by the condition of his patient, but also by what Eaton told of his illness. In a formal statement to-day, District Attorney Barker took notice of intimations that Dr. Frame delayed making known the suspicious nature of the Admiral's illness. Mr. Barker said:

"Any suggestion that Dr. Frame's conduct in the Eaton matter was open to criticism is unwarranted. Quite the contrary. He is entitled to the highest commendation for his course throughout the whole matter. I say this knowing the circumstances."

Horace T. Fogg, Treasurer of Plymouth County, asked to-day for an additional $15,000 county tax levy to defray the expense of the Eaton case.

It is understood the will of the Admiral will not be offered for probate until the investigation of his death is finished. He left little more than insurance of $6,000. A will in which both stepdaughters are named as beneficiaries is in the custody of Judge Pratt, who was the Admiral's counsel. The Judge has said he knows nothing of a later will reported to have been made about six months ago. Miss Ainsworth has said that her stepfather once intimated he had made a second will in which she alone was mentioned.

LOWELL, Mass., March 21.—The standard of the Kearsarge Association of Naval Veterans of Boston was placed on the grave of Admiral Joseph G. Eaton, U. S. N., retired, in Oakland Cemetery, Dracut, this morning by Joseph Varnum of Dracut, a nephew of Admiral Eaton's first wife. The blue flag bears the letters of the association.

Mrs. Eaton Wrote for Help.

CHICAGO, March 21.—Incidents bearing on the relations between Rear Admiral Eaton and his wife came to light here to-day in a letter written by Mrs. Eaton on March 15, 1911, to Marshall E. Gallion, an attorney here, who acted for her in her divorce proceedings against her first husband, Daniel Henry Ainsworth, in 1906. The letter, written from Assinippi, Mass., and referring to the Admiral, runs:

"The condition of this poor man is dreadful; he is so much worse, and I fear to stay here this Winter. My leaving him alone with my mother while I was in Chicago made him wild. If I had a doubt of his insanity, which I never had, it would be removed quickly, as he is so much worse, and what am I to do?

"He is a sick, helpless, and sad old man, and it goes to my heart. He relies on me entirely. I am his eyes, brain, and life, and, still, how can I stay here alone and let him kill me and poor little innocent Dorothy, and he will do it and then wonder where we are. He is the most dangerous, subtle maniac, and still I have no way of escape.

"Public opinion, his rank, his age, and the navy are all against me. All doctors are too diplomatic and afraid to attempt to deal with him as he should be dealt with, and it will cost me hundreds of dollars to get evidence, and take a year at least to get it in shape, and then I probably will be outwitted by sentiment and pity.

"He is the most dangerous man you could meet any place.

"Please help me. What shall I do? What do you advise me as the most practical? After Friday I shall be here alone with him. Is it wise? He is so subtle and sly. Would you get a common, cheap woman, just to have some one with me? Of course, such a person would not be able to detect his trouble; only a person drilled to brain trouble or familiar with insanity.

"If he is as dangerous as I believe, I must protect my life, so find out whether you can get me a woman who is a Sherlock Holmes in criminal insanity and of highest moral character and of highest standing with doctors and alienists, one whose word would go. If she said he was insane they would do the rest. Please see what you can do for me, and advise me."

MRS. EATON'S STORY TRUE.

She Did Nurse the Admiral's First Wife in Last Illness.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Confirmation of the story that Mrs. Jennie May Harrison Eaton, who is under arrest in Plymouth, Mass., on a charge of murdering her husband, Rear Admiral Joseph Giles Eaton, nursed Admiral Eaton's first wife in her last illness was obtained here to-day. The first Mrs. Eaton was stricken with cerebral apoplexy, caused by hardening of the arteries, when residing in Washington in 1906. The present Mrs. Eaton—Mrs. D. H. Ainsworth, she was then—was an undergraduate nurse, and was assigned to the case by Dr. Fremont Smith of George Washington University Hospital.

Mrs. Eaton No. 1 died on Feb. 6, 1906, after an illness of six days. The body was buried in Glenwood Cemetery on Feb. 7, but was exhumed on May 11, 1906, at Admiral Eaton's direction and taken to Mrs. Eaton's home in Massachusetts for permanent burial.

At that time Mrs. Ainsworth was not divorced from her first husband. In the trouble that surrounded him after his second marriage, Admiral Eaton said he had supplied Mrs. Ainsworth with money at times, and that he had learned afterward she used it in procuring a divorce from Ainsworth. He had supposed, he said, that she was a widow. She denied his assertions.

Mrs. George Harrison, the present Mrs. Eaton's mother, was employed here in the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey. Ainsworth worked for a time as a book agent in Washington. Nothing has come to light to show the truth of the statement that he was a clerk in he United States Senate. Mrs. Ainsworth also was a book agent, and afterward began to prepare herself for becoming a trained nurse. She had two sisters, Mrs. Gertrude Edwards, who still is living, and Miss Daisy Harrison, who was married to a man Helphenstine, and died when the family was living in Washington.

DRUGS IN AINSWORTH SUIT.

Record Shows Present Mrs. Eaton Got Divorce Because of Them.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, March 21.—Friends in this city of Mrs. Jennie May Harrison Eaton, widow of the Rear Admiral, stated to-day that Mrs¼ Eaton had not undergone in her second marriage her first experience with liquor, drugs, and poisons, and asserted that her first husband was wrecked and their happiness was ended through the use of drugs on his part. Circuot Court records filed in Chicago after the proceedings of July, 1906, when Mrs. Eaton, then Mrs. Daniel Henry Ainsworth, obtained a divorce from her first husband, disclose that her grounds for divorce were based on the alleged use of morphine, absinthe, and liquors by her husband, who, it was charged, frequently threatened her life and the lives of her two children, Lucia Jane and Dorothy H. Ainsworth.

SOLDIERS IN HOME DEMAND MORE HASH

Gen. Grubb Says He Provided It, Not Knowing They Had Removed Their False Teeth.

MEAT TOO "HARD" FOR THEM

Increase in Bill for Food at Kearny, He Says, Was to Provide Properly for the Men.

The investigation of the New Jersey Home for Disabled Soldiers at Kearny, N. J., was continued yesterday before a joint legislative committee in Newark. Josiah Stryker, Assistant Attorney General of State, is in charge of the investigation, which was begun when a bill now before the New Jersey Senate was introduced to legislate the present Board of Managers out of office and have their successors appointed by the Governor rather than by the Supreme Court.

Gen. E. Burd Grubb, Superintendent of the home for the last two years, was put on the stand yesterday. He is charged with extravagance.

"How was it," asked Mr. Stryker, "that the bill for food increased $10,000 in one year?"

"My object," answered Gen. Grubb, "has been to put all appropriations in the bellies of the men."

"How about the $2,950 spent for extra food for the Superintendent and officers?" he was asked.

"Those records were prepared by interests unfriendly to me. I should like to go over them again."

Mr. Stryker then questioned Gen. Grubb as to the specific food used by the officers.

Q.—Did you have lobster at the officers' table? A.—Yes; I thought that I was entitled to it.

Q.—Was whisky permitted to the officers? A.—Why not? The State supplies it to the inmates of the home.

Q.—Did the men pay for it? A.—Why should they?

Gen. Grubb testified that when he became Superintendent in March, 1911, he found a poor grade of whisky used in the hospital.

Q.—How do you know that it was a poor grade? A.—I tasted it. I went to the hospital one day and took a swallow. I spit it out. It wasn't fit to rub a soldier's leg with.

Q.—Do you consider $3 a gallon for whisky expensive? A.—Not particularly.

"Have you received any complaints about the food?" asked Mr. Stryker.

"Yes," answered Gen. Grubb. "Five men came to me one day and said: 'We want more hash.'

"'Why?' I asked. They said they couldn't eat hard meat. I replied that I ate it. 'But you have good teeth, General,' they replied, and, opening their mouths, showed themselves to be entirely toothless.

"'Very well,' said I, 'you shall have more hash.' I learned later that they had removed their false teeth before entering my office.

When questioned about the testimony given yesterday that spoiled meat had been served, Gen. Grubb said he had not heard of it.

"The Soldiers' Home at Vineland is very similar to this one, is it not?" Mr. Stryker asked.

"Scarcely similar," was the rejoinder. "They have 283 widows there. Thank God we have none here."

Gen. Grubb said that the expenses per man were lower at the Home for Disabled Soldiers than at the Morris Plains Lunatic Asylum. "But surely," said Mr. Stryker, "the men at your institution don't require the same amount of attention as lunatics?"

"They certainly do," was the answer. "I don't know where you could find so many cranks."

Gen. Grubb was questioned about the $70 spent for telephone, telegraph, and cable messages. He admitted sending a cablegram of congratulation to his brother in London at the expense of the State, but said he thought this was allowable.

The investigation was then brought to a close after Wayne Parker, President of the Board of Managers, had told the investigating committee of the board's efforts to cut down expenses.

KIDNAPS "TIDDLE-DE WINKS."

Mrs. Nuckols, Divorced, Climbs Convent Wall with Her Daughter.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 21.—W. Preston Nuckols, well known to race-track followers, told his lawyers to-day that his young wife, from whom he was divorced, had kidnapped their youngest daughter Muriel, 4 years old. The parents testified in the divorce suit that they knew this child by the pet name of "Tiddle-de-Winks."

Under an agreement between the lawyers when the decision was given against Mrs. Nuckols, in the divorce suit, the two children, Muriel and Preston, were put in a Catholic convent in Merion, Penn. Mrs. Nuckols obtained the right to see the children at stipulated intervals.

Mrs. Nuckols, while talking to Muriel on Saturday, ran to the wall of the convent suddenly with the child, and climbed it before the sisters could stop her. A fast auto awaited her there, and in it she rode with the child to the Pennsylvania Railroad station, where they disappeared.

KILLED WALKING IN SLEEP.

Sister of Woman Fatally Burned Slept Herself to Death.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, N. J., March 21.—While walking in her sleep early this morning Miss Mary H. Miller set fire to her clothing with lighted matches and was mortally burned before she was aroused. She was found by members of her family at the head of the cellar stairs at their home, 224 Belvidere Avenue. She died at 10 o'clock this morning.

L. W. Miller, father of the dead woman, departed from the house to go to work at 5:30 o'clock. At that time every other member of the family was in bed. It was supposed that not long afterward Miss Miller arose in her sleep and started to go to the cellar, lighting her way by striking matches. Before she died Miss Miller regained consciousness, but she was not able to tell the details of her accident.

Two months ago Miss Miller climbed out of a second-story window in her sleep and fell to the ground, injuring her back. Her sister, Miss Louisa Miller, died on Feb. 2 after having slept continuously for a week.

The Clean Way
The Comfortable Way
The Convenient Way—West

One of the first things noted by the traveler on the Lehigh Valley Railroad is the delightful cleanliness of everything in the train. Every mile of the Lehigh Valley roadway is stone ballasted and dustless, Lehigh engines burn sootless anthracite exclusively.

Every feature of the Lehigh equipment is designed to give the greatest measure of bodily ease. The appointments of sleepers and parlor cars are luxuriously comfortable. Added to these is the convenience of the hours at which Lehigh Valley trains are scheduled to leave and arrive. Lehigh Valley service begins when you buy your ticket. Railroad and sleeping car tickets may be ordered by telephone and will be delivered to home, hotel or office.
